NEW WORLD RECORDS IN OLYMPIC MEET

Meredith Makes New Mark in 400-Meter Run—All Discus Throws Beaten.

ROW OVER AMERICAN RUNNER

Disqualification of Young for Alleged Jostling of Braun Causes Feeling—United States 29 Points Ahead.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, July 12.—As the world's greatest athletic meeting is drawing to a close and finals are the order of the day, the excitement and attendance are showing a corresponding increase. This afternoon, despite the broiling sun, which makes the memory of New York even on the hottest day seem cool, the Stadium was packed to the utmost limit, and thousands were unable to gain admittance.

There is no mistake about the sportsmanlike spirit of Sweden. It is of the first quality, and woe betide any athlete who tries to obtain an advantage by the aid of a mean trick. Naturally, they want their own men to win, but that does not prevent them from applauding a fine performance, irrespective of the nationality of the contestant.

By far the greatest demonstration which has been seen at the games thus far took place this afternoon, when the hoisting of three Swedish flags showed that their men had made a clean sweep in the modern pentathlon. Such a thing had never occurred before, and to celebrate the event 30,000 persons went almost mad for joy. They yelled and laughed and waved thousands of yellow and blue flags, finally sobering down under the strains of the national anthem, most impressively sung.

Not to be outdone in the matter of sportsmanship, the American contingent, as soon as quiet was restored, started the riot of enthusiasm again by giving their famous cheer in honor of Sweden. The whole incident seemed to reach almost the limit in the series of remarkable demonstrations which have been witnessed here in the past ten days.

American Lead Still Grows.

This has been another successful day for the Americans, who won 12 points to Sweden's 9 and England's 2. The United States total is now 100 points, against 71 for Sweden and 53 for Great Britain.

The Americans succeeded in getting four men out of the five qualifying for the final in the 400-meter run, which takes place to-morrow, and would have had a fifth but for an unpleasant incident occurring in the last heat of the semi-finals.

Donald B. Young and Ira Davenport, with Hans Braun, the German champion, were in the heat, and a hot race was expected. After a couple of false starts the men got away splendidly, Young taking the lead. From a good seat in the press stand it seemed to be about 200 yards from the start that Braun tried to pass Young too closely, causing the latter to use his right elbow on the German's ribs effectively. Anyhow, Young finished first and Braun second, with Davenport easing up at third place.

The judges immediately disqualified Young in favor of Braun. The irony of the case is that Davenport could easily have taken second, but did not try when he found Young winning. As only the winner starts in the final, Braun is the lucky man.

Mike Murphy, Matt Halpin, and a host of others are of the opinion that Young was wrongfully disqualified, saying that Braun tried to cut in too close and Young was justified in doing what he did.

When asked by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent for his version of the affair, Young said:

"I was leading at the turn when Braun tried to get in front of me and pass. At that time I was two yards ahead. Braun shoved me in and at the same time hit me, and threw himself out the more. I ran just as square as I knew how."

A few moments later Braun told me his side of the story.

"It was a most deliberate foul. I was leading when Young tried to pass me inside, pushing me out of my stride."

In fairness to both, one ought to say that I never saw Braun shove or hit Young, but I did see him cut in too close, and saw Young elbow him away.

There was some talk to-night of the Americans protesting against the disqualification.

Meredith's New World's Record.

While one is on the subject, Melvin Sheppard of New York had bad luck in losing to Meredith, but after being a long way behind, he made a great sprint, and if he had had two yards further to go would surely have beaten the wonderful young Philadelphian. This may be said without detracting from Meredith's performance, wherein he made a new world's record by running the 400 meters in 48 seconds.

Nevertheless, with fliers like Reidpath, Lindberg, Haff, and Meredith in the final to-morrow, the event looks like another clean sweep for the United States.

As was expected, America got all three places in the 110 meters hurdles. Unfortunately, Nicholson of the University of Missouri, who was expected to win, fell at the ninth hurdle. But Kelly of Los Angeles was equal to the occasion, and finished first, with Wen-

GOV. BLEASE IS ACCUSED.

Charges of Graft for Pardons and for Letting "Blind Tigers" Run.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 12.—The feature of the hearing by the investigating committee from South Carolina this afternoon proved to be the submission of evidence taken by the dictograph to the effect that Gov. Cole Blease of South Carolina had received various sums of money for pardoning criminals. This evidence was gathered by dictograph and in personal conversation by William J. Burns's detectives.

It was charged that Gov. Blease got $500 for blocking railroad legislation, $200 for killing the first attempted dispensary legislation, $3,000 for pardoning Rudolph Rabon of Charleston, and that he obtained a share of the protection money from "blind tigers" in Charleston.

W. J. Burns went on the stand to-night, and said that he would prefer that the committee hear the records he would have to submit in the case. He charged that these records would show that Blease had been grafting both as Governor and as Senator.

He said he was not particularly anxious to have any one placed behind the bars, but that he would be glad to have his men testify before Grand Juries. The dispensary graft dates back to 1904, and it is alleged that Blease, while a member of the House of Representatives, later while State Senator, and still later while Governor accepted graft. The case has created great interest throughout the South, as no Governor in Dixie since the days of the carpetbag Magistrate, following the civil war, has been charged with such a serious offense as Blease is facing.

The hearing goes on to-morrow morning.

PLOT TO BURN WHARVES.

Striking Dock Workers, Despairing of Success, Foiled in Their Scheme.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—Port Captain James Withey of the Southern Pacific Line accidentally dropped last night into a water-front saloon. He was behind a screen and heard a group of striking Spanish dock workers outline in detail their plans for burning the wharves.

As a result to-night, and every other night as long as the dock workers' strike lasts, additional policemen and guards will be on duty along the river. The strikers are believed to be growing desperate as the failure of their struggle becomes more evident. Ships of all the lines affected have been leaving practically on time, and there has been little trouble in loading them and in getting full crews.

The Federal authorities are now investigating the conspiracy to fire the docks. The number of men involved is not known, but it is believed the plans were well laid and awaited only the word of the leader to be put into execution. The Federal Grand Jury took up this morning the charges of mutiny against the forty-five seamen who struck on the Antilles, and it is evident that the authorities intend to sift the matter to the bottom.

It is stated that as soon as the steamer Creole returns from New York on Wednesday, her commander, Capt. Jacobs, will make affidavits charging mutiny against the forty-three men who struck on this vessel while under contract to take her back to New York.

COMBINED OIL SHARES $1,000.

New Record Price Every Day Now—Nothing Like It in Trust Times.

There have been substantial rises during the last week or so in some of the former subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which have brought the quotation for the old shares "all subsidiaries on" up to daily new high records, the offered price yesterday reaching the $1,000 mark. The quotation was $980 bid, offered at $1,000, although it was said that it was doubtful if any stock could be obtained at the nominal "offered" quotation.

This price compares with the high-record price before the dissolution of $842, reached in 1901, and the low price of $390, made Nov. 4, 1907. At the time of the announcement of the Supreme Court decision in 1911 the price was $675.

Figured at yesterday's offered price, the 983,383 outstanding shares of the old company may have been said to have appreciated in market value by $319,599,475, or nearly three and one-fifth times the par value of the company's capitalization.

John D. Rockefeller was the owner of 244,145 shares of the old company, and, on the basis of the rise since the dissolution, it might be said that the Supreme Court decision has added some $79,000,000 to the market value of that part of his fortune tied up in Standard Oil stock.

STANDARD OIL'S MODEL CITY.

Wood River, Ill., to be Made a Regular Spotless Town.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12.—After three years of planning, the Standard Oil Company, which owns the refinery at Wood River, Ill., is ready to realize its dream of a model city for employes.

After the refinery was in operation, the men who operate it began to settle near the works, and the village of Wood River was founded. But another settlement beat the Standard Oil village to the name, and it was necessary for it to be known as East Wood River until it absorbed the other town. Then a fine school building and model homes were erected. Next plans were made for electric lighting. Thursday, S. A. Beach, Village President, announced that an agreement had been reached with the objectors, and that the assessment roll for sewers and a water system will be confirmed in a few days.

The contracts will be let at once, and both systems will be in operation by Christmas. This ends a struggle of three years, which has been made by the Standard Oil Company to make its town habitable.

ODD SENATORIAL "SCENERY."

All Kinds of Evening Dress Worn at Dinner to Bradley.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Something new in the line of evening dress was seen to-night at a dinner given to Senator Bradley of Kentucky at the New Willard Hotel by C. Lee Cook of Louisville. Thirty Senators attended.

Mr. Bradley appeared in pure white from head to foot, including even a white necktie. Senator Lodge dazzled the beholders in a crash suit, with unpressed trousers that were about a foot too long for him. Senator Bristow was the only man in full evening dress and he seemed worried by it. He came in with Senator Brandegee, who was tastefully attired in a pepper-and-salt sack suit.

Senator John Sharp Williams may be regarded as an exception to the rule, for he wore something that might have passed for evening dress in Natchez about the year 1830. It was one of those rolling-collared things that used to go with Daniel Webster's plug hat. Senator Bailey wore black, but not evening dress. The main garment was what our ancestors used to call a "Prince Albert."

This dinner may start the long-expected era of dress reform.

EMPIRE DEMOCRACY TO COMBAT MURPHY

Independents Organize It to End His Control and to Carry State for Wilson.

SENATOR ROOSEVELT LEADER

It Will Elect Delegates to State Convention and Fight for an Anti-Men-of-Wax Ticket.

A new insurgent movement is about to be started in the Democratic Party in this State. Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt, who won fame as leader of the insurgents who defeated Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy in his purpose to send William F. Sheehan to the United States Senate, is its moving spirit. The new insurgent organization, which is to be known as the Empire State Democracy, will be State-wide in its purposes and membership. A preliminary meeting for purposes of organization has been called for next Wednesday evening at the Hotel Belmont.

The first step toward the formation of the Empire State Democracy was taken at an informal meeting recently held in this city. Most of the men who attended this meeting were members of the Democratic League who had gone to Baltimore as an independent and unofficial delegation to protest against the attitude taken by Tammany Leader Murphy and a majority of the New York delegates, whom William J. Bryan in one of his statements characterized as "wax figures." At this meeting the following circular letter was drafted and ordered sent to independent Democrats throughout the State:

Empire State Democracy,
31 Nassau Street, New York City.
July 11, 1912.

Dear Sir: After the nomination of Gov. Wilson at Baltimore an informal meeting of Democrats was held in New York City to discuss the coming Presidential campaign and the question of the leadership and principles of the Democratic Party in the State of New York. It was the unanimous sentiment that the present methods of leadership in this State are utterly destructive of future party unity and success; that unless the present stupidity, arrogance, and selfishness give way to an intelligent regeneration of the Democracy a State ticket capable of being elected will not be nominated and the success of Wilson and Marshall will be placed in jeopardy.

It was, therefore, decided that the time is at hand for Democrats to organize permanently for the purpose of securing intelligent and representative leadership for their party and of doing all that is possible to elect Wilson and Marshall.

It is proposed to call this organization the Empire State Democracy. It is proposed that every effort be used, first, to elect delegates to the State Convention who will be representative of their districts and not "men of wax," and, further, to nominate a State and legislative ticket which will truly represent the Democrats of the State.

A meeting will be held at 8:15 P. M. at the Hotel Belmont, Forty-second Street and Park Avenue, New York City, on Wednesday evening, July 17, 1912, to discuss the above matters more fully. We hope very much that you will be able to be present, as we feel that the occasion is of great importance.

Very truly yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,
Temporary Chairman.
LAWRENCE B. DUNHAM,
Temporary Secretary.

There is a great deal of unrest among the Democrats both up State and in this city, and there is more opposition at this time to Murphy's continued leadership than there has been since he first became the great power in the State that he is at present, according to well-informed Democrats.

Several Gubernatorial booms hang in the balance, too. Gov. Dix is looking to Mr. Murphy for a renomination. State Engineer John A. Bensel, whose relations with the Tammany boss are of the most intimate and cordial nature, is an active candidate, too, and it is known that the Tammany chieftain would be happy if there was any way in which he could force the nomination of Bensel and drop Gov. Dix, who is not looked upon as an asset by the powers that be in the Democratic State organization. Bensel would run as an up-State candidate, as he has established a legal residence in Albany.

Neither Gov. Dix nor Mr. Bensel is looked upon with favor by the independent Democrats who have been so heavily penalized by the decree of the Tammany boss ever since he found that they had the temerity to think and act for themselves and their constituents without consulting him as head of the "organization," in official positions they have held. The independents are bitter against Gov. Dix because he has given them no encouragement in their fight against Tammany control up State. Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Conway, so far, is the only candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination in the field whose candidacy appeals in the least to the independents.

To men who are closely in touch with those forming the inner circle in Tammany Hall it is no secret that there exists a lot of anti-Wilson feeling among the "faithful." They look upon the New Jersey Governor as being not of the fold, and the fact that he has been rather active in combating bosses does not help him any with Tammany Hall.

So far there has been little activity displayed by the Democratic organization in this city, aside from the raising of a couple of campaign banners. The first indication of life at Democratic State Headquarters came yesterday, when a circular letter was sent out to the County Chairmen asking them to report at once to State Chairman George M. Palmer the true conditions in their districts, and what should be done to add vigor to the campaign. Here is the circular letter:

Headquarters Democratic State Committee,
State of New York.
New York, July 12, 1912.

We write that we may learn thus early political conditions in your section, and be able to start an active campaign at once. We have a united party. We must have well directed activity from now on through the campaign.

The Baltimore Convention was the largest and most representative, the fairest and most democratic of any held in our time. Every delegate had full opportunity by voice and vote to express his convictions. No trickery or fraud was practiced; no steam roller methods were indulged. The nominees and platform were the unanimous choice and expression of the delegates; the candidates have shown conspicuous ability in public positions, and their readiness to respond to the needs of the people. Each nominee is a Progressive, yet not radical or destructive. The platform adopted fairly expresses the Progressive thought and spirit of the time.

It is confidently believed that Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall will be elected by large majorities. Yet as members of the working committees of our party, we must keep in mind that success is the result of eternal vigilance. Our duty then is patent. We must at once begin an earnest and well directed campaign. This the people expect, and in this they must not be disappointed.

Will you at once ascertain the sentiment of your district as to political conditions and communicate the same to us here without delay? Also write us any suggestions you have to make with reference to the conduct of a vigilant, aggressive, and successful campaign.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE M. PALMER, Chairman.

State Chairman Palmer has not spent any considerable time at headquarters since the Baltimore Convention. It was said there yesterday that he would not be in town until Tuesday, when he will appear at State headquarters for the purpose of calling a meeting of the State Committee to name Presidential Electors and issue the usual call for the State Convention.

HOTEL ASTOR GUESTS JAILED AS THIEVES

HAD $14; PRICE A $500 RING

Necklaces Missed from Dreicer & Co. Found on One of Them—How Detectives Trailed Them.

A young man wearing a shepherd plaid suit and carrying a silver-headed snakewood cane walked into the jewelry store of Dreicer & Co., 560 Fifth Avenue, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, followed by another man less distinctively dressed, but carrying the same kind of a cane. The one in the shepherd plaid asked to see some rings. While he was finding fault with the rings that were shown to him, his companion asked another clerk what he had in the way of necklaces.

None of the necklaces suited. The wearer of the plaid, however, found a ring that he consented to take, if the setting were changed. He gave his address as the Hotel Astor, and the change in the setting was promised. No deposit was asked of him.

A minute or two after they had gone, the clerk who had been showing the necklaces found that two of them were missing. A report was sent at once to Police Headquarters, and Policeman Bloss, who was standing on a corner near the jewelry store, was called in. A few moments later Detectives Ditsch and Regan from the East Fifty-first Street Station arrived. They took the description of the men from Policeman Bloss and learned that the two suspects had walked up Fifth Avenue, swinging their silver-handled canes.

The detectives hailed the nearest unoccupied taxicab and ordered speed. Along Fifth Avenue the detectives found no pair answering to the description of the men wanted, and the taxicab was turned into Central Park. They rode up and down the park for half an hour without getting a trace of the suspects. At the Central Park Menagerie they stopped the machine and went inside. A man with a shepherd plaid was there with a friend. Both had canes. They were looking at the animals. The detectives remained in the menagerie, watching the men closely, but taking care not to excite suspicion. Finaly they saw one take a necklace out of his pocket and weigh it in his hand.

This made the detectives sure they had the right men, but they decided to follow them further instead of making the arrest at once. A few minutes later the suspects left the menagerie. They walked out of Central Park, headed downtown, and entered the jewelry store of Schumann's Sons at 765 Fifth Avenue. The detectives waited outside a few minutes and then walked in, too. They found the pair looking over a tray of rings and placed them both under arrest.

They protested vigorously at first. Detective Ditsch asked the man who had been pricing rings how much money he was carrying. He answered that he had $14 in his pocket.

"Well, how do you come to be buying five-hundred-dollar rings?" asked Ditsch.

"I don't see why I should tell you anything," answered the prisoner, and they refused to talk any more till they arrived at the East Fifty-first Street Station. A search of one of the men brought to light the two necklaces, one of platinum and pearls, worth $375, and the other of platinum, worth $42.

They described themselves as Herbert Hass, 31 years old, of 4,240 Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, a clerk, and Sidney Crisler of 226 North Hamilton Street, Chicago, also a clerk. Hass sent a telegram to his mother at 4,240 Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, telling of his arrest.

The two men said they were living at the Hotel Astor. The detectives found they had registered there four days ago under the names of C. H. Curfew and Al Palmer, both of Denver. Their rooms were searched and their wardrobes found to consist of thirteen stylish suits of clothes.

ALARM FOR G. W. VAN NEST.

Clubman Failed to Keep Appointment, and Brother Fears.

Dr. Ryley Van Nest, residing at the Murray Hill Hotel, last night reported to the police the disappearance of his brother, G. Willett Van Nest, an attorney, of 20 Broad Street, who makes his home at the University Club. He said that his brother, who is 60 years old and in feeble health, had left the Tuxedo Club in Tuxedo Park early in the day with some important papers to keep an appointment with him at 20 Broad Street.

Dr. Van Nest waited there all day, but his brother did not turn up. He then telephoned to the Tuxedo Club and made certain that his brother had left there. At the University and Union League Clubs, where he is well known, no one had seen the attorney, and the doctor feared he might have succumbed to the heat.

Dr. Van Nest reported his brother's disappearance to Lieut. Frank at the East Fifty-first Street Station just before midnight, and later called at the station to say that he had happened to remember that his brother possibly had gone to Buffalo directly from Tuxedo Park instead of stopping in New York. He did not tell the Lieutenant his reason for thinking this, nor did he order the search for his brother stopped.

Detective Oswald accompanied Dr. Van Nest to his hotel and remained there while he called two friends of his brother on the telephone in Buffalo. Neither of them had seen the missing man, according to Oswald, and Dr. Van Nest was ready to abandon the hope that his brother was in that city.

LIES, CRIES LORIMER, OF KERN'S CHARGES

"IN HIS DEATH AGONIES"

Kern Thus Dismisses Lorimer's Attack—Illinois Senator Also Assails Roosevelt, Taft, and Bryan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Senator Lorimer of Illinois continued to-day his final defense of his right to a seat in the Senate, and turned his guns in many directions in denial of the charges made against him. He bitterly assailed Senator Kern of Indiana, challenging him to prove the charges he had made; but Senator Kern, who was absent when Lorimer made his onslaught, only had this to say afterward: "I will have no colloquy with Senator Lorimer. He is in his death agonies."

Col. Roosevelt and President Taft were also targets of the Senator at the beginning of his speech to-day, his delivery again being marked by dramatic gestures as he strode the centre aisle of the Senate Chamber. Mr. Bryan was likewise not spared. Finally, Mr. Lorimer endeavored to tear to pieces much of the evidence submitted against him before the Senate Investigation Committee. The Senator was so far from concluding his defense that another recess was taken until to-morrow.

It is reported to-night that Senator Lorimer's vigorous defense has won him at least one vote—that of Senator Tillman of South Carolina. The old "pitchfork" Senator has taken no part in the debate, nor in any of the proceedings of the Senate, except to vote, for the past two years, since he was stricken with partial hemorrhage of the brain. But he has listened to every word from Senator Lorimer, and has been observed sobbing at intense passages in Mr. Lorimer's declaration.

It is understood that Senators Smoot of Utah and Crane of Massachusetts are making every effort to save Mr. Lorimer and the day-by-day recesses are understood to be made in an attempt to gain time to effect some compromise. They are making little headway, however, as every man so far has voted for Mr. Lorimer has either left the Senate or failed of re-election. The impression still is that Mr. Lorimer will be ousted, though by a narrower margin than was expected before he began his defense.

Kern Ignores Attack.

Mr. Lorimer's attack upon Senator Kern, former Democratic candidate for Vice President, seemed to daze the Senate. Mr. Kern was out of the chamber at the time—just as yesterday Senators Kenyon of Iowa and Lea of Tennessee absented themselves before Mr. Lorimer turned his fire on them. But Mr. Kern came in later, and much surprise was then felt that he made no attempt to defend the statements that he had made and which Mr. Lorimer denounced as "lies."

The accused Senator declared that Mr. Kern had repeatedly in his speech misstated the record, and that his misstatements were of a part with his whole attitude in the case. He had attended only about 80 per cent. of the committee's hearings, said Mr. Lorimer, and half of them, after answering to his name, he had left. All Senator Kern's questions at the committee's investigation, he charged, were aimed simply to muddle the record. Mr. Kern had even gone so far in his unfairness, said Mr. Lorimer, as to object to the defense being allowed sight of the list of witnesses to be summoned, though that was the unfailing practice in court.

"I am no lawyer," shouted Mr. Lorimer, turning from one side of the chamber to the other, "but I appeal to the judgment of Senators who are lawyers. Mr. Kern is a lawyer himself and must know the common practice. Think of it, Senators, think of such a man—and he a Senator of the United States—sitting on that committee as my judge and at my reasonable request muttering to his colleagues: 'No, no, no,' so that it did not appear in the record."

Mr. Lorimer then read from Mr. Kern's speech many statements, all of which, Mr. Lorimer declared, were absolutely in controversion of the record of the case. A statement in particular he denounced as a malicious falsification was one in which Mr. Kern, referring to a sum of $2,500 as "Lorimer money," declared there was much other testimony in the record to prove that it was spent in Mr. Lorimer's behalf.

Kern as "Holier Than Thou."

"These are the lies," shouted the accused Senator, throwing Mr. Kern's speech on his desk, "with which this reformer has assailed me. Day after day he has sat here, with his holier-than-thou expression, and I have watched him, wondering. But his falsifications exceed all bounds. Senators," he called in a gesture of appeal, "if any one can find in the record a single word to show that these statements of Mr. Kern are true and not miserable lies I will walk out of this chamber at this moment and never try to re-enter it. The Senate will be relieved of the embarrassment of a vote."

He waited for an answer, but there was none, while Chairman Dillingham of the committee nodded his head approvingly at the references to what the record contained.

When Mr. Lorimer declared he had observed the Indiana Senator's "holier-than-thou expression" he said he had been reminded by it of the Pharisee who in prayer had said, "I thank Thee, O Lord, that I am not like other men, and especially this publican."

The Illinois Senator also took exception to Mr. Kern's reference to his associates, among whom were Hinky Dink Kenna, "Manny" Abrahams, and John Broderick.

Two of these men, he said, had been referred to by the Indiana Senator as "saloon keepers," but that reference had been stricken out of the printed record, "whether because the Senator had been chasing a ghost at Baltimore and was afraid to meet the saloon men" he could not undertake to say.

The reference to Kenna afforded Mr. Lorimer another opportunity to defend his friend of boyhood days.

"None," he said, "has lifed up more of the fallen or helped more people on to a better life than Michael O. Kenna, and I like to call attention to his charity."

Mr. Lorimer denied Senator Kern's statement that he had given jobs to several witnesses "I challenge Mr. Kern to produce any testimony to justify the statement," he cried.

Mr. Lorimer repeatedly challenged the minority members of the Investigating Committee, Senators Lea, Kern, and Kenyon, against whom most of his attack was directed, to refute his statements or to produce proof of the charges they had made in their speeches.

"Let's have it, if it is the truth," he cried, "and if not let's denounce it as a misstatement of the record and a deliberate effort to mislead the Senate."

Fling at Roosevelt and Taft.

The accused Senator's attack on Col. Roosevelt was based on testimony given

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 12.—State Senator Isaac E. Huffman, convicted of accepting a bribe from Frank H. Smiley, a Burns detective, employed by the Ohio Manufacturers' Association to entrap members of the last Legislature, was sentenced to-day to three years in the penitentiary. He is the third legislator convicted on dictograph evidence.

Asked by the Court if he had anything to say, he replied:

"The whole thing is politics. I was in the way and had to be removed, that some one else might gain greater honor. Politics have been entirely responsible for the false charges against me."

COUNT TELLS OF HOUSEWORK

German Nobleman Suing for Divorce Recites His Activities at Home.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—This was Count von Neindorff's day in Judge Rector's court in the divorce suit of his wife. Yesterday the Countess testified she had never told her husband an untruth, and she appeared in the light of a model wife. The Count had refused to buy her a sewing machine because of her ill-health. She insisted she wanted one because she desired to make her own clothing.

The Count testified that he swallowed pride of birth, got down on his knees and scrubbed the floors, polished the piano, and swept the various rooms.

On many occasions the Count prepared breakfast, and when his wife was ill in bed he carried breakfast to her, he asserted. Although the Countess charged him with never having permitted her to buy her clothing, he did not deny that he had often selected the goods.

HIGHWAYMEN GET GIRL'S $225

She Had Drawn It from a Bank to Pay Off Her Father's Workmen.

Several men at work in a lumber yard at Thirty-sixth Street and First Avenue heard a girl scream yesterday afternoon, and then saw two men run through the yard and disappear. The lumbermen were so excited that they let the men get away.

Presently Miss Josephine Theis, daughter of Patrick Theis, proprietor of a stone yard adjoining the lumber yard, appeared. She told the men that she had been returning from the Garfield National Bank with $225 to pay off her father's workmen, when two men sprang at her. One grabbed her handbag containing the money and the other jostled against her so that she could not catch the thief. Then both ran.

Miss Theis reported the robbery to the East Twenty-second Street Station and detectives started in search of the men, of whom Miss Theis gave a good description.

Late last night Detectives Finn and Nelson, attached to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, arrested a man who gave his name as James Courtney, 22 years old, a laborer, of 235 East Thirty-fourth Street, on suspicion of being one of the men who robbed Miss Theis.

DENY MASCAGNI ELOPEMENT.

ROME, July 12.—The departure of Pietro Mascagni, the composer, from Rome, which was heralded as an elopement after a quarrel with his wife, has aroused intense interest.

Mascagni's friends offer the explanation that he left here accompanied by his daughter to find a retired place where he might finish the work on the new opera "Parisina." It is generally believed that he has gone to Paris.

PARIS, July 12.—Mascagni arrived in Paris on Monday night. He was accompanied by a man. No woman was with him. He left again Tuesday night for some destination unknown. Signora Mascagni has not reached Paris.

La Liberté's Rome dispatch says that Mascagni left for Paris with a prominent Italian woman and was followed by his wife.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, said to-day that he had not seen Mascagni, but was under the impression that the composer would probably visit the poet D'Annunzio, who is now at Acarchon, for the purpose of discussing the new opera on which they are working together.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO TWO DIE OF HEAT

Italians Perish Under a Tree in a Storm Confined Mostly to the Bronx.

NO RELIEF IS IN SIGHT

Clear Weather with High Temperatures Foretold for To-day and To-morrow—Many More Prostrated.

The heat wave relaxed its grip upon New York slightly yesterday, but when night fell the Weather Bureau held forth no promise of further relief. Not even the temporary comfort of rain was afforded the city, and there was no rain in sight, according to the forecast, which predicts fair weather for to-day and to-morrow.

There were prostrations in all the five boroughs yesterday, and two deaths due directly to the heat were added to the list, making a total of twenty-eight lives lost in the present period of hot weather.

Two other deaths were recorded yesterday in which the weather played its part, for two men in the Bronx were struck by lightning. An electric storm of great violence visited that part of the city in the late afternoon, the thunder crashing over the New York Zoological Park even when the sun was shining brightly. Little rain accompanied the thunder. The bolts were not heard in lower Manhattan at all, and where the lightning did its deadliest work there was no rain at all.

This was in Highbridge. Promptly on the sound of the whistle seventy-five laborers dropped their work in the evening on an apartment house which the Hammer Realty Company is putting up on the west side of Ogden Avenue, between 170th and 171st Streets. Most of the men trooped down to the office of the company to be paid, but eight of them slipped across the street to shift their overalls in the shade of a great oak tree that spreads its branches over the vacant lot there. Two of these eight men, Peter Romona, 45 years old, of 307 East 117th Street, and Ignazzio Cavalieri, 35 years old, of 3,025 Grand Concourse, perched themselves on a boulder that made a comfortable seat in the shade of the tree. It was while they were sitting there at 5:10 o'clock that the district was startled by a thunder bolt that shook the houses all around. Those standing near the tree were still talking last evening of a ball of fire that dropped down into the group of workmen, of smoke rising from the tree, and then the discovery of the two men on the ground, one dead and the other dying. The other six fell back, stunned for the moment, but unhurt.

And to the wonder of the neighborhood the blackened back of Romona bore in red the outline of a tree, as though it was a picture of the oak tree under which the men were killed. Dr. McSweeney, who came with the ambulance from Fordham Hospital, testified to this. Both men were badly burned, and Cavalieri's side was ripped open by the force of the bolt, while his shoe was torn from his foot. He lived for a few moments, long enough for a priest to reach him and administer the last rites.

Among those who gave way to the heat yesterday was Thomas A. Dorgan, the cartoonist, who is known best by his signature, "Tad." He was at work in the art department of The New York American when he was overcome, and removed to the Volunteer Hospital. He had not been well for several days, and although it was said last evening that his condition was not dangerous, it will be some time before he can take up his work again.

Here is the list of deaths and prostrations prepared by the police:

Kansas Records 104 Degrees.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The hottest place in the country to-day was Concordia, Kan., where the mercury climbed to 104. The entire Central West sweltered. The hundred mark was reached at Wichita, Kan., and the temperature fell only two degrees short of that in Omaha, Fort Worth, Texas, and Fort Smith, Ark.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., July 12.—Six more deaths were reported from the heat here to-day, although the maximum temperature was 90 degrees, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The minimum temperature was 70 degrees, at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Burned to Death by the Weather.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12.—An autopsy on the body of William Eckle, who died after being prostrated by the heat Wednesday, revealed an unusual condition. Surgeons say that the man literally burned to death internally and decomposition of his vitals had set in long before death. The heart, brain, liver and lungs were all withered and dried. Eckle's temperature remained at 108 1-5 degrees

SENATE MAY PUT OFF CANAL BILL DEBATE

Great Britain's Protest Has Made a Prolonged Discussion Certain Now.

CONGRESS WANTS TO QUIT

Root Against Free Passage for Our Ships—Knox Outlines British Protest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—In Congress to-day a wide difference of opinion exists as to the course to pursue in the face of Great Britain's representations about the tolls on the Panama Canal. The measure has already passed the House and is before the Senate, and leaders of the upper chamber are in favor of rushing it through at once, according to the original programme. But the raising of the treaty phase of the subject promises prolonged debate, and in many quarters there is a feeling that the whole subject should go over until next session.

Judge Adamson, Chairman of the House Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce, is preparing a joint resolution embodying the routine provisions of the bill, but expressly reserving the debatable points for the Winter session. But it is not certain yet that he will present it. At any rate, the next move rests with the Senate, and Senator Brandegee, Chairman of the committee in charge of the bill, is inclined to proceed at once, though in committee he voted against the free toll provision, on the ground that it would be in violation of the treaty.

That is also the position of Senator Root, who will speak in explanation of his position at an early date. An international question—like all questions involving the Constitution—always brings on interminable discussion in the Senate, and it is the fear of an indefinitely prolonged session, and not the fear of difficulties with Great Britain, that actuates most of the Congressmen who favor delay. Members of the House, even more than the Senate, have set their hearts on getting away in the next few weeks, and they want no continuous matter to interfere.

Though the vote in the Senate Committee was overwhelmingly in favor of free tolls, showing that members of both parties supported the provision, it gets its most important support from the regular Republicans. That makes the position of Mr. Root and Mr. Brandegee the more unusual. The question of geography counts, however, and the position of Mr. Lodge, Mr. Crane, and others favoring the free passage of American ships through the canal is explained in part by the number of their constituents who are interested in shipping.

Secretary Knox sent the following letter to Senator Brandegee:

Department of State, Washington,
July 12, 1912.

The Honorable Frank B. Brandegee,
Chairman Committee on Interoceanic Canals of the United States Senate.

Sir: I have the honor to bring to the knowledge of your committee the fact that a communication, dated the 8th inst., just received from the British Chargé d'Affaires, indicates that the attention of the British Government having been called to various proposals from time to time made for the relieving of American shipping from the payment of tolls on vessels passing through the Panama Canal, that Government has studied carefully those proposals and the arguments in support of them, with a view to the bearing thereon of the provisions of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain of Nov. 18, 1901.

The communication sums up the proposals mentioned as (1) To exempt all American shipping from tolls. (2) One to refund to all American ships tolls which they may have paid. (3) One to exempt from the payment of tolls American ships engaged in the coastwise trade, and (4) one to repay to the last-named class of American ships tolls which they might pay.

The communication indicates it to be the opinion of his Britannic Majesty's Government that to exempt all American shipping from tolls would involve an infraction of the treaty, and expresses the opinion that there would be no difference in principle in charging tolls only thereafter to refund them and remitting such tolls altogether. The opinion is expressed that the method of charging but refunding tolls, while perhaps complying with the letter of the treaty, would contravene its spirit.

The communication admits that there is nothing in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to prevent the United States from subsidizing its shipping, but claims that there is a great distinction between a general subsidy, either to shipping at large or to shipping engaged in any given trade, and a subsidy calculated particularly with reference to the amount of use of the canal by the subsidized lines or vessels. Such a subsidy, if granted, would not, in the opinion of his Britannic Majesty's Government, be in accordance with the obligations of the treaty.

With respect to the proposal that exemptions shall be given to vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, the communication states that it may be that no objection could be taken if the trade should be so regulated as to make it certain that only bona fide coastwise traffic, which is reserved for American vessels, would be benefited by this exemption, but that it appears to his Britannic Majesty's Government that it would be impossible to frame regulations which would prevent the exemption from resulting in a preference to American shipping and consequently in an infraction of the treaty.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
P. C. KNOX.

A strange feature of the present tangle is that the people who are now fighting for the free passage of American bottoms are those who in great part were responsible for the treaty. A member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, who was serving at the time the treaty was ratified, said he had no idea it meant the prevention of free passage to American ships, consequently he thinks no violation of the treaty is involved in the proposed legislation.

Senators point out that the Suez Canal, though neutralized to an extent that makes its fortification unnecessary, levies no tolls on English bottoms. In the same way Austria-Hungary pays as a subsidy to Austrian ships their Suez Canal tolls, and many other nations do the same. The exemption of American ships is in effect simply a subsidy, and it is on that ground that it is justified.

LONDON, July 12.—Commenting on the protest of the British Government in connection with the regulations of the Panama Canal, The Pall Mall Gazette to-day contends that Great Britain is in the responsible position of having to uphold not only her own rights, but those of the whole world, which depend on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

At the same time, The Pall Mall Gazette recognizes the entire reasonableness of the American Convention that, having supplied the capital and the skill to build the canal, Americans have the right to every consideration not conflicting with the treaty obligations of the United States.

GERMANS THINK IT USELESS.

Don't Believe British Protest Will Have Any Effect.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 12.—The German press dignifies the Anglo-American Panama Canal incident as of the highest importance. It is believed here that the controversy was directly provoked by the Canadian Cabinet Ministers now in London.

The Lokal Anzeiger, frequently the organ of German official opinion, says to-night:

"England bases her protest, not unjustly, on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, but it is altogether improbable that the protest will be successful. All such protests on the part of England in the past have gone up in smoke. All paper agreements to the contrary, America has not hesitated to fortify the canal in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote pact."

The Lokal Anzeiger adds that there is no foundation for reports emanating from America to the effect that Germany has already protested against the discrimination in favor of American shipping through the canal.

ARBITRATION BOARD MEETS.

Organizes to Prepare to Take Up Locomotive Engineers' Demands.

The arbitration board appointed to take up the demands of the locomotive engineers on fifty Eastern railroads organized yesterday at a preliminary meeting in the offices of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, 2 Wall Street. The committee include Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio; P. H. Morrissey, former Grand Master of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and now President of the Railway Employes and Investors' Society; Oscar S. Straus, Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of The Review of Reviews; Otto M. Eidlitz, former President of the Building Trades Employers' Association; Charles H. Van Hise, President of the University of Wisconsin, and Frederick N. Judson, a member of the St. Louis bar.

The railroads appointed Mr. Willard and the brotherhood appointed Mr. Morrissey to represent the railroads and the engineers, respectively, on an arbitration board of seven to pass on the demands of the engineers, the two to appoint five more arbitrators to complete the board of seven within a certain time, failing in which the other arbitrators were to be appointed by Chief Justice White, Judge Knapp of the Commerce Court, and Charles P. Neill, United States Commissioner of Labor. These three had finally to complete the appointments on the board as at present constituted.

Mr. Straus was selected yesterday as the Chairman of the board, and it was decided that the hearings would begin on Monday at the Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach. The hearings will be public. The appointment of the Secretary was left to Mr. Straus, Mr. Willard, and Mr. Morrissey.

dell of the New York Athletic Club and Hawkins of Portland, Ore., just behind him. Powell of England was fourth.

Much cheering greeted the hoisting of the trio of American flags, the Swedes returning the previous compliment and giving some extras on their own account.

Finn Leads with the Discus.

An unexpected winner turned up in the discus throw in the person of Taipale of Finland, who made a record of 45.21 meters, (148 feet 3.9 inches.) Trouble had been expected from the Finns, but Niklander was the man that was feared. The Americans won second and third places, Byrd of Adrian College throwing the discus 42.32 meters, while James H. Duncan of New York made a record of 42.28. All three contestants beat the Olympic record, and Taipale's throw is a new world's record.

In the modern pentathlon, which is a combination of cross-country running, swimming, fencing, shooting, and riding, Lieut. Patton of the United States Army finished fifth. If he had shown the same form in shooting as in the rest of the events, he might have won, but, curiously enough, although shooting was thought to be his strongest card, he fell down badly in that competition.

In the heats of the 3,000 meters run for teams, Sweden, Great Britain, and the United States were the winners. Apparently the latter, with its star performers, should have no difficulty in winning the final to-morrow.

The one feature of the heats was the great race for first place between Kiviat of New York and Hans Kohlemainen, the Finnish wonder. The latter came in first, but the next four men were Americans, who thereby took the heat from Finland.

A. L. Gutterson of the University of Vermont showed magnificent form in the running broad jump. His best performance, which was his first jump, was 7.60 meters, (24 feet 11.2 inches,) which beat the Olympic record and narrowly missed reaching the world's record.

Second place went to Bricker of Canada, with a jump of 7.21 meters, and third to Aberg of Sweden, who made a record of 7.18 meters. Allen, United States, was fourth, with a jump of 6.94 meters.

Matt Halpin, the manager of the American team, in summing up the results of the day's events, said:

"We expected to win the hurdles, but did not figure that Wendell would get a place. That was a nice surprise.

"In the broad jump Gutterson proved what a wonderful jumper he is, while several of our boys, including Thorpe, cleared around 23 feet.

"In the discus throw we went up against something better than we had.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Young was wrongfully disqualified in the 400 meters race. It was absolutely Braun's fault. He tried to get in too close."

An exciting incident occurred on the Finland this morning. Tules Anderson, a seaman, fell overboard, and when he appeared to be about to sink for the third time a German visitor who was staying aboard, Baron von Friedheim, let himself down the side of the vessel by means of a rope and effected his rescue, much to every one's relief.

In sliding down the rope Baron von Friedheim, who was dressed, and even wore a monocle, blistered his hands badly, but he got great applause for his brave act.

Only a few days ago another seaman was drowned under similar circumstances.

SAYS YOUNG ELBOWED TWO.

Correspondent Calls It Regrettable—Another Says It Isn't the First Case.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, July 13.—Referring to the incident at Stockholm whereby Donald B. Young, the American, was disqualified after winning his heat of the 400 meters flat race, the correspondent of The Daily Mail cables:

"The incident was most regrettable. Young disqualified himself by elbowing Braun, the German, at the first bend. Then he elbowed the Englishman, Soutter, at the second, and again at the third.

"In judging incidents of this sort the nature of the track must be borne in mind, but there was no doubt as to the opinion of the crowd, which kept up a storm of hisses from start to finish, and greeted Young's disqualification with shouts of applause. A conference of the judges followed the race, and eventually the decision was given in favor of Braun.

"No one can regret the incident more than the other American runners, who won their heats on their merits.

"Seedhouse of Great Britain was also somewhat jostled in his heat."

The Daily Mirror, whose Stockholm reports have been marked by anti-American animus, says:

"This is the first instance of disqualification, but not the first that could have been made. It is a pity that speed is not the qualification for Olympic honors.

"If they do not run the final in strings with the four Americans and Braun in it, the German will not have the ghost of a chance, no matter what his speed."

Alleged Foul Causes Great Feeling.

(By Associated Press.)

STOCKHOLM, July 12.—The American athletes won two more events at the Olympic games to-day. It was another clean sweep in the 110-meter race, Fred W. Kelly, University of Southern California, taking first place, while Wendell and Hawkins, also representing the United States, ran second and third. Albert L. Gutterson of the University of Vermont captured the running broad jump with a new Olympic record of 24 feet 11.2 inches, which is barely half an inch below the world's record.

In addition the United States finished second and third in the discus, fifth in the modern pentathlon, and won places in many heats in other events, the finals of which are yet to be decided.

Including to-day's events, the score of the countries contesting in the Olympic Games is as follows:

United States	100	Italy	9
Great Britain	53	Hungary	8
Germany	26	Australia	9
Finland	23	Russia	3
France	19	Greece	3
South Africa	11	Belgium	3
Denmark	11	Austria	3
Norway	10	Holland	2

Thus far the Stockholm games have been a festival of good feeling and good sportsmanship in which there have been only a few minor clashes. An incident occurred in the last heat of the semi-finals of the 400-meter race this afternoon, however, which for a time stirred up a small tempest. It was almost a repetition of the clash at the London Olympics, when the American, Carpenter, was disqualified for fouling an Englishman in a similar sprint.

This time it was a collision between Germany and the United States. Donald B. Young, an Amherst student, running under the colors of the Boston Athletic Association, finished two yards in the lead in this race but was disqualified and the heat given to his fast Teuton rival, Braun, who crossed the line second.

The alleged foul took place on the first turn, fifty yards from the start. There was keen rivalry between the Americans, Young and Ira N. Davenport, University of Chicago, and Braun.

Young took the lead on the jump. When the mix-up occurred, Young, Braun and a Swedish contestant were bunched. Young had the pole, the Swede was as close as possible behind, on the inside, with Braun on the outside. They were so close together that they seemed to rub shoulders. The German sprinted into the lead and then apparently slowed up. Young gave him a push with his right arm.

The Judges made an attempt to stop Young at the next turn but without success. The runners rushed on, while the German spectators hooted the American, and the American Manager, Matt Halpin, argued with the Judges.

After a fierce contest Young won the heat, but was quickly disqualified for interference.

Disqualify Braun, Also, Said Young.

The Amherst boy, who is regarded by all who know him as a gentleman and a clean runner, took the matter much to heart. In explanation of the matter he said, before the Judges' decision was announced:

"Braun was pushing me back. The only thing I could do was what I did, or be pushed into the Swede. If they disqualify me, they certainly should disqualify Braun. I would not kick so much if they disqualified both of us."

Braun asserted that he was fouled, but did not say that the foul was intentional. He commented thus:

"Young pushed me. I could have won the race if I had not been touched. Davenport also got too close to me on the last turn and rubbed me. In a short race like that a man gets so tired that the smallest push may make him lose two yards."

M. C. Murphy, the trainer of the American team, speaking of the incident, said:

"The German tried to cross in front, and Young shoved him back. Young had a perfect right to do what he did. You can't cross in front of a man that way and jostle."

James E. Sullivan, the American Commissioner, and Evert J. Wendell of the International Olympic Committee explained to-night that in the committee's opinion it was the business of the Judges to govern such matters, and that protests should not be made except in the case of a palpable violation of the rules. The Americans thought that the Judges' ruling in this case was mistaken, and that Braun obviously was the runner who should have been disqualified, although they did not question the Judges' good faith.

Evert Wendell, a veteran of the cinders, said:

"A runner taking the lead of another must pass far enough away not to touch him. The decision is a mistake, because every runner knows that Braun, under the circumstances, should not have passed close enough to Young for Young to be able to touch him."

A curious feature of this incident is that while everybody thought Young was disqualified for fouling Braun, it was later reported that the Judges thought Young had interfered with the Swede, Serling, and had disqualified him for such interference. Both Young and Braun supposed the disqualification was due to interference with Braun.

Finn Captures the Discus Throw.

The morning started with a fine performance by the Finn, A. R. Taipale, in the final of the discus throwing with the best hand. He beat with his throw of 45 meters 21 centimeters (148 feet 1½ inches) not only the Olympic record of 136 feet 1-3 inch made by Sheridan in Athens in 1906, but also the world's record of 145 feet 9½ inches established by James H. Duncan on June 2 this year. R. L. Byrd's throw of 42 meters 32 centimeters (138 feet 9 5-8 inches) and James H. Duncan's throw of 42 meters 28 centimeters (138 feet 8 3-8 inches) also exceeded the standing Olympic record.

The victory of Taipale surprised the Americans, for they had depended upon winning this event.

The United States soon had her turn, however, when the megaphone announced that Gutterson of the University of Vermont at his first attempt at the running tempt at the running long jump, which was long jump, had beaten the Olympic record.

Nine American runners qualified for the semi-finals of the 400-meter flat race, and when these were being run off the record was broken twice, first by Charles D. Reidpath who with his time of 0:48 7-10 knocked five-tenths of a second off the standing Olympic record of 0:49 1-5.

This new record was, however, not to stand long, as James E. Meredith of Mercersburg Academy whittled it down by another seven-tenths of a second. He covered the distance in 0:48.

In the 3,000-meter team race the first heat was won from the Finland team by the United States team, consisting of Abel R. Kiviat, Irish-American Athletic Club; Tel S. Berna, Cornell University; Norman S. Taber, Brown University; Louis Scott, South Paterson Y. M. C. A., and George V. Bonhag, Irish-American Athletic Club.

There was a splendid fight between Kolehmainen and Kiviat, who for seven laps kept at the Finn's heels. In the last lap, however, the Finn easily spurted away and finished fifty yards ahead. Berna, Taber, and Scott were the next in the order named, while Bonhag was the last of the Americans.

Lieut. Patton's success in scoring fifth in the modern pentathlon against forty-one other officers, the best of the European armies, makes the American Army Lieutenant one of the popular personages of Stockholm. The Swedish officers, who beat Patton, had the great advantage of long training on the ground, and the American had to ride a strange horse.

The appearance of the army officers in the arena for the last event of the pentathlon, the cross-country run of about 4,000 meters, clad in regulation running clothes, the Swedes wearing the light blue trousers which make all their athletes conspicuous, proved the popularity of the military. They were greeted by rounds of applause.

Lieut. Patton had a lead of twenty yards in front of Asbrink, Sweden, when he re-entered the stadium, but lost ground in the last fifty yards, and finished tenth, falling almost in a faint on the grass at the finish. Several men went to his assistance and rubbed his legs and arms, and after a few minutes he was able to walk off, holding the arm of a friend.

Great Britain and Australia swept the 400-meter swimming race, Healy of Australia doing the world's record. Great Britain and Australia also monopolized the prizes for the women's 100-meter swim, while Sweden captured the high-diving competition.

The American Marathon runners have stopped work and will take no further practice for Sunday's struggle. They spent the day in fishing.

ADMITS AMERICA'S SUPREMACY.

London Field Calls Us "the Foremost Athletic Nation."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 12.—Commenting on the contests at Stockholm The Field, which is recognized as the organ of British sports, says:

"The Olympic games have again shown how far the Americans, by their systematic training and rigid cult of athletics, are ahead of other nations in foot races up to one mile. Fond hopes have been entertained that England might retrieve her lost laurels, but it is not to be yet awhile.

"In the very animated scene presented at the Stockholm Stadium the most frequently acclaimed winning flag has been the Stars and Stripes. The finely developed and highly conditioned American athletes have been very much in the picture. There is something about them that catches the eye and makes you turn and look back at them as they prance around the track. It is with a different feeling altogether that one surveys the running of the other competitors.

"These Americans carry themselves well and use their strength in the proper direction. Their hammer throwing and shot putting experts are veritable towers of strength who know their business as well as possible to do. Then again, their pole vaulting and their high and long jumping stand out almost unchallenged.

"Beyond a doubt, America is the foremost athletic nation of the day. Her methods and athletic manners may not appeal to all, yet the solid and incontrovertible fact of her high supremacy is set beyond any argument."

POST CARDS FROM McDONALD.

Policeman Athlete Sends Souvenirs to Times Square.

Patrick McDonald, the traffic policeman in Times Square, who was the winner of the shotput in the Olympic Stadium at Stockholm, Thursday, has treated his brother officers in the Square to a shower of picture postal cards.

The first to arrive were delivered about 9 o'clock last evening by the postman to Traffic Policeman Edward J. Kepo, who is stationed at Seventh Avenue and Forty third Street. Policeman B. E. S. Thompson, who is Kepo's relief, also received a card. The cards showed different views of the interior of the stadium, and were addressed to the policeman to be delivered on their post.

HITCHCOCK THE APIARIST.

Finds an Impertinent Bee Buzzing Around His Panama Brim.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Postmaster General Hitchcock, after the Cabinet meeting to-day, stopped in front of the White House to talk to a newspaper man. As he stood swinging his cane and lamenting the heat, a large, but friendly, honey bee lit on his lid.

"There's a bee buzzing around your head," said the newspaper man.

"I don't see what business a bee has got on my hat," said the Postmaster General, as he flipped the brim, "I know a bee doesn't belong there."

NO ABSINTHE AFTER OCT. 1.

Secretary Wilson Signs Pure Food Decision Barring Importation.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The importation of absinthe into the United States and its sale in inter-State commerce was prohibited after Oct. 1 next by a pure food decision signed to-day by Secretary Wilson.

"It is generally recognized," says the decision, "that this beverage is dangerous to health."

Members of the Pure Food Board expressed their opinion to-day that the decision would virtually abolish the use of absinthe in the United States.

Belgium, Switzerland and Holland have passed laws forbidding its manufacture, sale and importation, and the French Senate two weeks ago took similar action. Absinthe also is condemned by the laws of Brazil.

by George B. Cortelyou yesterday before a Senate Committee regarding the $1,900,000 campaign fund raised for the Republican Presidential campaign in 1904. Mr. Lorimer referred to Col. Roosevelt as "the custodian of all the morals of the country, private and public."

"Of course," he exclaimed, "not a cent of that $1,900,000 could have been contributed by the predatory wealth of the country. Surely all of it was the free gift of the common people, for whom this man is the great champion. No malefactor contributed to that fund—only the common people, of whom he was the guardian."

The letter from President Taft to Col. Roosevelt expressing the hope that Lorimer would be ousted, which became public in the preconvention campaign, was again taken up by Lorimer. He drew attention to President Taft's phrase emphasizing the "necessity of winning." He declared his enemies had tried to win "not by a free and fair fight" but by "sneaking up behind like a thief in the night."

"Was ever mortal man more completely surrounded by conspiracy and intrigue!" exclaimed Lorimer dramatically. "The President of the United States, William Taft; Theodore Roosevelt, the ex-President; a former Democratic candidate for the Presidency, William Jennings Bryan, and the trust press of the country, all were in it—all joined in the conspiracy to poison the minds of the citizenship in order that one man might be destroyed to satisfy the malice of the most corrupt set of newspaper owners known to the history of the country."

Mr. Lorimer contended that the Helm Committee of the Illinois Legislature was a subterfuge to bring about a second inquiry by the United States Senate. He said that the Helm inquiry had not been conducted by Illinois legislators, but by "Editor Kohlsaat—the priestly Kohlsaat—John J. Healey, and the Hearst newspapers." He declared the hearing had been neither impartial nor thorough, and asserted that it was conducted only for the purpose of bringing the matter into the Senate again in order that it might be tried by a new set of Judges.

Mr. Lorimer explained his failure to take the stand as a witness in the first Lorimer investigation by the Senate by saying that even The Chicago Tribune had not counted upon connecting him with any corrupt practices.

"You cannot strike out the former verdict of the Senate," he exclaimed; "and I believe that I have a title that has been declared valid."

Senator Lorimer discussed for the first time some of the evidence in the case. He began by reading an affidavit by former State Representative Joseph S. Clark, who was alleged to have voted for him on a promise that he would be allowed to name a new Postmaster at Vandalia, Ill. The affidavit denied the charge flatly.

Lorimer charged Senator Kern with attempting to make it appear that Charles S. Luke, a dead member of the Illinois Legislature, had testified in the case. Luke had died, he said, before any of the hearings began.

Mr. Lorimer then took up the allegations against Jandus, Shepherd, and Tippit, also members of the Illinois Legislature. The implications attached to the fact that Shepherd and Tippit had rented safe-deposit boxes at the time of his election he denounced as mere insinuations. Senators opposed to him, he declared, did not care for the facts.

Then Mr. Lorimer examined the four so-called confessions of men said to have been bribed to vote for him. The first of these was that of Charles A. White.

"If you have any case here it must stand or fall on White's testimony," he said.

He declared White was a perjurer; that he had admitted perjury under oath. Lee O'Neil Browne had been charged with bribing White. Lorimer contended it had been shown that White had announced his intention of voting for him before the alleged bribing transaction took place. Ten days before his election White had voluntarily come to him and promised his vote, he said.

Senator Lorimer took up the criticisms made by Senator Reed in his spech yesterday on Lorimer's contribution of $10,000 to the defense of Lee O'Neil Browne, charged with bribing White.

Mr. Lorimer explained this act with much display of feeling toward Senator Reed. He intimated that the latter had phrased his attack in terms calculated to convey suspicion where the facts did not.

"I know that Lee O'Neil Browne never paid out one dollar to influence a vote for Lorimer. I know that the State's Attorney, The Tribune, and the Governor were in conspiracy to destroy Lorimer," he shouted.

He declared he had contributed to Browne's defense because he knew that "if Browne were convicted it would be hard to make any one believe that Lorimer had not bought his seat. They thought Browne couldn't escape. All the power of the third degree was to be used upon him by State's Attorney Wayman."

Returning to White, Mr. Lorimer declared that no one had a right to accept the testimony of a man who had said he would sell his soul for money.

"If you are to believe there is anything in this case you must settle this question in your own mind, and then you have settled it all. You don't need to go to Link, Beckemeyer or Holstlaw. That is all there is in the case."

The Senator said he had aided White because the latter had supported him.

"The minority of the committee would have you believe such a course wrong," he said. "All right, Senators Lea and Kenyon and Kern," pointing to each in turn, "you may live by that rule if you will, but all my life I have tried to make a reputation for never having gone back on or turned down a friend."

Throwing up his hands and turning his face upward, Senator Lorimer dramatically cried: "Let Him judge who shall be the final Judge, whether it is correct to do unto others as you would have them do unto you. By that rule have I lived and by that rule shall I die, though all the world, including the Senate, shall condemn me."

Mr. Lorimer took up the testimony of Clarence S. Funk, General Manager of the International Harvester Company, who testified that Edward Hines had asked him for money to pay for the Lorimer election. He declared it had been shown conclusively that Mr. Hines was in Washington, and not in Chicago, at the time the conversation with Mr. Funk was alleged to have taken place.

Mr. Funk's statement that the Harvester Company never made campaign contributions was contradicted.

"I state it to you, on my honor as a man and a Senator," Lorimer said, "that if you ever have another investigation I will bring witnesses to prove that I met two Illinois men, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, the latter of whom told me he had received several contributions from Funk, and the former that Funk had given him $5,000 for a Democratic campaign. In view of these facts, I would take Mr. Hines's testimony in preference to Mr. Funk's."

Mr. Lorimer confessed to friendly relations with Mr. Hines, but said that he seldom saw him.

Mr. Lorimer complained that the tendency was to believe men only who testified against him and to disbelieve all who testified for him. He declared he would see that the truth should become known and believed.

"While I live, and regardless of the verdict here," he said, "this fight will go on until all the people of all the world will come to know the case as it has been presented by the five men who listened to all the testimony." Mr. Lorimer was referring to the majority of the committee, who reported in his favor.

Of the three other members of the committee, he said, one had been present only at 25 per cent. of the committee's sittings, another not exceeding 60 per cent., and the third not exceeding 80 per cent.

WOMEN AID RIOTERS WHEN POLICE CHARGE

Pour Into Street from Tenements and Rocks Fall from Roofs in Support of Striking Seamen.

FIVE, WITH PATROLMAN, HURT

Strikebreakers Fallen Upon and Beaten as They Leave Work on Morgan Line Pier.

Striking seamen, firemen, oilers, and water tenders gathered in Washington, West, Perry, Charles, Eleventh, and Twelfth Streets at 6 o'clock last night, and when the strikebreaking cooks and firemen began to leave the Morgan Line piers they attacked them. Several were allowed to leave unmolested, but when a negro stepped from the pier the fight started.

Capt. Martens and a squad of policemen of the Charles Street Station rushed to his rescue, but this apparently was a signal for a general fight. The tenements about emptied themselves, and soon the streets were filled with fighting men and women.

A call was sent for the reserves, and with Lieut. Hallahan at their head they charged. From roofs and windows there came a storm of bricks and stones, and several policemen were struck. They had drawn their nightsticks, but because of the presence of women and children in the crowd had not used them. At last the order was given to clear the streets, and then the crowd was forced within doors.

Capt. Martens gave orders that the residents of the neighborhood were to remain inside, and he doubled the patrol of policemen in the streets near the piers. In the few minutes of rioting five men had been hurt. They were:

Bosken, Manauk, 314 West Twenty-fifth Street, badly beaten and may lose sight of left eye. To St. Vincent's Hospital.
Coakley, Policeman of the Charles Street Station, lamed by blow of a stone on the leg.
McCarthy, James, employe of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, beaten and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.
McDonald, James, Eastchester, beaten and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.
Villachio, Saternino, stabbed in the neck. Taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Villachio was the first man injured badly enough to require medical aid. He was attacked by four men as he left Pier 48, and was beaten and kicked, some one finally stabbing him in the neck.

McDonald, who denied that he was a strike breaker, was attacked by a crowd in West Street and jumped into a truck to escape them. The police rescued him before he had been hurt seriously.

Bosken was set upon as he left Pier 49. When rescued he was a mass of bruises from head to foot. Both of his eyes were injured, his left so seriously that Dr. Kilbourne of St. Vincent's Hospital said that he probably would lose the sight of it.

McCarthy was passing Twelfth Street at West Street when the strikers sighted him. He was rescued almost immediately and was not much hurt.

Coakley was injured while he was trying to drive the mob back. Dr. Kilbourne dressed the wound on his leg and returned to the station house.

John Lucy of 154 Chrystie Street was arrested in front of a sailors' lodging house in Eleventh Street when the police drove the crowd indoors. He refused to go.

Earlier in the day the strikers held a parade, starting from the headquarters of the Firemen's Union, at 229 West Street, and, marching to the Battery and then up South Street to Brooklyn Bridge and back again. There was no trouble along the line of march, though the parade failed of its purpose to induce other pier laborers to join the strikers. It had been announced that 5,000 men would be in line. Only about 580 paraded.

Fifty-three strikers were arrested yesterday at Tenth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, where they had made a demonstration, and Magistrate Butts, in the West Side Court, reprimanded and discharged them.

Later some 300 men marched through the yards of the New York Central Railroad in Eleventh Avenue shouting and singing and trying to get 250 employes in the grain elevator at Sixtieth Street to join them. They visited several piers along the Hudson before the police arrived and made them disperse. How strong a hold the strikers have on the American Line will be shown to-day, when the St. Louis is due to sail at 9:30 o'clock. Pier Supt. Luckhoust declared yesterday that the vessel would sail on time; that it had 75 per cent. of its crew now, and would have the rest to-day.

Some 400 pier laborers of the West Shore Railroad went on strike yesterday. They want 25 cents an hour. They are getting 19 3-5 cents. They left a lot of perishable freight on the piers at Weehawken, and to-day the railroad will try to move this with strikebreakers. They applied last night for a detail of police, saying that they expected trouble.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 12.—"Any local which would participate in the strike in New York would be immediately expelled from the International Longshoremen's Association," declared President E. V. O'Connor of that organization, which is in convention here to-day.

"The National Transport Workers' Federation of America is not at all affiliated with the International Longshoremen's Association."

No Indorsement for Dr. Wiley.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 12.—The Association of American Food and Drug Officials refused last night to indorse the policy of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in the Department of Agriculture by a vote of 44 to 42. B. H. Rawl, Chief of the Bureau of Food in the Department of Agriculture, voted against the motion. The convention elected Llewellyn Davis of Seattle President and chose Mobile, Ala., for the next convention.

M'COMBS CHOSEN FOR NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

Gov. Wilson Has Not Announced It, but Hudspeth Lets It Be Inferred.

LAFOLLETTE MEN TO SEE HIM

May Be Coming East to Offer Support—Democratic Congressmen Decide to Go in a Body to Sea Girt.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 12.—From the front door of Gov. Woodrow Wilson's Summer home here three men emerged together this afternoon, one of them showing a slight limp, and all three appearing very solemn. Many personal and political friends of Gov. Wilson were assembled on the lawn outside. They drew near the three, conscious that important political conclusions had been reached by them. The oldest of the three men, and the most experienced in politics, drew a little apart from the others, and spoke to those who were waiting.

"It's McCombs," he said simply, and it was clear that a lump was rising in his throat. The crowd rushed to the man who limped slightly and shook his hand. They knew he was Gov. Wilson's choice to be Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and that he was the choice of every member of the committee who has so far expressed himself. The man who broke the news to them in a spirit of solemnity, as on the eve of a great battle, was the only man who might have been a serious rival to Col. McCombs for the position.

The three men first who heard from Gov. Wilson the conclusion he had reached as to his choice for National Committee Chairman were National Committeeman Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey, who will carry to the meeting of the National Committee at Chicago the Governor's personal message on campaign plans and policies; National Committeeman Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, and Col. McCombs himself.

McCombs was in no mood to receive congratulations from his friends. He walked rapidly through the group, stepped into a waiting automobile, and hurried away. National Committeeman Hudspeth went away shortly afterward, still under the spell of the protected conference that had just been held with Gov. Wilson. He had nothing to say to any one. National Committeeman Daniels was in a more communicative mood. He has long been a newspaper editor, and the news view of things was what chiefly appealed to him.

"You saw that young man going past with a slight limp," he said, "and I have no doubt many of you wondered, as hundreds of others will wonder, whether he is robust enough for the big job that may possibly be ahead of him. Well, I want to say he is a great deal more robust than he looks, and will outlast a great many men that may appear to be stronger."

"Did you urge upon Gov. Wilson that McCombs ought to be the Chairman?" some one asked Committeeman Daniels.

"I certainly did," he replied.

La Follette Leaders to See Wilson.

For publication no official announcement was made that McCombs had been chosen. Reporters were left to gather that from the momentary thrill that went through the politicians as McCombs appeared from the Governor's library and from the rush to shake hands with him. The marvel among the politicians will be that a conclusion has been reached upon the matter of the Chairmanship that seems certain to be unanimously approved, and to have no possibility in it of leaving a sting anywhere along the line. They have begun to use a phrase among themselves to explain their feelings toward a chain of fortuitous events that have culminated in the request from the National Committee that Gov. Wilson make his wishes known so that they may be granted, and in the response of Gov. Wilson with the communication to be forwarded either as a verbal or written message through National Committeeman Hudspeth. The phrase is, "Wilson's Luck."

The "Wilson luck" made itself felt, to the astonishment of many close friends of the Governor, within ten minutes after Col. McCombs had gone away to sleep over the prospect of new and heavy responsibilities. There arrived for Gov. Wilson a telegram from Wisconsin, stating that two visitors proposed to come to see him on Saturday. As Gov. Wilson already had an appointment with Champ Clark for the afternoon of that day, the fact that new visitors were coming and would be welcomed caused the conclusion to be rapidly reached that the visitors must have an important purpose in making their call.

It was learned that the two visitors will be guests for luncheon at the Little White House at 1 o'clock, and will meet Champ Clark when he arrives from Washington at 2:40 o'clock, although their errand is entirely separate from that which brings the Speaker of the House to Sea Girt.

The Western visitors are Charles R. Crane from Chicago and President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin. The work of President Van Hise has always been of keen interest to Gov. Wilson, as he was one of the first men in the country to take up as a moral question, independent of politics, the propaganda now known as "Progressivism." The chief fact about Charles R. Crane that was recalled in connection with the news that he was coming to Sea Girt was that he was the chief financial backer of Senator La Follette when he commenced his campaign for the Presidency, and that he led the two Pinchot brothers in the amount of money provided for the opening of the La Follette headquarters in Washington.

May Augur La Follette Support.

Why these two friends of Senator La Follette should come to Sea Girt could only be surmised, but each politician in the Governor's veranda cabinet said he would give the others just one guess and then would bet that all of the guesses would be right. The leaders of the Wilson campaign here hold that the support of La Follette is surely coming to Gov. Wilson, and that when Mr. Crane and President Van Hise go away to-morrow afternoon public announcement of this fact will be made.

One fact emphasized through the sudden rising of the McCombs star is that Gov. Wilson does not propose to surrender in the slightest degree his personal responsibility for the conduct of the campaign, either as to policies or as to finances. An experienced member of the National Committee said this afternoon that it had been practically agreed that there would be no division of authority through the coming campaign; that all the authority of the National Committee would be centred in the Chairman, and that any campaign committee selected would be subordinate to the National Committee and under the jurisdiction of the Chairman as manager of the campaign. It was also decided, he said, that every National Committeeman should be put to work for the campaign, and that as many experienced politicians as could be accommodated should have places on the Campaign Committee.

Some matters, such as the appointment of a Finance Committee and the selection of a Treasurer for the National Committee, were not wholly settled at this afternoon's conferences, and will have further consideration on Saturday morning. In order to attend this Saturday conference National Committeeman Hudspeth has postponed his departure for Chicago until Sunday afternoon. Col. McCombs, State Chairman Grosscup, and Col. Thomas H. Birch will go direct from Sea Girt to Chicago with Committeeman Hudspeth. National Committeeman Daniels will go by a separate train and will participate with Committeeman Hudspeth in expressing the views of Gov. Wilson to the committee.

It is said here that the National Committee plans to name a sub-committee to come to Sea Girt after the committee meeting in order to take up with the candidate all questions on which there is not complete agreement. The questions to be referred here, it is said, will not be questions on which Gov. Wilson has already passed judgment, but questions originating with the committee and of the nature of which he has not yet been made aware.

The Swing to Wilson.

In the plans for the campaign, if Col. McCombs is permitted to have his way and does not change his present purpose, there will be a headquarters in New York City, a branch headquarters in Chicago, and another in the Far West, possibly on the Pacific Coast. Col. McCombs will have the hearty support of the Princeton alumni, of whom he is an enthusiastic associate.

From Samuel Huston Thompson of Denver, known to all Princeton men as "Shy" Thompson, who played right end on the football team of 1894, a pledge of support has been received. The pledge says that its maker, "Shy" Thompson, always has been a Republican and always has voted the Republican ticket, but that a little consideration of this sort cannot keep him from taking the field to organize his State for the former President of Princeton.

From the Rev. Dr. William Paden, head of the Presbyterian Missions in Utah and organizer of the anti-Mormon movement there, another pledge of support was received. While the Rev. Dr. Paden has always been a Republican, he has decided that this is the year in which to transfer his allegiance to the Democrats, and, incidentally, to his former college classmate.

The two Princeton men who have come over from the Republican side have been supplemented by a large group of Republicans in Maryland, who, according to William K. Wilson, organizer of the Wilson Progressive Clubs in Maryland and a visitor here, have come into his clubs in numbers almost as large as those of the young Democrats.

"We have got to face the fact," said Mr. Wilson of Maryland, "that Col. Roosevelt, and not President Taft, is the real opponent of Gov. Wilson. We have got to face the fact that the fight is for the young men of the land, and in our State we are seeing to it that no young man has to leave the Democratic Party to have all his aspirations put into the form of political action. The bull moose call will not lure our young men away."

From John T. McGraw, National Committeeman of West Virginia, an urgent telegram was received to-night asking Tom Pence, publicity manager of the Wilson campaign, to please rush to West Virginia "the large portrait of Gov. Wilson that created so much furore at Baltimore." The message continued that West Virginia was about to have a State convention and that McGraw had every confidence in the ability of this particular Wilson portrait to touch off a thrilling Wilson demonstration.

Joseph H. Preston, Mayor of Baltimore, it is said here, will arrive Saturday afternoon with Champ Clark. Mayor Preston was attached to the Clark forces in the Democratic Convention and was mentioned as a candidate for Vice President on a ticket with Clark at its head.

Another Clark man who has expressed his allegiance to Gov. Wilson is James T. Lloyd of Missouri, Chairman of the Congressional Campaign Committee. While the National Committee is busy with Gov. Wilson's campaign for the Presidency Congressman Lloyd will be busy seeing that Democratic members are elected to the House of Representatives. Congressman Lloyd came to Sea Girt this morning to see if it would not be possible for the Congressional campaign and the Presidential campaign to be very closely interwoven and consolidated.

"I think in the past," said Congressman Lloyd, "that there has not been enough co-operation between the Congressional campaign and the Presidential campaign. I told Gov. Wilson I wanted to get together with his managers on all matters, to eliminate duplication of effort and waste, and to make our two campaigns along identical lines. He seemed very glad to receive my assurance of a willingness to co-operate."

The news that ex-Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota had taken up the trail to Oyster Bay caused National Committeeman Daniels to say what he thought of Pettigrew and several other things this evening.

"It only illustrates the fact," he said, "that the Democracy is more united than ever before. In becoming a bull moose ex-Senator Pettigrew has only lived up to his previous record for quick switching. Ex-Senator Pettigrew is best known as a Populist and Republican. He is everything but a Democrat, and he made a vain effort to break into the Baltimore Convention. The National Democracy refused to have any part of him, and after being denied a seat as a delegate he has cast his lot with the bull moose. The Democracy is to be congratulated. Never has the party been so united, and the ex-Populist from South Dakota has rendered it a real service by giving emphasis to the fact that there is not a bolting member between the two oceans."

Some Belated Congratulations.

Belated telegrams of congratulation continued to pour in. The following have just been received:

From Richard Olney:

My congratulations on a well-deserved victory of immense importance to the country and as unique in its responsibilities as in its honors.

From former Mayor George B. McClelland, dated at Venice: Accept my congratulations, best wishes, and support.

From former Vice President Adlai Stevenson—Earnest congratulations upon your nomination. We hope to give you the electoral vote of Illinois.

From Dan M. Dickinson, former Postmaster General—I congratulate the country and you on the result at Baltimore. Michigan proved true to you at the critical moment, as our people expected.

Just before dinnertime to-night Gov. Wilson came out among his friends on the lawn, said he felt tired to death, and asked his chauffeur to take him for a long spin along the sea coast. He still was tired when he returned, and he said things would soon have to change as to political conferences if he was ever to get any other work done. He spoke chiefly in his daily chat with reporters about campaign funds.

"I favor making the list public and keeping it open to the public at all times," he said. "I would say I am in favor of making public my own pre-convention fund, except that I do not know how much work such a promise would entail upon Col. McCombs. I know that every contribution was from an unimpeachable source, but I do not know just how easily a complete list could be prepared for publication. By all means, the campaign contributions should be known to the public, so that the public may censor the list and form its own conclusions."

CONGRESSMEN TO VISIT WILSON.

Democratic Members of the House Will Go to Sea Girt in a Body.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—There will be no quorum in the House of Representatives next Friday or Saturday. Two hundred and thirty of its Democratic members, or as many of them as are in Washington, will start on a special train for Sea Girt to pay their respects to Gov. Woodrow Wilson, the new titular head of the Democratic Party.

The decision of the Democrats of the House, most of whom have never met Gov. Wilson, to pay this call upon him was reached at a caucus held late this afternoon by the majority members upon motion of Representative Thomas L. Reilly of Connecticut. The motion was carried with a whoop, and then a special committee, composed of Messrs. Reilly of Connecticut, Alfred G. Allen of Ohio and Martin D. Foster of Illinois, was appointed to arrange for the special train.

Each Democrat taking the trip will pay his share of the expense of the visit. The date has not been set for the journey, but it will be either Friday or Saturday of next week. The Democratic "whips" of the House will communicate at once with absent Democrats, urging them to be here to participate in the excursion.

Speaker Clark will leave Washington at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning for Sea Girt to keep his appointment for a conference with Gov. Wilson. The Speaker will return to Washington to-morrow night.

ROOSEVELT IS WRONG, SAYS LA FOLLETTE

No Need for Third Party, Except for the Colonel's Desire for a Third Term.

BRYAN'S MORAL STRENGTH

He Sacrificed Himself to Progressive Cause—Neither Taft Nor Roosevelt Had Majority in Convention.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Senator La Follette, in an editorial in the current number of La Follette's Weekly, has contrasted the behavior of Col. Roosevelt at Chicago and Mr. Bryan at Baltimore.

"Bryan at Baltimore," he says, "foregoing all chance of his own nomination, marshaling all his forces, braving Tammany and the trusts to rescue his party from their domination, carrying the convention for the adoption of the most progressive Democratic platform yet offered and the nomination of the most progressive Democratic candidate available, was a towering figure of moral power and patriotic devotion to civic righteousness.

"Roosevelt at Chicago, backed by money derived from the stock-watering operations of the Steel Trust and the Harvester Trust, organizing what are now confessed to have been fake contests as to nearly two hundred delegates in order to control the Republican Convention and secure his own nomination, refusing to aid in making a progressive platform, bound to have the nomination or destroy the Republican Party, was a most striking example of misdirected power and unworthy ambition.

"Roosevelt had as great an opportunity to serve the Progressive cause at Chicago, as Bryan had at Baltimore. But Roosevelt was serving the man, not the cause. He wanted one thing—he wanted the nomination. And yet he did not have enough votes to nominate himself upon any honest basis.

"He did have enough delegates in that convention ultimately to have nominated a real Progressive and adopted a strong Progressive platform. He could even have nominated Hadley on such a platform, and Progressive Republicans could have supported Hadley in much the same spirit as hundreds of thousands of them will now support Wilson. Neither Hadley ner Wilson is a veteran in the Progressive ranks. Neither of them has been tried by the severest tests. Both appear to be men of high ideals, whose records, though short, give promise.

"But Roosevelt would not consider Hadley. He would have no one but himself. At the first suggestion of Hadley, he ordered the third party manoeuvres, lest he lose his followers.

"If he had the evidence to prove that Taft could not be honestly and fairly nominated, why did he not direct his lieutenants to present that evidence to the National Committee, and then to the convention and the country, so clearly that the convention would not have dared to nominate Taft, and that Taft could not, in honor, have accepted the nomination if made?

"The reason is obvious. An analysis of the testimony will, I am convinced, show that neither Taft nor Roosevelt had a majority of honestly or regularly elected delegates. This the managers upon both sides well understood.

"Each candidate was trying to seat a sufficient number of fraudulently credentialed delegates, added to those regularly chosen, to support him, to secure control of the convention, and 'steam roll' the nominations. It was a proceeding with which each was acquainted, and which each had sanctioned in prior conventions.

"This explains the extraordinary conduct of Roosevelt. He could not enter upon such analysis of the evidence as would prove Taft's regularly elected delegates in the minority without inevitably subjecting his own spuriously credentialed delegates to an examination so critical as would expose the falsity of his own contention that he had an honestly elected majority of the delegates.

"He therefore deliberately chose to claim everything, to cry fraud, to bully the National Committee and the convention, and, having thus created a condition which would make impossible a calm investigation of cases upon merit, carry the convention by storm.

"That this is the true psychology of the Roosevelt proceedings becomes perfectly plain. He was there to force his own nomination or smash the convention. He was not there to preserve the integrity of the Republican Party and make it an instrument for the promotion of Progressive principles and the restoration of government to the people. Otherwise he would have directed his floor managers to contest every inch of the ground for a Progressive platform before the Committee on Resolutions and in the open convention.

"But Mr. Roosevelt was not governed by a suggestion of that spirit of high patriotic and unselfish purpose of which Bryan furnished a magnificent example one week later in the Democratic Convention at Baltimore. Instead he filled the public ear with sound and fury. He ruthlessly sacrificed everything to the one idea of his being the one candidate. He gagged his followers in the convention without putting on record any facts upon which the public could base a definite, intelligent judgment regarding the validity of Taft's nomination.

"He submitted no suggestion as to a platform of Progressive principles. He clamored loudly for purging the convention roll of tainted delegates, without purging his own candidacy of his tainted contests and his tainted trust support. He offered no reason for a third party excepting his own overmastering craving for a third term."

TURNS DOWN THIRD PARTY.

Gov. Eberhart of Minnesota Declines to Join Roosevelt Movement.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—In a letter to Hugh T. Halbert, Minnesota Roosevelt leader, who recently mailed a circular letter to all candidates for Governor in this State, asking them to go on record in support of the proposed new third party movement, Gov. Eberhart to-day positively refused to join the movement.

"Whenever I am convinced," the letter reads, "that I can render greater service to the people of this State by joining a new political party, I shall certainly not hesitate to do so, but at present I see no need of a new party."

WISCONSIN SLATE.

Democrats Name Ticket for Primaries and Ratify Baltimore Platform.

MILWAUKEE, July 12.—The Democratic State Convention adjourned this afternoon after completing the nomination of its State ticket, to be voted for at the primaries, as follows:

A. J. Schmitz and J. C. Karel—Nominated for Governor last night.

For Lieutenant Governor—H. A. Moehlenph, Clinton, and H. W. Bolens, Point Washington.

For Secretary of State—A. J. Kealy, Hudso, the only nominee for the office.

For Treasurer—Jacob Leonard, Marathon City, and Nicholas Schmidt, Marathon City.

For Attorney General—Charles A. Kading, Watertown, and J. F. Dogerty, La Crosse.

The predicted fight over the Income Tax law plank reached the floor of the convention to-day. Throughout the morning session the adherents of the plank indorsing a repeal of the present law and the enactment of a new one, and those favoring an amendment were in debate. Discussion started after the committee had reported in favor of the amendment plank. Three members—T. M. Kearney of Racine, Frank J. Walsh, and George Balhorn of Milwaukee—did not sign the report. The amendment feature carried.

The platform ratified that of the Baltimore Convention and pledges support to the candidates named there, and affirms confidence in William J. Bryan. On the ground that "government by appointive officers is not government by the people," the platform condemns the practice of "multiplying commissions and appointive offices." Municipal home rule is favored and the party is pledged to support of the constitutional amendment providing for the initiative, referendum, and recall.

NEW PARTIES INCORPORATE.

Progressive Party and League of First Voters Get Charters.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 12.—"The Progressive Party, Incorporated," with principal office in New York City and organized to operate throughout the State, was incorporated to-day to "create public opinion in favor of free trade and public retention of socially created values for social uses." The party has adopted as an emblem "The Capitol at Albany."

The Directors are William Lustgarten, August Weymann, Frederic Cyrus Leubuscher, Benjamin Doblin, New York, and Joseph H. Newman, Rockland County.

The National League of First Voters, Incorporated, of New York, also was incorporated to promote the principles of good government. The Directors include Irving H. Brown, Harold Debrest, and David L. Fox, New York; H. Gerard Meyers, Brooklyn, and Jonah J. Goldstein, Rockaway Beach.

The "Progressive Party, Incorporated," is not to be confused with the National Progressive Party of Col. Roosevelt. William Lustgarten, who heads the list of incorporators, was formerly connected as Secretary with the Progressive Democracy. Mr. Lustgarten has been behind a number of booms that have failed. Frederic Cyrus Leubuscher, another incorporator, has been identified with a number of civic activities and movements of a more or less radical nature, including the Hearst Municipal Ownership League.

WON'T COMBINE ON JUDGES.

Roosevelt's Party Will Refuse to Indorse Non-Partisan Candidates.

The State Bar Association will soon appoint a committee to bring about a non-partisan agreement on nominations for two places on the Court of Appeals bench which will become vacant at the end of this year and must be filled at the November elections. The two Judges whose terms are about to expire are Albert Haight of Buffalo and Irving G. Vann of Syracuse.

While, it is said, there is some question as to the probable attitude of the Democratic State organization this year, when the outlook for a Democratic victory is so promising, there is absolutely no question as to what the National Progressive Party, Col. Roosevelt's newly formed organization, will do.

"We intend to run a full ticket, State, county, and municipal," said Chairman William H. Hotchkiss of the National Progressive State Committee last night. "Nothing could be more certain, if I understand the Colonel's attitude correctly, than that we will nominate our own candidates for the Court of Appeals. If the other parties wish to indorse our candidates, good and well. There is nothing to stop them. But those selected to run on the National Progressive ticket must give written pledges that they intend to support the principles of our party, and they must be nominated by this party in the first instance. It is the fixed policy of the National Progressive Party not to enter upon anything that could be construed even remotely as fusion with either of the old parties."

TAFT OFFICES HERE.

Reynolds Hires One Floor and Part of Another in Times Building.

Ex-Assistant United States Secretary of the Treasury James B. Reynolds, who will have charge of the Taft campaign in the East, will open headquarters next week in the Times Building. The Republican National Committee will occupy practically the entire eleventh floor and part of the tenth floor.

Mr. Reynolds said last night that he expected Charles D. Hilles, who was secretary to President Taft and has been selected by him for the Chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, would be in this city next Monday. Mr. Hilles expects to spend much of his time at the Eastern headquarters in the Times Building. A meeting of the Republican National Committee, at which Mr. Hilles will be formally elected to his new place, is scheduled to be held at the Times Building headquarters next Friday. At this meeting it is likely that important plans for the coming campaign will be mapped out.

"I selected the Times Building because of its central location and chiefly because it was so convenient to the two big railroad stations, the Grand Central and the Pennsylvania Terminal," said Mr. Reynolds.

"THEO-CRAZY"

With Hyphen Between Syllables, Name Is Suggested for New Party.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Senator Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, has received an open letter by W. C. Sullivan, a member of the local bar, suggesting a name for the third party which is to meet in convention next month in Chicago. The letter reads:

Understanding that you are experiencing some difficulty in selecting a name for the Roosevelt cohorts to meet in Chicago next month, assuming that you wish to choose the most appropriate designation for them, and realizing that the one bond which unites them, from Mr. Roosevelt himself to his humblest follower, is the fact that they are all crazy about him, I respectfully suggest the name "Theo-crazy."

Bull Moose Call in Nevada.

RENO, Nev., July 12.—A call for a State convention of Progressives in Reno on July 23 next has been issued by Col. C. R. Reeves, who signs himself Chairman of the Progressive League of Nevada. Delegates to the Chicago convention of Aug. 5 will be chosen.

THE PROHIBITION TICKET.

Eugene W. Chafin for President and A. S. Watkins for Vice President.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 12.—The National Prohibition Party adjourned its three days' National Convention here this evening after nominating as the standard bearers for the next election the two men whose names headed the ticket four years ago. These men were Eugene W. Chafin of Arizona for President and Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio for Vice President. In each case the nomination was made by acclamation, after a single ballot had indicated the preference of the delegates. Mr. Chafin said that he regarded the nomination as the greatest political honor bestowed upon any man this year, and he promised the convention that he would not stand for a third nomination.

The party, when the convention adjourned, was still the Prohibition Party, despite the strong current of feeling that a new name should be substituted. This proposal was lost in the shuffle of hasty conclusion, brought about by the obvious intention of many of the delegates to start for home. It was not taken up for general discussion or action. In a brief speech, however, A. J. Orem of Massachusetts promised to pledge more to the campaign fund should the name be changed.

"I believe we could make the fund double," he said, "if we should adopt a new name. We would be greatly aided in carrying our banner to success if we should adopt the name of 'Progressive.'"

The Rev. S. H. Taft of California argued strongly for "Conservation Party," declaring that the old name had become a handicap rather than an inspiration.

Others favored the "Liberal Party." Before adjournment Dr. Silas C. Swallow of Pennsylvania, tried hard but vainly to insert in the platform a resolution urging the "perpetual separation of the Church and State," and opposing the appropriation of public moneys to sectarian churches and schools.

Louisiana for Recall of All But Judges

BATON ROUGE, La., July 12.—Recall of public officials with the exception of the judiciary was provided for by the State General Assembly, which adjourned last night after passing many bills. One provides for an employers' liability law, another for a commission form of Government for New Orleans, and still another abolishes the State Game Warden system.

BULL MOOSE RUSH SURPRISES HOTCHKISS

Marvelous Reports Reach Him of Republican Deserters Coming Over.

BARNES ON HIS TELEPHONE

Just Wanted to Know His Party's Name—A Rainbow, Says Barnes, and Taft Will Win.

The Bull Moose Party in this State is now mobilizing for the fray. Mr. Hotchkiss, who is directing operations from his office in the Metropolitan Tower, said yesterday that the way the movement was taking hold was something marvelous.

"I don't know much about politics," said he. "I had always thought that a new movement like this might bring out all sorts of men who wanted to make a good thing out of it. In this instance, however, nearly every mail brings me letters by the hundreds offering volunteer service of true believers in a good cause. It has been most inspiring."

Mr. Hotchkiss began yesterday the task of appointing County Chairmen. These positions in ten out of the sixty-one counties of the State have been filled. In a good many of the counties which were represented at the conference on Thursday Mr. Hotchkiss is awaiting suggestions or action on the part of the local Progressives where organizations had been formed.

Yesterday's appointments of County Chairmen were:

Erie County—Chauncey J. Hamlin of Buffalo.
Tompkins County—Alfred Hays, Jr., of Ithaca.
Onondaga County—Joseph A. Griffin of Syracuse.
Herkimer County—Theodore Douglas Robinson.
Oneida County—Fred M. Davenport of Clinton and Merwin K. Hart of Utica.
Washington County—Silas E. Evarts of Granville.
Dutchess County—A. B. Gray of Poughkeepsie.
Schenectady County—Prof. Howard Opdyke of Schenectady.
Suffolk County—Regis Post.
Nassau County—Lucien L. Bonner.

Coroner Shongut, from the Bronx, dropped in to tell Mr. Hotchkiss that the Progressive movement in his borough would be started at a mass meeting in the McKinley Square Theatre Building this evening, and that the Pioneer Republican Club of the district, the regular organization, would lose at least 100 of its members right away. Harry P. Stratton, a worker in the Eighteenth Assembly District in Kings, went to Mr. Hotchkiss to say that out of 418 enrolled Republican voters in the Twenty-sixth Election District of the Assembly District 393 had signed a pledge to support Col. Roosevelt.

Mr. Hotchkiss announced yesterday that he was in favor of making all campaign contributions and expenditures public within forty-eight hours of the time they were received or incurred.

Work is soon to be begun on the State platform of the National Progressive Party. It was said yesterday that this instrument may or may not contain a plank recommending the "federalization" of the State Government. The plan was favored by Gov. Hughes, and it is warmly commended by Mr. Hotchkiss—not as State Chairman but as citizen, he was careful to explain.

"It would mean the short ballot, with only Governor and Lieutenant Governor elected for a term of four years," said he. "It would give the Governor power to appoint within thirty days after he had assumed office ten heads of departments, through which there would be a co-ordination of all the administrative activities which now are distributed into such a bewildering number of departments, bureaus, and commissions. It would make for simplicity and for the concentration of responsibility in one person."

For one tense moment yesterday a wire was working from the office of William Barnes, Jr., Republican State Chairman and implacable foe of the Bull Moose movement and its founder. Mr. Barnes rang up Mr. Hotchkiss to ask him what the official name of the new party would be.

"We want it for our canvass books," Mr. Barnes explained. "We want to place it at the head of our second column, where we are going to record in our advance canvass how small your vote is going to be."

Mr. Hotchkiss laughed and told Mr. Barnes that the Bull Moose boom would run away from the Republicans and leave them in the third position. Mr. Hotchkiss did not say what party he thought would occupy the leading position.

"This third party is all a rainbow," said Mr. Barnes in discussing the National Progressive Party yesterday. "They are making midsummer politics, but wait until October. When the people really begin to think they will see that the choice is really between Taft and continued prosperity and Wilson, with the tearing to pieces of the tariff, business stagnation, and everybody broke. That's all there is to it. I am satisfied that a majority will vote to continue Mr. Taft in his present position."

Mr. Hotchkiss, in discussing the speech of Gen. Daniel E. Sickles at the Bull Moose birthday party on Thursday, in which he raised the secession issue in commenting on the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson, said it was not to be taken as the sentiment of the new party but as reflecting entirely the General's own opinions.

SUFFRAGISTS INTERESTED.

Appeal to Woodruff for Tickets to Third Party Convention.

Timothy L. Woodruff will receive to-day from the Woman Suffrage Party a letter asking that five seats be reserved for representatives of the party, at the King's County Convention of the National Progressive Party, to be held in the Johnson Building, Brooklyn, July 23. The suffragists will not support any political body that would not give women votes, they say, but they wish to attend the convention.

A series of suffrage meetings are to be started immediately in the Bronx by the Woman Suffrage Party, as a result of the murder of little Julia Connors. At the meetings the women will show the need of the ballot for the mothers, that they may protect their children from dangers of this kind. Mrs. Fisk, Chairman of the party for the Bronx, and Mrs. Helena Secor Tonges are arranging the meetings.

NON-SECTIONAL, SAYS COLONEL.

Progressives Appeal to the Blue and Gray, a Common Heritage.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 12.—Col. Roosevelt declared to-night that the Progressive movement was a non-sectional one. He refused to make any direct comment on the address of Gen. Daniel Sickles yesterday at a gathering of the third party advocates in New York, when Sickles said that Gov. Wilson should not be elected President because he was a born Southerner.

"I am myself by blood half a Georgian," said Col. Roosevelt, "and the brothers of my own mother served in the Confederate Navy, just as the kinsfolk of my father served in the Union Army. I feel very strongly that we have now reached the point where all of us alike wherever we dwell can treat the memory of the great deeds of the men who wore the blue and the gray, and the high valor and lofty adherence to the right, as each side saw the right, as making a common heritage of honor in which all our people should share."

Col. Roosevelt was asked to-night if he would testify before the Senate committee which is investigating the matter of campaign contributions, and the testimony of George B. Cortelyou, to the effect that he knew nothing about the Harriman contribution, and little more about any other subscription, was mentioned.

"My answer," said Col. Roosevelt, "was contained in my letter to Judge Parker when he was going about stating that contributions were being made to the Republicans in return for favors promised to the contributors. I said then that such accusations were atrociously false, and issued a challenge to Judge Parker to cite any instance. Developments since then have shown that what I said was true."

A delegation from Delaware, headed by State Senator Stretler, was in conference with Col. Roosevelt to-day, and afterward the Colonel said that he had been told the Progressive movement was developing rapidly there.

The Colonel was told that the Progressives would hold a meeting in Oyster Bay next Wednesday. "Bully for them," he replied.

ROOSEVELT "UNDER THE OAKS."

Will Proclaim New Party on Historic Spot in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—Theodore Roosevelt himself will "sound the keynote" at the birth of the National Progressive Party, which is to take place "Under the Oaks at Jackson" on July 20, exactly where the Republican Party was born July 6, 1854.

Charles A. Nichols, Chairman of the Roosevelt Campaign Committee in Michigan, wired from Oyster Bay, where he and W. F. Knox interviewed the Colonel, that Roosevelt had promised to come unless something exceedingly important and unforseen arises to prevent.

Many of the delegates, who will attend the convention are some of the men who met there fifty-eight years ago. The Oaks are still standing, but streets are cut through, and houses are built among them now. The founders of the new party desire to emulate their fathers as closely as possible, hence the plan to convene there instead of in a hall.

The sentiment of the Progressives in Michigan is almost solidly for a full ticket, including Presidential Electors.

ROOSEVELT MAN DEPOSED.

Parker No Longer the Democratic Boss of Louisiana.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—Because he signed the call for the third party convention, John M. Parker no longer is Democratic boss of Louisiana. Donelson Caffery, prominent in New Orleans politics for many years, succeeds him.

Officially, Parker resigned as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Louisiana Good Government League. The league recently swept the State in a primary election, seating its candidate for Governor, and practically obtaining full control of the party machinery.

Mr. Parker's espousal of the cause of Col. Roosevelt, and his formal alignment with the Bull Moose Party, stirred up a row, and at the meeting of the Executive Committee on last Monday night, Mr. Parker submitttd his resignation. To-night it was accepted.

JERSEY PROGRESSIVES IN LINE.

Decide to Adopt Whatever Name Is Chosen at Chicago Aug. 5.

At a turbulent meeting of the Progressive Republican League of New Jersey in Newark last night, a resolution was passed providing that the organization change its name to whatever name be adopted at the Roosevelt Third Party convention in Chicago on Aug. 5. Edmund B. Osborn of Montclair presided, and the question up for settlement was whether the organization should go over to the Third Party. Former State Senator Everett Colby precipitated action by introducing a resolution providing for the elimination of the word "Republican" from the title of the organization, and that its members cease their affiliation with the Republican Party. This was withdrawn and a substitute offered providing that the change of name be deferred until after the National Committee of the Progressives authorized the change.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Roosevelt League of New Jersey was held in the Newark offices of former Gov. Fort in the afternoon, and July 23 was decided upon as the date of the mass convention to be held in the New Auditorium in Asbury Park to elect delegates at large from New Jersey to the Chicago Convention. Mr. Fort will preside at the convention. Special trains for those who desire to attend will be run on that day from Camden and from Jersey City, making all stops to Asbury Park.

CLUB CLASH OVER TAFT.

Roosevelt Supporters in Brooklyn Union League Hold Up Campaign Sign.

The Taft-Roosevelt fight has caused serious trouble in the Brooklyn Union League Club, the officials, as well as the members being split on the question of whether the President or the ex-President should be supported. In the Board of Governors and the political committee the Taft and Roosevelt sympathizers are at odds, and it is feared that the trouble will spread through the big membership of the organization. Both the Colonel's admirers and the followers of the President are claiming a majority. The club has nearly 800 members.

When it was proposed, following the club's custom, that the names of the Republican nominees for President and Vice President be displayed on the big clubhouse in Grant Square there was an immediate outbreak. At a meeting of the Board of Governors First Vice President John E. Ruston, a Taft man, proposed that an electric sign bearing the names of Taft and Sherman be placed on the roof of the building. Mr. Ruston is acting as President in the absence of President Robert J. MacFarland, who is ill at his country home at Chatham, N. Y.

Fourteen of the twenty-two Governors were present. Alderman William Morrison, who is a Governor, and also Chairman of the Political Committee of the club, contended that the matter should rest with the Political Committee. The Alderman is a Roosevelt man. He was supported by other Governors who are favorable to the ex-President, and there was a lively debate. The Roosevelt men wanted to leave the controversy to the club as a body to decide. A motion to that effect, however, was lost by a vote of seven to five, two, Mr. Ruston and the Secretary, not voting. Finally, by the same vote, a motion empowering the Acting President, "through the Political Committee," to place the sign on the roof was passed. Mr. Ruston then turned to Alderman Morrison and asked:

"As Acting President, I ask you, as Chairman of the Political Committee, if you will place the sign on the roof?"

"Not until I have consulted with the other members of the committee," responded the Alderman.

"Am I to take that as a refusal?" pursued Mr. Ruston.

"You can take it as anything you please," replied Morrison.

Mr. Ruston last night said he was confident that the sign would be placed on the roof.

BONAPARTE DEFINES THEFT.

Roosevelt's Attorney General Discourses on Stealing an Electoral College.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 12.—Former Attorney General Bonaparte has replied tartly to a letter asking him to tell the difference between stealing a convention and stealing an Electoral College. The correspondence follows:

Elkton, Cecil County, Md.
The Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte.

Dear Sir: Would you please tell a plain, green countryman what the difference is between stealing a convention and trying to steal an Electoral College?

And how a gentleman who has posed as a purist in politics can square his conscience with himself in condemning the former and advocating the latter? Yours truly,

CHARLES H. NEUDECKER.

Here is the retort coteous:

Baltimore, Md., July 11.
Charles H. Neudecker, Esq., Elkton, Cecil County, Md.

Sir: Stealing is stealing, whether its subject matter be a convention, an Electoral College, or a purse, and any one guilty of stealing or of justifying stealing or of trying to confuse the consciences of his neighbors as to the guilt of stealing by sophistry and impertinence is an unworthy citizen and a dishonest man.

I hope "a plain, green countryman" is neither too "plain" nor too "green" to understand the foregoing statement.

A Presidential elector has no right to vote for a man as President whom he believes to have stolen a purse, a nomination, or anything else; nor has he any better right to vote for a man whom he believes to have received anything stolen with knowledge of theft.

Had such a man obtained the nomination fraudulently and from a packed convention, containing many more pretended delegates not entitled to sit in it than the majority whereby he was chosen, I should have deemed it my duty as a good citizen to do everything in my power to prevent his election, including retention of my place on the ticket, if that seemed an appropriate means to the last-mentioned end. I remain, Sir, yours respectfully,

CHARLES J. BONAPARTE.

DR. SCHURMAN HITS ROOSEVELT POLICIES

Direct Government Ancient, He Says, and Always Fails—Risen Leaders Lead to Despotism.

ARRAIGNS THE BOSSES, TOO

Good Words for Wilson and Also Hughes at Dinner of State Editors, Ending Convention.

The fifty-ninth annual meeting of the New York Press Association, which has been in session at the Garden City Hotel, at Garden City, L. I., since last Wednesday, ended last night with the annual dinner at the hotel. A majority of the editors of the newspapers of this State and a hundred or more invited guests were at the tables. The principal speech of the evening was by Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, who, speaking on the right of the people to rule themselves, said many things of self-proclaimed leaders that led to the belief that he had Theodore Roosevelt in mind. Dr. Schurman compared Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey with ex-Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York, pointing out how much each of them had accomplished in the way of good legislation by discussing matters of great moment with the people themselves instead of going by the will of the bosses.

"One of the greatest questions," said President Schurman, "that is now before the American people is the right of the people to rule themselves. They are profoundly dissatisfied with existing conditions of government. They feel that they do not rule themselves. Their powers and functions have been usurped by others. They find themselves dominated by bosses. They believe that the bosses are in collusion with the money power, and that the public interest is sacrificed to special interests. In the end they suspect it is the money of the rich and not the reason and conscience of the general public that is shaping the policies of our Government.

"In this atmosphere of general dist[illegible] there have naturally arisen [illegible] boast themselves the friends [illegible] ple. "Each of these reform[illegible] that the people should rule [illegible] ple should make him the [illegible] rule—in short, that the peo[illegible] him in office. The self-[illegible] gogue starts out with the [illegible] trine of the rule of the peop[illegible] with the dangerous despot[illegible] rule, the rule of himself. [illegible] unwary with his initial [illegible] restoration of popular rule [illegible] the easier to do by advoca[illegible] of direct government wher[illegible] are assured they may bec[illegible] rulers by the simple proc[illegible] to impotence their Govern[illegible] lators, and even their Jud[illegible] ple are to gain self-rule by [illegible]troying the independence and undermining the responsibility of the representatives they themselves have chosen to make, to interpret and to execute their laws! The initiative, the referendum, and the recall thus lend themselves admirably to the demagogue's scheme of making himself an autocrat.

"This scheme of direct government is to-day proclaimed as a mark of progressiveness in government. In fact, nothing could be more reactionary. It is as old as history. It was tried in ancient Greece and it failed. It was tried in ancient Rome and it failed. It led always either to anarchy or despotism. Free government was impossible on that basis. And the race to which we belong made the glorious discovery of representaive government. We have been using it for many centuries in Europe and America. It is the one great contribution we have made to the science of Government. Shall we after more than a thosand years of successful experience discard it in favor of those antiquated and outgrown failures of Government which novices and demagogues are reviving amongst us—I mean the initiative, the referendum, and the recall?

"Why are the boss and the money-changer so influential in our politics? For one reason, because we do not give power enough to the delegates and agents of Government whom the people elect or keep them long enough in the public service. An Assemblyman in the State of New York is elected for one year only, a Senator and Governor for two years only. And the Governor has no power to appoint his coadjutors in the administration of the Government; from Secretary of State to Engineer they are elected by the people. I say the people themselves would have more real control of the executive Government of the State if they elected only the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor, and permitted the Governor to name his own Cabinet like the President of the United States.

"The theory is that the people by directly electing the State Engineer, Comptroller and other executive officials, who co-operate with the Governor, are exercising the inalienable right of ruling themselves. The fact is that there are so many of these officials for State, county and city, that no voter can know anything about most of them, and the power of nomination has in most cases fallen into the hands of the bosses. The alternative is to substitute for that direct government which would have the people exercise directly all sorts of public functions, the well tried system of representative government under which the people directly elect the principal officials of government, give them power to appoint their subordinates and assistants, and hold the chief executives responsible for the results. This reform would exclude the boss from the selection of all State officials except the Governor, and the people would be free to concentrate their attention upon the candidates for that important office.

"Even at the present time, however, though the Governor's voice cannot be heard in our legislative halls, he has the wide expanse of the State as his forum and the example of Mr. Hughes in New York and of Mr. Wilson in New Jersey shows how much of good a Governor can accomplish by discussing legislative policies before the people of the State. And just in proportion as the people recognize the Governor not only as their agent in administration, but also as their leader in legislation, is the boss crowded out of the place he has too long occupied as the broker standing between lawmakers on the one hand and big corporations who would purchase legislation on the other."

Others who spoke at the dinner were Will Carleton, Calvin J. Hudson, State Commissioner of Agriculture; Charles H. Betts, editor of The Lyons [illegible] William J. Kline, editor of [illegible] dam Recorder; Col. Arthur [illegible] editor of The Troy Northern [illegible] W. W. Farley, State Com[illegible] Excise.

In the three days that they [illegible] sion the editors discussed [illegible] as "Shall Editorials Be Sig[illegible] that Should Be Exercised [illegible] ance of Advertising," [illegible] Editors Accept Appointive [illegible] President Edgar L. WINGED CAR FLIES 62 MILES AN HOUR

New French Motor Vehicle Is Driven by a Propeller Revolving in Front.

CAN REVERSE IN A MINUTE

Novel Vehicle, Designed by Bertrand de Lesseps, Makes Successful Trip from Paris to Lyons.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, July 12.—A successful trial run was made yesterday from Paris to Lyons, about 320 miles, by a motor car driven by a revolving wing, says the Figaro.

The vehicle, which was designed by Comte Bertrand de Lesseps and is called the "winged car," has the appearance of an ordinary motor car except that in front it is shaped like the prow of a ship. From the extremity of the prow extends a shaft, to which is attached a propeller or revolving wing, invented by M. Filippi.

The wing, which is small, strong, and thick, revolves within a protecting cage. The engine, which is of forty horse power, rotates the wing by a shaft and chain transmission. There is no other mechanism, the wheels of the car being free except for foot brakes.

By the side of the driver is a single lever, which controls the clutch and the forward and reverse movement of the wing. The wing can be reveresed at a moment's notice, thereby forming an additional brake.

The car complete weighs about 1,300 pounds. On its trial runs a speed of sixty-two miles an hour was obtained, with 2,100 revolutions of the wing per minute.

Comte de Lesseps, with two passengers, started from Paris at 4:35 o'clock yesterday morning. The "winged car" climbed a hill with a grade of about 1 in 10 with the greatest ease, and disappeared in the distance. A curious feature was that the car made no dust.

At midnight last night a telegram was received from Comte de Lesseps at Lyons, announcing the successful completion of the 320-mile journey.

BANKERS WATCH NEW YORK.

Bank of England Governor Sees Signs of Money Needs.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 12.—The Governor of the Bank of England, speaking at a Mansion House dinner attended by the Chancellor of the Exchequer and bankers and merchants this evening, said that while he always declined to prophesy, he did not anticipate high rates this Autumn, unless some unforeseen European complication should arise, or trade in the United States should show great activity, which it did not usually do in a year when there was a Presidential election.

Still, there were signs that money would be more wanted in New York, he added, and a watchful eye must be turned in that direction.

OUTBREAK NEAR LISBON.

Society Youths Try to Start a Rising Twelve Miles from Capital.

LISBON, July 12.—A band of mounted monarchists, composed of Lisbon society youths, appeared to-day at Carrequeria, about twelve miles from Lisbon, and attempted to provoke a rising.

A detachment of troops with artillery was dispatched in pursuit of the monarchists.

MADRID, July 12.—Press dispatches from the frontier say that Capt. Coucière, the royalist leader, with 400 men, is now at Valencia, the garrison of which place is preparing to receive an attack. The Governor of Caceres sends word that he has stopped a band of forty Portuguese royalists, who were about to cross the frontier, among them several who are believed to be prominent leaders.

MOTOR LINERS BUILDING.

Many Under Construction in Germany, Some for Hamburg Line.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, July 12.—According to a writer in the Frankfurter Zeitung, a considerable number of motor ships are now being constructed in German yards. It will be remembered that the Hamburg-American Line recently purchased the Danish motor ship Fionia, now renamed Christian X.

It is said that Messrs. Blohm & Voss of Hamburg are building a motor ship for the Woermann Line and another for the Hamburg-American Line, that the Weser Shipbuilding Company is building and has already launched a similar craft for the Hamburg-American Line, that the Reiherstieg yards at Hamburg are building a ship for the German-American Petroleum Company, that the Germania yards at Kiel are building three others for the same company, that the Howaldt yards at Kiel are building two ships, one of which is to be delivered next month for the Hamburg and South American Steamship Company, and that the Tecklenburg yards at Geestemunde are building a ship for the Hansa Line.

HERR RATHENAU LOSES LEG.

News Is Held Back to Prevent an Effect on German Electric Trust.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 12.—Deep sympathy is expressed for Privy Councilor Emil Rathenau, the Managing Director of the famous Allegemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft and head of the so-called German electric trust, who recently has had to undergo the amputation of one of his legs.

Herr Rathenau, who is 74 years old, is one of the leading captains of German industry, and wields an enormous power in the financial and commercial world. He was the founder of the first German Edison Company in 1883, and has been a pioneer in all forms of electrical enterprise in the Fatherland.

The news of his misfortune has been entirely suppressed in the newspapers, in order, it is presumed, to counteract any possible effect on the shares of the many important companies which he dominates.

STRIKERS STONE AMERICANS.

Serious Zurich Outbreak Causes Visitors to Take Flight.

ZURICH, July 12.—A serious twenty-four-hour general strike, which will probably be prolonged, began here today as a protest against the admission to Switzerland of foreign workmen of doubtful character.

The strike has caused much inconvenience and danger to visitors, who are hastily leaving. Street cars were stopped by strikers lying down across the rails. Stores in the principal streets were closed, as the strikers began to smash windows.

Taxicab drivers joined the strike, as did most of the municipal employes. The gas and electrical works are guarded by the police.

A party of Americans in a private automobile ran the gantlet to the station amid volleys of stones. The windows of the machines were smashed and the faces of several occupants of the automobile were cut.

The local authorities have called out four battalions of militiamen to check the disturbances and have asked the federal authorities to allow a battery of artillery which was passing through the city to remain. The owners of large metal works have decided upon a lockout.

MARSEILLES, July 12.—A large number of wives of the striking seamen held a demonstration to-day against the increased price of bread. They were soon joined by their husbands, and prolonged disorders ensued. There were frequent clashes with the police and troops, the strikers using stones freely. Many on both sides were hurt.

FRENCH AVIATION TRIALS.

RHEIMS, France, July 12.—The elimination trials for the purpose of choosing France's representatives for the Gordon Bennett international aviation cup contest at Chicago next September were held here to-day.

BOYS LIVE WEEK ON CRUSTS.

Run Away to New Rochelle and Nearly Starve.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 12.—Two boys who had lived for nearly a week on crusts of bread and bits of meat and fat thrown away by picnickers at a local amusement resort were picked up by the police early to-day. They said they were Charles and Frank Langhammer, thirteen and eight years of age, and that they lived at 1,550 Minford Avenue, the Bronx.

They wore Boy Scout uniforms, torn and very much soiled. They told Police Capt. Timmons that their father and mother died two weeks ago leaving them only $10, and they started out with that to make their fortune. They said they came to New Rochelle more than a week ago. The Rev. C. Hernstadt of 853 Jennings Street, the Bronx, came to New Rochelle to-day and took the boys home. He said their father was a baker, was alive, and that they had a good home.

SHOP GIRLS NEED A REST.

What the A. I. C. P. did for one is typical of what you can help it do for hundreds of others.

Worry over her sick mother and overwork as cashier in a restaurant brought this girl to the verge of nervous prostration. When the hot weather came she had to quit work. The Association sent her to Sea Breeze for two weeks. She is now healthy and happy and again helping to support her widowed mother's home.

The needs of hundreds of others are just as urgent.

The Hot Wave Is Causing Much Suffering Among the Tenement Mothers and Babies.

We appeal for your aid to send these dwellers of rear tenement, attic, and basement—the sick, the overworked, the anemic—to the seashore or country for a day, a week-end, a week, or as long as their physical condition demands.

The cost is so small in comparison with their benefits and your pleasures. Will you help now?

ENGLISH PORTRAITS BRING LARGE PRICES

$34,000 FOR A RAEBURN

Another Goes for $24,000, While a Rembrandt Portrait of His Brother Fetches $29,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 12.—The last great picture sale of the season to-day at Christie's produced the imposing total of £60,000, ($300,000,) a large share of which was contributed by a dozen Raeburns or so.

The best of all was a portrait of Lord Newton. The head is identical with the famous one in Edinburgh, but the portrait at Christie's was almost full length, and Newton is painted in robes. It went for 6,800 guineas ($34,000) to Asher Wertheimer.

A very beautiful portrait of Mrs. Duncan, née (Catherine) Melville, called an anonymous property in the catalogue, but shown six years ago at the Royal Academy's Winter exhibition by Ernest von Glehn, went for 3,200 guineas ($16,000) to Walker.

Another attractive Raeburn portrait, that of Miss Janet Law, wearing a low-cut white muslin dress, with semi-powdered hair and seated in a rustic chair, with a typical landscape background, went for 4,800 guineas ($24,000) to Asher Wertheimer.

A portrait of Count Horace St. Paul of Ewart Park, Northumberland, went to Allom for 540 guineas, ($2,700.)

One of Mrs. Kerr in a white dress, holding a letter, was bought for 500 guineas ($2,500) by Agnew.

One of Agnes Law, wife of Capt. George MakGill of Cupar, Fife, who wore a white muslin dress and a white ribbon in her powdered hair, and was shown seated, with a landscape background, went to Asher Wertheimer for £3,900, ($19,500.)

A portrait of Capt. MacGill in a scarlet coat, pendent to the above, was sold for 750 guineas ($3,750) to Wallis.

A portrait of Miss Macartney, wearing a low-cut white frilled dress and powdered hair, and with a landscape background, was bought by Agnew for 3,200 guineas, ($16,000.)

A portrait of a nameless lady, wearing a black and white turban, fastened with a diamond crescent, and seated on a crimson sofa, was sold for 3,800 guineas ($19,000) to Prideaux & Kirkman.

A portrait of Finley, Lord Rector of Glasgow University, went for 840 guineas ($4,200) to Asher Wertheimer.

Quite a number of attractive English portraits were sold besides these Raeburns. The best of all was a Gainsborough portrait of Sir Paul Pechell, in a scarlet military coat, gold epaulets, white vest, and frill. There is astounding lightness of touch in this real masterpiece, which went to Colnaghi & Obach for 4,400 guineas, ($22,000.)

A Hoppner portrait of Miss Lucy Clerk went for 950 guineas ($4,750) to Wallis.

Another Hoppner, a portrait of Miss Home, seated on the ground, in a landscape, and holding a kitten in her arms, was bought for 660 guineas ($3,300) by Asher Wertheimer.

Gainsborough's portrait of Charles Bourchier, Governor of Madras, was bought by Agnew for 540 guineas, ($2,700.)

An admirable work of Reynolds, a portrait of the Rev. Zacharias Mudge, Canon of Exeter, a little faded, but of splendid quality, was a bargain at 700 guineas, ($3,500.) Agnew bought it.

Another Reynolds, a portrait of Miss Anne de Crespigny, also went to Agnew.

A portrait by Lawrence of the Countess of Surrey, wearing a low-cut white dress and a gold chain and cameo brooch, and with the usual conventional landscape and red curtain, was bought by Asher Wertheimer for 1,900 guineas, ($9,500.)

A portrait of a nameless gentleman by Hoppner was bought by Agnew for 660 guineas, ($3,300.)

A list of foreign masters was headed by a Rembrandt portrait of his brother Adriaen. If this was actually by the master, which is not certain, it was painted at a late period. The face certainly tallies with authentic portraits of Adriaen van Rhyn at The Hague, Berlin, and St. Petersburg, but the brushwork is unusually heavy. This went to Huggins for 5,800 guineas, ($29,000.)

A precious pair of wings of a triptych, St. Catherine of Alexandria and St. Barbara, by Mabuse, went for 1,300 guineas ($6,500) to Pawsey & Payne.

A good Holbeinesque portrait of Sir Anthony Wingfield, Lord Chamberlain to Henry VIII., was bought by the same firm for 1,020 guineas, ($5,100.)

A superb pair, a gentleman and lady in black, by Nicolas Elias, real museum pieces, went for 1,900 guineas ($9,500) to Tooth.

A ten-foot Rubens, "Adoration of the Magi," a school piece, which was only touched by the master, went for 310 guineas ($1,550) to Freeman. The low price was probably due to the unwieldy size.

A charming and graceful portrait of Mrs. Beckett by an almost unknown painter, J. L. Mosnier, was sold to A. Wertheimer for 680 guineas, ($3,400.)

A view on the Rhine by Saloman van Ruysdael, signed and dated 1652, went for 1,300 guineas ($6,500) to Muller of Amsterdam.

A small river scene by Hobbema was bought by Freeman for 620 guineas, ($3,100.)

At the same time with this sale, the Taylor sale of silver and plated ware was continued in another room. The pieces were of comparatively small value, producing only £4,307, ($21,535.) The grand total of that sale to date is £352,000, ($1,760,000.) There are only two more days of the sale, and in these engravings and books will be disposed of.

RIVALS SEEK COCOS WEALTH.

Two Expeditions Fitting Out in England to Find Fabled Treasure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 12.—The treasure of Cocos Island, which was the object of rival expeditions seven or eight years ago, when Earl Fitzwilliam went in search of it, is again to be the object of a double quest.

Mrs. Barry Till and Miss Davies, who have organized one expedition, are already on their way to the Pacific Ocean, and a steamer chartered in their behalf is completing its outfit at Plymouth.

The exact date of her departure is not yet fixed, but it will probably be expedited in view of the fact that the syndicate formed by Mrs. Barry Till and Miss Davies have got wind of another expedition.

The Cocos Island treasure, for which many have hunted, is supposed to have been buried there in 1820, when there was a revolt in Peru, and wealthy citizens of Callao took their valuables and buried them on the island. When they were returning to Peru to fight a sloop of war sunk all on board but two men. The story runs that these men finally reached the island and recovered some of the treasure, but on the way back to Peru one was eaten by sharks. The other is said to have fitted a ship to recover the buried wealth, but was arrested and narrowly escaped being executed. Later he died a natural death.

Twice Earl Fitzwilliam has tried to find the fabled treasure of Cocos Island, and each time his expedition has met with misfortune.

In 1904 the Earl chartered the steamer Veronique to search for the treasure. As companions he had Admiral Palliser, retired, of the British Navy, and Col. Carter of the British Army, besides a crew, two expert miners, and sixteen negro laborers. When the party reached the island, an old German who lived there told the Englishmen that if they looked in the right place they could find £6,000,000 ($30,000,000) in treasure and a golden statue of a goddess robed in royal gems. The German "guessed" that the statue was buried under a cliff that overlooked the sea.

A premature blast blew off the top of the cliff, and this was followed by a landslide. As a result of this misfortune the Earl had a fractured skull, and a dozen men were sent to the American hospital at Ancon, Panama. This ended the treasure seeking for the time.

In 1907 the Earl's large ship, the Attiquin, built after the style of an auxiliary cruiser, was beached on the coast of Honduras and became a complete loss. Earl Fitzwilliam and his crew narrowly escaped with their lives, and went to Belize, where they were cared for by the British colonial authorities.

BOLIVIAN NATIVES TORTURED.

Mutilation and Murder Mark Suarez's Collection of Rubber.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., July 12.—Horrible tales of atrocities committed in the rubber-growing region of Bolivia have been brought here by Charles E. Meyers of Oakland, Cal., who has just returned from a trip through Bolivia, Peru, Chile, and Colombia, where he has been examining the mining prospects for a syndicate of capitalists. He declares that the condition of the unfortunate natives is infinitely worse than that of the inhabitants of the Congo rubber region in Africa.

Francisco Suarez, Mr. Meyers declares, has established himself as the undisputed ruler of 400 square miles on the east side of the Beni River, one of the head waters of the Amazon. Here are forests fabulously rich in rubber trees, from which Suarez has amassed a large fortune at the expense of terrible human suffering.

With an army of 200,000 natives, he has been able to make himself independent of all properly constituted authority. He demands from every native a stated quantity of rubber at regular intervals, and when it is not forthcoming subjects the wretched defaulters to a process of progressive amputation and torture, culminating, if the failure persists, in decapitation. Neither women nor children are exempt from his exactions, and they live in terror and die of despair, as they are butchered without the smallest chance of escape.

Those who offend Suarez are executed at his slightest whim or are thrown into jail and manacled to walls to perish slowly of heat and starvation. Even the tyrant's own brother was put to death, as Suarez fancied that he was plotting treason against him.

LIQUOR FIGHT TO CONGRESS.

Speaker Clark to Seek Inquiry Into Anti-Saloon League Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—The fight between U. G. Robinson, formerly head of the Anti-Saloon League, and the other members of the league will be carried to the floor of Congress on Monday when Speaker Champ Clark will present a resolution calling for an investigation of the charges which have been made against Robinson by the league. The charges are that Robinson, through his influence with Speaker Clark and several Republican members of the House, conspired to kill measures which had been introduced against the liquor interests. The charges also embrace Hugh F. Harvey of the Liquor Dealers' Association, with whom the Anti-Saloon League charges Robinson co-operated.

Effort will be made to show that the Prohibition Party is back of the investigation.

MILITIA HUNTS SLAYER.

Kentucky Troops Search Mountains for Fugitive Guarded by Friends.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 12.—According to news received here, the militia company at Salyersville, has been ordered into service to trail a man accused of murder, who guarded by friends, is defying arrest in the mountain fastnesses of Magoffin County.

The murder occurred several days ago, but the name of the man killed or that of his murderer has not been learned. After killing the man the murderer escaped to the hills where he called upon his friends to guard him from the local officers. A fight is expected if the soldiers should come up to the guarded fugitive.

STEEL TRUST PROFIT EXPOSED IN REPORT

House Investigating Committee Reveals Earnings, but Fails to Take Anti-Trust Action.

PLANS FOR ANOTHER REMEDY

Allied Interests Clear $16 a Ton on Products, While Rivals Can Make Only $7 a Ton.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A report on the findings of the House committee appointed to investigate the United States Steel Corporation probably will be presented next week. Chairman Stanley will submit the report to the full committee on Monday. Since the committee began its hearings, fourteen months ago, Chairman Stanley has lost forty pounds in weight, while American consumers of steel are said to have saved $70,000,000 in the same time, owing to price reductions.

The report now being prepared by a very influential element for consideration in whole or in part at the investigating committee's meeting, scheduled to be held next Monday, will find that the trust makes twice as much from its products as does even the most favorably situated of its competitors, but the report will not recommend that action be taken under the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

According to this forthcoming report, the United States Steel Corporation makes from $10 to $16 a ton on its products, while the best profit that even its most successful rivals can show ranges only from $4 to $7 a ton. The difference in favor of the Steel Corporation, according to the report, is not to be attributed to cheaper processes of manufacture, nor yet to the enjoyment of exclusive patent rights. Neither can it be laid to the possession of ore beds, coal mines, limestone quarries, or coke ovens. On the contrary, it is pointed out that the independents, notably the Jones & Laughlin Company, actually own a greater proportion of this sort of assets than does the Steel Corporation, but nevertheless they fall far short of making as much money per ton as does their big competitor.

The sole reason that the United States Steel Corporation is able to show such a big margin over all other producing concerns, according to the forthcoming report, arises from its ownership of transportation facilities, by means of which it can assemble its raw materials and market its output more cheaply than any one else.

For instance, Connellsville coke costs the trust mills at Gary, Ind., $2 a ton for freight. The Inland Steel Company, an independent, right in the same neighborhood, pays the same freight also, nevertheless the Inland Steel labors under a handicap of 38 cents a ton on this one item alone, in its competition with the United States Steel. The joker comes in the distribution of the $2 freight between the trunk line that brings the coke into the Chicago territory and the belt line that lays it down at the mill.

There are two of these belt lines, running around Chicago in a sort of rough semi-circular route from lake shore to lake shore, and paralleling each other in a general way. These two lines are the Indiana Belt and the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern. The Indiana Belt gets 10 cents out of the consignee's $2 for moving the coke; the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern gets 40 cents for the same service. It costs both roads actually two cents a ton to carry the coke from trunk line to destination.

The Indiana Belt delivers to the Inland Steel; the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern to the United States Steel mills at Gary. But the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern is owned by the Steel Trust, while the Indiana Belt is not owned by the Inland Steel, so that the upshot of the whole transaction is that the Steel Corporation really pays $1.62 a ton net to get its coke from Connellsville, while the Inland Steel pays the full $2.

Virtually the same situation obtains at Ashtabula, Ohio, a transshipping point where the Steel Trust owns most of the docks. The Steel Trust can transship for 2 cents a ton; it charges 12 to 18 cents for the service. This sum, it is pointed out, must be multiplied by two in order to get at the real margin of difference between the independents' position and that enjoyed by the Steel Corporation, because all moneys subtracted in this way from the independents' earnings are thereby added to the Steel Corporation's.

Intimation was made yesterday that one resolution would prohibit an industrial concern from owning a railroad or other common carrier. Thus it is hoped the alleged advantage enjoyed by the Steel Corporation might be abolished without the necessity of proceeding to court for the dissolution of the concern.

Whether there will be an actual majority report submitted by the Investigating Committee is said to be open to question. The committee consists of five Democrats and four Republicans, and if Martin W. Littleton, Democratic representative from New York, does not sign the report, as he may not, the Democratic majority will be destroyed. This matter, however, has not yet been definitely determined, and the committee will probably hold a number of conferences next week before any report is introduced into the House.

FINED $500 FOR ATTACK.

Fred Foster, Who Drove Five Joy Riders to Death, Sentenced.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 12.—Judge Gnichtel, in the Mercer County Court, to-day imposed a fine of $500, and costs, amounting to $83, upon Frederick M. Foster, who last January drove an automobile into the water power canal near this city, drowning five young persons, following his conviction for assault and battery on Milton Kurtes of this city. The Judge placed Foster in charge of the probation offficer of the county for three years.

The assault was said to have grown out of a dispute because Foster's dog chased Kurtes's chickens. Judge Gnichtel said that because of Foster's youth he would not impose a jail sentence.

Complain of Third Avenue Tracks.

Persons living in 125th Street have complained to the Public Service Commission that the street car tracks of the Third Avenue Railway are in such a condition as to cause undue noise. A hearing in the matter will be held before the Public Service Commission on July 23.

PECK BACK TO THE ARMY.

Taft Signs Bill and May Restore Young Captain Who Was Too Zealous

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The President has signed the Senate bill authorizing him to appoint Robert H. Peck as Captain in the army. In a statement accompanying the notice of this approval of the measure the President says he will wait for further information in regard to the record of Peck as an officer in the army before making the appointment.

Capt. Peck was graduated from West Point with the class of 1890. He served a year with the Tenth Infantry, when he was promoted to be First Lieutenant and a few months later was transferred to the Twenty-fourth Regiment. One of the Majors of the Twenty-fourth Infantry was Elmore F. Taggart, now Lieutenant Colonel of the Fourth Infantry. Taggart will be remembered as figuring in a divorce trial in Columbus, Ohio, eight years ago, the disclosures in which reflected severely on Taggart. Capt. Peck made certain charges against Taggart involving his good name as an officer and gentleman. In prosecuting his quest for evidence against Taggart Peck maintained a surveillance on Taggart's movements both around the post while off duty and also when in his quarters, the result of which was a long series of charges that if proved would have cost Taggart his commission.

Instead of Taggart being tried for the offenses which appeared to be sustained, charges were made against Peck for the manner in which he undertook to get evidence against his senior officer, whom he declared should be tried and put out of the army for the good of the service. Peck was tried, convicted, and dismissed from the army on Aug. 4, 1910. Many officers sympathized with him and felt that a great injustice had been done, but the methods he had pursued in his desire to show how demoralizing the conduct of Major Taggart was on the men of the battalion were clearly subject to examination by a court, and when the facts were proved and, indeed, admitted by Capt. Peck himself, there was no alternative but a finding of guilty. Peck went under and Taggart stayed in the army.

Capt. Peck was regarded as an excellent officer. He was an honor graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry School in 1904 and a graduate of the Staff College in 1905. He has had two tours in the Philippines, and did good service there.

WOMEN NEED TEAM WORK.

The "Camp Fire Girls" Show the Dignity of Labor, Says Dr. Gulick.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The fiftieth annual convention of the National Education Association closed to-day. E. T. Fairchild, the new President, said undoubtedly the Executive Committee at a meeting in the Autumn would ratify the selection of Salt Lake City, Utah, for next year's meeting.

Dr. Luther H. Gulick of the Child Hygiene Department of the Russell Sage Foundation spoke at the evening session on "The Camp Fire Girls and the New Relation of Women to the World." He said in part:

"To meet her new and larger responsibilities, it is necessary that the woman of the present world should learn to do team work. It is necessary that the consciousness of dignity, romance, and beauty be again restored to daily work, that it may once more take the fundamental place in the training of strong, true character.

"The deepest need of woman is the need of being needed. If ever woman was needed, it is to-day. The very riot of our material riches is the peril of our souls. The Camp Fire Girls is an organization which aims to bring the power of organization and the charm of romance again into the humble acts and needs of daily life. It is a deliberate attempt to help meet the new and splendid social world, which is before us."

Rural education as now conducted was described as "behind the times," and threatening the prosperity of the farmers, by several other speakers, and the lack of funds for country schools was attributed to the system of renting farms.

Under the one-year lease system, said Warren H. Wilson of New York, farmers could not be expected to spend money either for improvement of the land or for school houses. They would not build schools in a community where they were only temporarily located, and he quoted figures purporting to show that the profits of Iowa farmers depended on child labor.

$12,000 Verdict for Mrs. Jay.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., July 12.—Mrs. Agnes Jay, widow of Wilfred Jay, editor of Bit and Spur, who with C. J. Ross, a photographer, was struck at the Westbury crossing June 17, 1911, by a Long Island Railroad train, won a verdict of $12,000 to-day from a Sheriff's jury by default in an action brought against James Bannister, who was driving the engine. Bannister, as in a previous action in which he was co-defendant with the Long Island Railroad, did not answer. The action was then decided in favor of the railroad. In the present action the engineer and several other witnesses testified in favor of Mrs. Jay.

The Galway Men's Excursion.

The annual excursion of the Galway Men's Association will be to Idlewild Grove to-morrow, the steamers departing from Thirty-second Street and the East River at noon and returning at 10:30 o'clock at night. John J. Daly, the athlete, is President of the association, and he has arranged an athletic programme for the outing at the grove. Orchestras have been engaged to play on the steamers on the outgoing and return trips and also in the park during the day.

Through an oversight no credit was given to The Musical Courier for two photographs that appeared in last Sunday's TIMES as illustrations of an article on music teachers. HARMONY

There is not a richer word in the English language than Harmony—nor a condition more to be desired in all walks of life, social and commercial.

Between men, between communities, between a business and its clients, harmonious relations constitute the solidest foundation for mutual good.

And to those who are not unfamiliar with the friction which too often attends the conduct of a building operation it should be of interest to know that, with forty million dollars' worth of work now under our control, not a single discordant note mars the harmonious relations between the Architects, the Owners and ourselves.

TO ADMIT CHILD IMMIGRANTS.

Secretary Nagel Removes Restrictions on Children of Naturalized Parents.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—All bars restricting the admission to the United States of minor foreign-born children of naturalized citizens, whether imbeciles, idiots, or other forbidden classes, were swept away to-day by a far-reaching interpretation of the immigration and naturalization laws by Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

The Secretary authorized the entry into this country from Russia of Riwke Polayes, 11½ years old, who has been held at Ellis Island, New York, for several weeks, threatened with deportation on the certificate of surgeons of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service that she is an imbecile. Granting she is an imbecile, the Secretary held that the immigration laws were not applicable to her because her father, Jacob Polayes of New Haven, Conn., is a naturalized citizen.

Mr. Nagel interpreted the law to mean that the naturalization of a man conferred American citizenship upon all his minor children as soon as they relinquished their residence abroad.

This decision completely overturned the previous policy of the Government. The law provides that minor children of an alien who are living in the United States automatically become citizens of this country as soon as their father is naturalized, but officials have invariably held in the past that all children dwelling outside the United States at the time of their father's naturalization must pass the immigration tests before they can enter and claim citizenship.

The Secretary said the question revolved about the interpretation of the word "reside" in the Immigration act, which provides that the citizenship shall become operative when a minor child "begins to reside permanently in the United States." Residence being largely intention, Mr. Nagel declared that the "constructive residence" of the child, as soon as it abandoned its foreign home, was the dwelling place of the father. Consequently when the little girl sailed from Russia she was constructively residing in the United States.

The question has never been decided by the courts in connection with the present immigration laws, and there was wide divergence of opinion among officials. Attorney General Wickersham and practically all the authorities of the Department of Commerce and Labor at first disagreed with Secretary Nagel, but the latter is said to have convinced them of the correctness of his position.

OMIT CLAUSE OUSTING WOOD.

Contentious Features of Army Bill Dropped by Senate Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate Committee on Military Affairs has about completed its revision of the Army Appropriation bill, which was vetoed by President Taft. After the veto the House passed its original bill, without the amendments affecting Gen. Wood, which had been inserted by the Conference Committee. The bill was then sent to the Senate, with the hope that the Senate committee would revise it and put it in such shape that the President would finally sign it, the House being willing to pass the Senate bill as revised.

The Senate committee will report the revised bill to the Senate in a day or so. The committee has stricken from the bill much of the objectionable new legislation which was in the first bill as submitted to the President. It has eliminated the section which was intended to legislate Gen. Wood out of office and has made other corrections, notably in Section 10, which provided that officers who had been absent from their regiments for over two years, by detail, should immediately return to their regiments or lose their pay. This clause would have interfered greatly with the service in the insular possessions as well as in the Panama Canal Zone. It affected a number of officers who were detailed to the army schools, and would break up their courses of study and work much hardship among them. The Senate committee, in the new bill, has exempted those in the insular possessions and in the Panama Canal service and those attending army schools from the provisions of this section.

It is now thought that the bill will be quickly passed and accepted by the House, and then go the President for his signature.

POLICE STILL GUARD HIS 'PRIVATE HOUSE'

Rosenthal, Raided as a Gambler, Tells of Persecution, but Officials Ridicule Charges.

HE HAS MADE THEM BEFORE

Proprietor Capitulates When Policemen Armed for a Raid Go to Release Patrolman Locked in His House.

Behind the icebox door of what he called his "strictly private residence," where on the night before he had locked in one of the policemen who had been left on guard there ever since the place was raided three months ago as a gambling house, Herman Rosenthal of 104 West Forty-fifth Street unbosomed himself to reporters yesterday afternoon, declaring that his was a case of "the worst police persecution in history." It was all the worse, he explained, because one of those foremost in his alleged persecution had before the raid been a partner with him in his "strictly private residence" and had helped set him up there. The raid, he declared, had been made with profuse apologies by the police partner in question, accompanied by advice to him to keep out of the house himself when the raid "came off" and a promise—subsequently carried out—to cancel the mortgage on the household furniture, which, Rosenthal said, his police partner had exacted from him for the loan of $1,500 for the equipment of the place.

After the raid, however, he declared his partner and he fell out, and the "persecution" began.

"Lieut. Becker—he of the Strong Arm Squad who is getting so much fame by his raids—has boasted that he will keep a policeman in my house day and night as long as he is in the Police Department," said Rosenthal. "I won't stand it," he added. "There are no policemen in other houses that I know of. My lawyer tells me that they have no right in mine. District Attorney Whitman has advised me to throw them out. The Mayor, I know, is opposed to such persecution. He was elected on the principle that a man's home is his castle. So out they'll go."

They didn't go out yesterday, though. One, Policeman Beatty of the West Forty-seventh Street Station House, who had been locked in from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 12 o'clock Thursday night, was relieved by Policeman Tomney at midnight only after the police had threatened to kick down or break down the doors of the "strictly private residence."

Rosenthal, at the advice of a little man whom he called "Counsellor," let the relief man in at the last moment, declaring that he would give the police "one more day" pending a personal appeal to Deputy Police Commissioner McKay in the morning. But Mr. McKay refused to see the Counsellor yesterday morning, and sent word that the police guard would stay in the strictly private residence with the ice-box doors and peep-hole.

Wherefore Counsellor Rosenbach and Rosenthal went to the West Side Court, where Rosenthal asked for warrants for the arrest of Police Inspector Hayes and Capt. William Day of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, on affidavits charging them with oppression. Magistrate Butts took the matter under advisement until this morning, when warrants may or may not be issued.

Yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, Lieut. Jack Ross and four policemen of the West Forty-seventh Street Station went to Rosenthal's house to relieve Policeman Tomney, who sat in his shirtsleeves behind the barred iron grating of a front window on the second floor. Uncertain as to whether or not Rosenthal would let them enter, the police had come prepared for violent action. In front of the building they unwrapped an odd-looking parcel, from which they drew forth a long rope and an axe. The rope they intended to throw up to Tomney at the window, so that he might draw up the axe after it.

"We may not be able to break in," explained Lieut. Ross, "but surely Tomney can break out."

"Wait!" cried Rosenthal. "I'm going to open for you until I get a ruling from the court." And he let Policeman William E. Rehan, the relief man, in.

It's an odd room, the great silk-lined chamber where Rehan took his post in shirt sleeves and comfortable cigar clouds for the rest of the morning and afternoon. The room is exactly as on the night of the raid. Deep velvet rugs soften every footfall. Chairs line the walls. There is a curious Japanese cabinet containing poker chips and bits of paper against one wall. In a deep recess in another wall, behind a screen, stands a telephone, with curious lettered and figured tables stacked up beneath. There is a mahogany table in the centre of the room, with a high chair and several lower ones around it. The room extends back the length of the house, and at the far end a great electric ventilator is built in the wall above the window. Rosenthal doesn't work it for the policeman on guard. Paintings of famous race horses adorn the walls of the room.

But the most peculiar feature of the room is the door leading into the hall. This is nearly half a foot thick, but otherwise looks perfectly normal. Upon a slight downward pressure one of the white panels slides into a socket, revealing a neat little square peephole, through which the richly furnished hall can be seen, with paintings and statuary adorning it. Conceivably at the time of a raid policemen could also be seen amid the statuary and paintings, running up the stairs of this luxurious but strictly private residence.

"You see, gentlemen," explained Rosenthal, before all these features of his mansion had been discovered by the reporters, "mine is a plain, ordinary dwelling house, the same as any other. Is it right, I ask, that I should be persecuted in this way, with a policeman for breakfast, dinner, and supper? No, Sir. He shall go out."

Lieut. Becker of the Strong Arm Squad, who led the raid upon Rosenthal's house on the night of April 15 last, declared last night that Rosenthal had been making his charges of police persecution and graft for many months, but that there was not a word of truth in them.

"As for me," he declared, "I have never been connected with him in any way, either in business or friendship. He tried hard to make it seem that I was by inviting me to dinner in public places, but I always declined. I have known him for years. He was the man who caused all the trouble that led to the removal of Deputy Police Commissioner Driscoll a year or so ago, when Rosenthal, after a raid on the Hesper Club and one of his places in 116th Street, told the Mayor that Detectives Cody and Murphy were implicated in graft there.

"When he opened up his present establishment in Forty-fifth Street he pretended that he had some influence with the police which would shield him from trouble, and he displayed with much pride a note for $2,500 which he said he held from a powerful politician of the city.

"In making the raid upon his place, I was acting under orders. I had been ordered to get evidence against him and other gambling houses, and I did. The charge that the raid was faked and that he was told that he would be reimbursed for any expense or damage resulting therefrom is absurd. I had nothing whatever to do with the detailing of a policeman in his house thereafter. I am under the impression that a policeman is being kept on guard in his house by direct orders from City Hall. I do not care to discuss this phase of the matter, however, without permission from my superiors."

It was reported yesterday that Rosenthal's case is being made a test by the whole brotherhood of gambling house proprietors, and that they are awaiting its issue before throwing open their houses.

GETS OUT OF PAUL KELLY'S.

Man Detective Sought Escaped by Gambling House Roof.

Ever since he raided the place as a gambling house several weeks ago, Lieut. Dominick Reilly of the Central Office had stationed a sleuth in front of Paul Kelly's house at 588 Seventh Avenue, just below Times Square, to watch for three men for whose arrest he held unexecuted warrants issued by Magistrate McQuade. The lookout found it easier to look out than in, however, for the great plate glass window on the second floor was built to keep the light out rather than let it in. Against its opaque green surface shone the innocent name of "The Noon Day Social Club."

Last night the lookout thought he saw one of the men he sought enter the place. He immediately called Lieut. Reilly on the telephone, announcing that "John Doorman No. 2" was in the house. Five minutes later, in the view of a crowd of several hundred persons from Times Square, Reilly and a squad of four detectives forced a way through the street door and up into the building.

There they found a few lights turned low, but no men. There wasn't a soul in the house, as they searched it from cellar to roof, but the door to the roof stood ajar.

"He got out through the roof," declared Reilly, as he emerged from the building, while the crowd outside jeered.

MANY WOULD WED 'HEIRESS.'

Miss Colla Has Had "Offers" from All Parts of the World.

Ever since it was reported several months ago that Miss Cora Colla, a public school teacher, of 272 Sackett Street, Brooklyn, would inherit part of an estate in New Foundland said to be worth many millions, she has received proposals of marriage from all parts of this country and Europe. Her mail has grown so heavy that the letter carrier on the route wants assistance.

Miss Colla has paid no serious attention to these letters. She is more interested in the outcome of the long litigation over the New Foundland estate. The legal wrangle over the property, which consists of a strip of land along the waterfront, has occupied the attention of the New Foundland courts for many years. Miss Colla heard yesterday that a settlement was expected within a short time.

The property was originally owned by Samuel Church, who obtained it in a grant from King George III. of England. Church was a great-great-great-grandfather of Miss Colla. Joseph Colla, the father of the heiress, is a carpenter. He has been happily married many years, but that has not prevented the approaches of widows since the story of his promised good fortune was published. He has a letter from a woman in Seattle, who wrote that she was 45 years old, well educated, a Virginian by birth, beautiful, refined, &c., and would willingly change her name to Colla.

BOY A DRUNKARD AT 15.

Mother Complains That He Has Had the Habit Three Years.

Mrs. Anna McLaughlin of 246 East Twenty-seventh Street appeared in the Children's Court yesterday and asked Justice Hoyt to issue a warrant for the arrest of her fifteen-year-old son, William Finn, who, she said, had been a habitual drunkard for the last three years. The boy was arrested and arraigned in court yesterday afternoon.

The boy is tall and thin. His face shows signs of dissipation. He admitted to Justice Hoyt that he "liked his hops" and said he had been intoxicated frequently. He was remanded to the custody of the Children's Society until July 15 to await the investigation of the case by the officers of the society.

INJURED RESCUER CAN SUE.

Minnesota Court Rules That Life-Saving Hurts Are a Cause of Action.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—A person who attempts to rescue another in peril of his life, if injured in the attempt, may recover damages, was the opinion handed down to-day by the State Supreme Court.

John Perpich and a co-laborer in the Leetonia Mine named Martinovich, were employed as dynamiters. Five charges were prepared but only two of the fuses lighted. Martinovich was endeavoring to set the others, when Perpich ran toward him. One of the charges exploded, killing Martinovich and dangerously injuring Perpich. The latter brought suit and obtained a judgment in the lower court.

ACCUSED SLAYER PLEADS.

Californian Arraigned for Murder of Soap Maker in Lynn, Mass.

SALEM, Mass., July 12.—William A. Dorr of Stockton, Cal., who is charged with the murder of George E. Marsh, a soap manufacturer of Lynn, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the Superior Court here to-day. No date for the trial was set. Dorr appeared to have recovered from the physical collapse he suffered at the time of his arrest.

The body of Mr. Marsh, pierced by several bullets, was found beside the Revere Beach Boulevard, near Point-of-Pines, March 11 last. The Lynn police, after an extended investigation, obtained evidence which, they say, justified the arrest of Dorr.

ZOO ELEPHANT TRIES TO KILL ITS KEEPER

Knocks Him Down with Its Trunk and Then Gores Him in the Leg.

SAVED BY MAN HE'D RESCUED

Gunda Had Sought to Trample His Victim, but Couldn't Get at Him in Corner Where He'd Been Flung.

This is the story of Gunda, biggest of all the elephants in the Bronx Zoo, who yesterday morning turned upon his friend and keeper, Walter Thuman, and tried his savage best to kill him.

Gunda is sulking in the corral, shifty and unappeased. Thuman lies fearfully wounded at his home in East 179th Street, while little Dick Richards, another of the keepers, is hustling about the Zoo, doing two men's work and looking forward with no great relish to going in and putting the chains on Gunda. Thuman owes his life to Richards, whose life he saved five years ago from the wrath of this same Gunda.

It happened yesterday morning before 7 o'clock. Richards and Thuman had gone into the elephant house, and while the former was tending to the wants of Alice, Thuman was beyond the arched entrance cleaning the barred stall where Gunda stays at night. It was always Thuman who had this task, for he was the only keeper Gunda would tolerate. The big elephant never pretended to any affection for Richards.

Thuman had turned Gunda out into the corral and was moving briskly about his task of cleaning the stall, or cage, when the heavy iron doors were pushed open and Gunda came swaying back in. There was nothing so very unusual about that, and Thuman started to adjust his hook to lead the elephant out.

Then it all came in the space that a breath is held. Without a shadow of provocation, without a trace of warning, the great beast swung his trunk through the air, and with the impact of a rushing locomotive, struck his keeper across the breast, hurling him fifteen feet across the stall, to land with a crash against the iron wall. Thuman crumpled up on the cement floor, limp, dazed, and breathless, while Gunda drew back for a rush at him. In those few seconds, the keeper tried to crawl a few inches further toward the corner of the stall. Gunda rushed, but his prey was too far into the corner. With his own great head in the way, he found it hard to trample on the man and kill him that way.

Then he used his tusks, a vicious lunge. One thrust, and the long ivory weapon was lifted into the air, dripping with Thuman's blood, and in the fleshy part of Thuman's leg, there was a great hole three inches deep. The man was helpless. Gunda swayed back, and thrust again—thrust blindly, and this time his tusks struck a smashing blow upon the converging walls of the stall. There was a splintering noise. Five pounds of ivory clattered to the floor and rolled over to the side of the wounded keeper.

Keeper Rushes to the Rescue.

Meanwhile, young Richards, an agile keeper—short, light, and of wiry build—was humming about his work in Alice's stall. The sound of Thuman's cries meant nothing. Thuman always roared and shouted when he was with his animals. But the sound of the cry was suddenly mingled with a strange, splintering, cracking noise. It was not unlike the clattering noise that noisy Teddy makes with his tusks every morning, when he rattles them against the iron bars that make his cage.

But this was different somehow, and, like a shot, Richards was out of Alice's stall and racing along the elephant house to Gunda's stall. As he ran he caught up a pitchfork that was resting against the railing, and, with this in his hand, he sprang through the open grating that keeps the spectators at a safe distance from the elephants. Furious at the breaking of his tusk and ugly now beyond all control, Gunday was backing away for another attack on Thuman, who lay defenseless on the floor.

There was only the briefest second to spare, but you think very fast at such a time, when your friend is down and a vicious jungle beast is bent on killing him. In that second young Richards saw that he must go into that stall. Two things might happen. He might be able to bluff Gunda into the corral, or he might draw the elephant's fury on his own head. Wouldn't he on his feet have a better fighting chance than his friend lying there wounded on the floor? Richards went into the stall, a running jump between the big bars.

He looked square into the wicked, shifting eyes of Gunda, and, lifting his pitchfork like a javelin, threw it with all his force at the elephant's head. Gunda winced under the glancing blow, swayed uncertainly for a moment, tossed his head, and then, weakening, turned and shuffled out and into the corral. Spent and shaking, Richards fell against the doors, and shoved the great bar into place.

"You and I were playing poker, Gunda," Richards whispered to himself, "and I've won."

Then he bent over Thuman.

"Now we're square, old man," he said, and went out to get help.

For it was Thuman who saved Richards from Gunda five years ago, when the elephant was in the antelope house and catching Richards unaware charged upon him. Richards gave one quick jump and landed on the big fellow's tusks as a gymnast on the parallel bars. It served as a defense until Thuman, who had the animal under his control, came running to the resuce.

Thuman, besides the wound in his leg, has an ugly cut at the base of the skull. There is hardly an inch on his back that is not painfully bruised.

Thuman had known the savagery of Gunda's temper before. The memento of that occasion was found in Dr. Blair's office, when he took the ivory there yesterday, to find that it measured 23½ inches in length and weighed 5½ pounds. Its companion piece was a smaller bit of tusk, on which some one had written in ink, "From Gunda, July 21, 1909."

That Summer day three years ago, Gunda turned upon Thuman in the corral, struck him with his trunk and knocked him twelve feet. The keeper managed to scramble through the bars and into the space that separates the inner bars from the outer grating. Gunda charged again, and his tusk, crashed against the bars with such force as to break a few inches off and leave him black with rage while Thuman got to safety.

Yesterday the keepers just gave Gunda several hours in which to calm down. He roved about the corral, shifting his glance suspiciously and showing restlessness and anger at every approach. They will probably decide that it will not be necessary to shoot Gunda. Chains will be put on for a while and later he will probably be equipped with a surcingle attached to a heavy ball on the end of his tusks to prevent his raising his head or using his tusks as a weapon.

Gunda is young as elephants go, hailing from Assam in North East India, where he was born some sixteen or seventeen years ago. In 1903 he was captured, and in 1904 he was bought from Hagenback by Col. Oliver H. Payne, a member of the Zoological Society, who paid $3,000 for him. That year he was presented to the Bronx Zoo, and settled there a stripling weighing only 3,740 pounds and being only 6 feet 7 inches tall at the shoulders. Now he is 8 feet 9 inches tall and weighs more than four tons. When he first arrived he was in the care of a Hindoo keeper, from whom he suffered himself to be parted without a sign of regret. He is not affectionate.

Gunda Used to Carry Children.

But he seemed docile enough, and for the first two Summers he was allowed to carry the children along the paths—an exciting adventure in the big, flamboyant houdah. Then it seemed advisable to discontinue that, for there was a change of keepers, and, anyway, the bulls grow testy with the passing years.

Dr. Blair smiled at the accounts in the afternoon papers, which ascribed the tempest to the excessive heat. If there is one thing that an Indian elephant loves, it is excessive, Equatorial heat. Most of the cases where elephants have turned on their keepers, said Dr. Blair, have been quite as unprompted and unprovoked. You never know why they have done it and you never know when they will do it again.

INSURANCE EXCHANGE LOSES

In Fight Against William Hauser—Section in Law Unconstitutional.

William Hauser, an attorney of 100 Williams Street, who has carried on a single-handed battle against the New York Fire Insurance Exchange and the Brokers' Association because of certain restrictions on licenses for insurance brokerage, won a victory yesterday in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Owing to his test case Section 142 of the insurance law, which provides that no man shall receive a license for insurance brokering unless insurance or real estate is his chief occupation, was declared unconstitutional. Mr. Hauser conducts a small insurance business on the side in his law office; the "insurance trust," he said, was protected from his obtaining a license, and thus encroaching on its ground, by the fact that he was not principally connected in a brokerage business. Mr. Hauser set up the contention that the restriction was unconstitutional, and his proposition was sustained by four members of the Appellate Court, Justice McLoughlin being the sole dissenting voice.

"Such a prohibition," Justice Clark said in his decision, "is arbitrary and unreasonable interference on the right of a citizen to pursue any lawful business. We cannot refrain, moreover, from the thought that the particular provision in question was formulated in the interests of those engaged in the insurance brokerage business, and that the promotion of the public welfare was so remote that it was simply not considered at all."

Section 42 was supported by the Fire Insurance Association when it came before the Legislature of 1911.

A NEW VOLUNTEER HOSPITAL.

It Is to be Erected at the Corner of Beekman and Water Streets.

The Volunteer Hospital has purchased from Charles Laue & Brother a site on the southwest corner of Beekman and Water Streets for the erection of a new home. For some time past the hospital staff and workers have been much cramped for room in their building at 93 Gold Street while the work, especially that connected with the dispensary, has advanced to large proportions.

The new Volunteer Hospital will be fireproof throughout. It will be five stories high, and the roof will be used as a recreation ward, operating room, kitchen and laundry. Improved accommodation for ambulance service and reception of patients, ample ward room for surgical and medical cases, small wards for septic cases, and private rooms for the use of special cases are provided for. Special attention has been given to the dispensary service, this department having ample room for both men and women, with operating rooms, drug store, and waiting rooms for both sexes. The building will be constructed of limestone and a light brick, and it will be ready for occupancy on Jan. 1, 1913.

IGNORE INTERBORO CHARITY.

Only 700 Persons Have Taken Free Rides This Summer.

So far this Summer comparatively few of the charitable organizations of the city have taken advantage of the offer of the Interborough to transport, free of charge, to Van Cortlandt Park and back women and children. Last year the company thus gave an outing to 7,000 persons, but this year, in spite of the heat of the last week, only about 700 persons have applied for and received a free ride.

Frank Hedley, Vice President and General Manager of the Interborough, said yesterday that he wished more of the charities would accept the company's hospitality. All they have to do is to apply to Charities Commissioner Drummond, and if he approves of their request he will forward it to the company. A time will be set for the parties to start and a sufficient number of cars will be set apart for them in the regular trains to carry them comfortably. The Interborough will send a representative along to see that the women and children obtain every attention, and the same arrangements will be made to bring them home again.

THE TIMES HAS A SMALL FIRE.

Burning Soot in a Ventilating Shaft Does Little Damage.

There was a small fire in The Times Building yesterday afternoon. It was discovered shortly after 2 o'clock in the gallery between the sixteenth and seventeenth floors. It originated in soot that had accumulated in the fire-brick lined walls of the ventilating shaft that reaches from the second-sub-basement to the roof of the tower. It was confined to the soot and the damage done was negligible.

An alarm was turned in from the corner of Forty-second Street and Broadway, and two engines were used to pump the water to the stand-pipes. The streams were played into the shaft from the opening on the sixteenth floor and from the roof.

WILL IN FOURTEEN WORDS.

A will of fourteen words was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court for probate. It was that of Moses Cohn, who died at his home, 14 West 127th Street, on June 21. His estate is valued at more than $10,000 in personalty. The will states:

"I, Moses Cohn, give and bequeath all my estate to my wife, Johanna Cohn."

Sarah Bernhardt in Motion Pictures.

The motion picture films of Sarah Bernhardt in the play "Queen Elizabeth," were shown privately for the first time here yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum Theatre. It has been announced that Daniel Frohman has allied himself with the Players' Photo Film Company, which has for its purpose the reproduction of great plays with the original players in them. Later several other stars will pose for pictures for this company.

PUSHCART MARKETS A UNITED DEMAND

City Officials, Catholic Charities, and Hebrew Charities Urge Use of City Lots.

CITY WOULD GET REVENUE

It Is Figured $250,000 Would Fall Into City Treasury if Proposed Plan Were Adopted.

Emphatic approval of the proposal to concentrate all pushcart peddlers of the city in pushcart marts on vacant city property or in designated sections of streets under bridges and elevated structures was expressed by many civic and social organizations and workers yesterday. Borough President Cyrus C. Miller of the Bronx, who is also Chairman of the Mayor's Special Committee on Markets, and Commissioner William H. Edwards of the Department of Street Cleaning, upon whom falls the annoyance and labor of clearing the littered streets under the present system, were foremost in urging the necessity of pushcart markets.

"I recognize that the existence of the pushcarts means that what is sold from them can be sold reasonably, and, therefore, that this traffic is of great benefit to the poorer people of the city, and, consequently, pushcarts are a necessity," said Commissioner Edwards yesterday. "If these carts could be so arranged on the streets that they would occupy one side of any street during a certain portion of the day and then move to the opposite side, the matter would be a considerable improvement over the present congested system, but in order to enforce such a regulation, it has been found that too much time of the police is necessary for this supervision.

"It appears, therefore, that the only solution is the setting apart of areas in various parts of the Borough of Manhattan to be used as pushcart markets.

"I have little sympathy with the argument that a restriction of the number of pushcarts means the throwing out of business of a consequent number of small merchants, because, as a matter of fact, the pushcart business at present is in the hands of a few men who own from fifty to one hundred pushcarts each and rent them at a considerable profit. These men do not comply with the provisions of the law as to licensing, but obtain about ten licenses and then duplicate the numbers on their carts to cover these license numbers, distribute the duplicated numbers in the various parts of the borough, and thus avoid paying the stipulated revenue to the city.

"Whatever the ordinance to control the pushcart situation, there should be attached to it a provision demanding the use of a burlap bag or some other receptacle, to be used more especially on stands from which are sold food products to receive the waste material from these products, and also to receive any waste materials which are the result of this traffic. At the present time the casting of these materials upon the street—trimmings of fish and vegetables, and skins of fruit being everywhere in evidence—not only presents a most unsightly appearance, but sets a bad example for the people living in the vicinity and the pedestrians passing by. If these peddlers are segregated in market places, the city, through the Bureau of Markets, will collect a nominal fee for the stand, and the Bureau of Markets will do the cleaning of these areas, thus relieving the Department of Street Cleaning."

Borough President Miller of the Bronx, whose position as Chairman of the Mayor's Market Commission gives his indorsement a peculiar significance and weight, wrote this letter to Morris D. Waldman, Manager of the United Hebrew Charities, the organization that has taken a prominent part in furthering the present agitation for pushcart markets:

> My Dear Mr. Waldman:
> I have your memorandum in relation to the pushcart matter, and I realize that it is a very complicated question. I think the plan is worth while trying to place the pushcarts in unused property of the city as you suggest. Very truly yours,
> CYRUS C. MILLER,
> President of the Borough of the Bronx.

From the Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, Executive Secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Diocese of the State of New York, an Episcopalian organization, to whom no communication about the pushcart matter had yet been sent, Mr. Waldman yesterday received this indorsement:

> I am glad to be able to inform you that our commission, while it did not receive your request for co-operation, has given its hearty indorsement to the movement for providing proper market places for pushcart men.

On the Social Service Commission with the Rev. Mr. Gilbert are R. Fulton Cutting, John M. Glenn, head of the Russell Sage Foundation; the Rev. John P. Peters, head of the Committee of Fourteen, and others. The indorsement by the commission was entirely spontaneous. Similarly, from Catholic sources, indorsement of the movement was expressed yesterday. Mgr. McMahon, Supervisor of Catholic Charities, declared himself unqualifiedly in favor of the plan, and it was said that Thomas Mulry had also expressed his entire approval of the movement and its aims.

Joseph Barondess, a Commissioner of Education, and leader in east side work, declared that in the establishment of pushcart men in markets provided for them lies the sole remedy of many intolerable evils that have been developed by the present system of allowing the pushcart men to ply their trades and scatter the refuse of their wares in the streets.

"The pushcarts have become more than ever an economic necessity in view of the general high prices nowadays," said Mr. Barondess, "but the benefit derived from the cheapness of the supply is offset by the obstruction of the streets and the scattering of filth and refuse through the streets of the congested districts of the city. Nevertheless, since few peddlers are peddlers through choice and most through necessity, we cannot take their bread and butter from them suddenly and throw them as charges upon the community. I believe, however, that no new licenses ought to be issued, at least for the present.

"The whole problem would be solved by providing the pushcart men with places where they can hold markets of their own. I regard it as a wise suggestion to erect buildings for them, with playground roof gardens for the children, but pending that time the city should certainly establish on vacant or idle city property markets to relieve the present urgent need."

One of the chief benefits of the open air market plan would be that it would cost nothing but would really bring in a considerable revenue to the city, both for the maintenance of the markets and the enrichment of the city treasury.

"With even 5,000 peddlers prepared to pay $1 a week as they do only too gladly at present for places under the Delancey Street Bridge," said Morris D. Waldman yesterday, "the proposed markets could be made to pay $250,000 a year or more in the way of revenue to the city. This sum would serve not only to keep the market streets clean and sanitary, but the surplus might be used, if so desired, to purchase more market sites as occasion for them arose."

A mass meeting has been called at Central Palace, 66 and 68 Sheriff Street, for 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, at which representatives of various east side civic and business organizations will discuss the pushcart market plan.

GIRDERS FALL 15 STORIES.

Being Hauled to Top of Madison Ave. Building When Cable Slips.

The steel framework of the Madison Avenue Building, at Madison Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street, has reached the twentieth floor, and yesterday several steel girders were attached to the chain running from a derrick on the roof, to be hauled to the top. The load had reached the fifteenth floor when the steel cable slipped on the drum and the girders began to fall.

They shot toward the sidewalk, narrowly missing a scaffold, on which were twenty bricklayers, at the ninth floor. Then they crashed into the sidewalk and pavement, making a hole two feet deep. The reserves were called from the East Twenty-second Street Station, and they kept the crowd back until workmen had drawn in the top of the derrick, which, at the time of the accident, had slipped outward so that it overhung the street. No one was hurt.

Fireman Scalds to Death in Tank.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., July 12.—When a Baltimore & Ohio freight train arrived in Braddock, a suburb, this morning from Connellsville, Penn., Fireman J. Callahan could not be found. Investigation revealed his body in the tank, where the man had been scalded to death while trying to remedy leaking injectors, which allowed steam to escape into the tank from the boilers.

UNVEIL STATUE OF ROLLO.

Gift of France to America Officially Accepted in Fargo, N. D.

FARGO, N. D., July 12.—With hundreds of former residents of the countries of Northern Europe present, as well as an official representative of France, the statue of Rollo, the Viking chieftain, who, with his hordes of Northmen, harried the coast of France 1,000 years ago, was unveiled to-day in the park here. The statue, which is a replica of that unveiled June 5, 1911, at Rouen, France, was presented by that city to America.

H. G. Maugras, Secretary of the French Embassy at Washington, represented the French Government. Mr. Maugras is a native of Normandy where the followers of Rollo settled after the siege of Paris in 911.

The statue was accepted by Mayor Sweet in behalf of Fargo, and by Gov. John Burke in behalf of the State. Congressman Hanna spoke as the official representative of President Taft. The unveiling ceremony itself was intrusted to Miss Hortense Gharst of Fargo.

The unveiling was held in connection with the eleventh biennial Saengerfest of the Norwegian Singers of America, and the Sons and Daughters of Norway. Preceding the unveiling, thousands took part in the Saengerfest parade.

PIES LOSE IN POPULARITY.

Chicago Firm Proves It, and Stops Increase in Its Taxes.

CHICAGO, July 12.—A representative of a pie-making concern here succeeded in stopping a proposed increase in his company's taxes yesterday when he appeared before the Board of Review and pleaded that pie is losing its hold on the American people.

"There has been no expansion of the pie-making business in the last year," he told the tax reviewers. "It has decreased in popularity with the masses. Its place is being taken by fruit, ice cream and salad as luncheon dessert. Despite the poor outlook for business expansion, we have voluntarily increased our tax schedule $100, and we think that the assessment should not be allowed to stand as it is."

The reviewers did not raise the company's taxes.

Boy Kills Boy for Apple Theft.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., July 12.—Fifteen-year-old Jennings Dickson yesterday shot and killed 14-year-old Belmore Nash. The former after his arrest declared that Nash was stealing apples out of the Dickson orchard.

AT THE COURT OF HIS CATHOLIC MAJESTY

By William Miller Collier

It is not given to many ambassadors to witness such magnificent and imposing ceremonies as Mr. Collier attended during the four years he represented this country at the Spanish Court.

Altogether his book is a graphic and valuable picture of the almost Mediaeval pomp and ceremony which is fast vanishing from the courts of Europe.

Even more interesting is the pleasant picture Mr. Collier gives us of the gay and affable young king in his home life and diversions.

SERVICE BOARD FEARS DELAYS ON SUBWAYS

CONSTRUCTION IS MENACED

Work Already Started on Sections 2-A and 14 Must Be Stopped if Estimate Board Fails to Act.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission notified the Board of Estimate yesterday that if it did not authorize one of the sections of the subway which are now before it before it adjourns for the Summer vacation on Monday, it would be necessary to stop the work now under way in Broadway, between the Post Office and Bleecker Street. Moreover, he declared that from time to time throughout the Summer the commission was likely to have matters on which it would wish the immediate action of the board, and he expressed the hope that this would be forthcoming.

The sections now before the board for approval of the construction contracts are 2-A, that is, the Canal Street station, and 14, the tunnel under the Harlem River. The reason for the delay in affirming the contract for Section 2-A, it is understood, is the alteration of plans made necessary by the grant to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit of a physical connection between its Canal Street crosstown line and its Broadway line. The commission takes the view that as the contractor has given an undertaking that he will perform this work under the same unit prices as the rest of the contract, there is no reason why the Board of Estimate should hesitate about approving the construction contract. The difficulty over Section 14 has arisen through the fact that three different types of construction are being considered by the commission. Here is Chairman Willcox's letter to the Board of Estimate:

To the Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

Sirs: The Public Service Commission for the First District deems it advisable, in view of the anticipated adjournment of your board for a considerable period of time, to call attention to the importance of definite action upon the contracts submitted by this commission for the construction of Sections 2-A and 14 of Route No. 5. The contract for Section 2-A was awarded by this commission on March 30, 1912, and under date of March 30, 1912, was transmitted to your board for approval and the appropriation of the necessary amount of money to carry the contract into execution. On Section 14 the commission awarded the contract on May 14, 1912, and transmitted it on the same date to your board for approval and appropriation of the amount necessary to carry the contract into execution.

In both cases the commission awarded the contract to the lowest bidder, and is not aware of any difficulty which would make action on these contracts inadvisable at the present time. On the contrary, unless action is taken very shortly upon the contract for Section 2-A, the commission must consider the advisability of stopping work on Sections 2 and 3. As you have already been informed, since the award of the contract for Section 2-A by this commission, an understanding has been arrived at by which physical connections are to be provided for on this section between the Broadway line and the Canal Street line, and the proposed contractor has signed a stipulation whereby he agrees to do such additional work under the proposed contract. Provision for such physical connection between the Canal Street line and the Broadway line requires certain changes in the plans, not merely on Section 2-A, but also upon Sections 2 and 3. As the work on these two sections has already advanced, it will shortly become important to issue to the contractors revised plans. The commission, however, does not deem it advisable to issue such plans until the disposal of the contract for Section 2-A is determined.

The commission further suggests that, should your board now adjourn for a considerable period some delay may ensue as to the prompt commencement of construction work on other sections. The commission will open bids on July 31, 1912, on the contract for Section 1-A of Route No. 5, and within three or four days thereafter will probably be in a position to make the award of such contract. That contract should be approved and an appropriation provided therefor at the earliest date, in order that the contractor thereon may commence construction as early as possible. Two or three other sections will be submitted for bids during the month of August, and prompt action upon them is desirable.

The commission deems it advisable to bring this subject to your attention, for the reason that it is advisable that construction work on the so-called "long term" portions of the said rapid transit systems should be undertaken with a minimum of delay, so far as the procedure prior to the execution of the contracts is concerned. Very truly yours,

WILLIAM R. WILLCOX, Chairman.

When this letter was shown yesterday afternoon to Borough President McAneny, he said that he understood that Section 14 was practically ready for submission to the board last Thursday, and there was no doubt that it would come before it on Monday. As for 2-A, he believed, he said, that there had been some difficulty between the Controller's office and the Public Service Commission over it, but there was no reason, he declared, why the Controller should not bring the contract up for approval on Monday afternoon. If the commission had any business calling for the immediate consideration of the board during the Summer, the Mayor had the power to order a meeting at any time, he said.

The commission, besides fearing that delays would be caused by the vacation of the Board of Estimate, was also watching with much anxiety, it was said yesterday, the action of property owners whose consents were necessary for the construction of the new subways. The refusal of the Metropolitan Club had already held up quick action on the Sixtieth and Fifty-ninth Street routes, it was pointed out, and the Academy of Music, in Brooklyn, was said to have refused to consent to the construction of the St. Felix Place subway.

This part of the line, it was said, was short and important. It would provide communication between the Brighton Beach line, which runs through the residential district of Flatbush and the Manhattan Bridge, which is destined to supplant the Brooklyn Bridge as the great highway between the two boroughs. Delay in building it means that a line which, in great measure, is already constructed, will be held up for several months. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for Kings County has adjourned for the Summer, and no Commissioners can be appointed to determine the convenience and necessity of the route till October. They are likely to take at least six months in delivering their award, and so the construction along one of the most important lines in the city has been delayed for nine months.

McANDREW TO GO WEST.

Will Accept Detroit School Superintendency, It Is Believed.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—Prof. William McAndrew, who was elected Superintendent of the Detroit schools Thursday night, will accept the position. Leading members of the School Board, who have been in communication with Prof. McAndrew for some time, said to-day that there was no question about this point. The "gentlemen's agreement" existing between prominent educators of the country regarding seeking of positions already filled prevented Prof. McAndrew from giving the Detroit Inspectors who supported him assurance that he would accept the position in advance of positive action by the Detroit Board of Education, they said.

It is known that Prof. McAndrew for some time has been at variance with the school authorities in New York. He has been attempting to obtain a new building in place of the old one over which he now presides, but because of strife has been unable to do so. It is known that he has been anxious to get away from New York.

"I don't think there is the slightest doubt that Prof. McAndrew will accept," said Inspector Burton.

WOMAN IN TAXI ASKS AID.

Mrs. James Dudley Sturrock Has Her Husband Arrested.

Patrolman Johnson was at his post at the corner of Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street in the early hours of yesterday morning, when a taxicab drove slowly along with a half-clad man standing on the running-board and evidently greatly excited over something. A woman in evening dress leaned out and begged the policeman to protect her from the man, who she said was her husband and whom she accused of threatening to kill her and then to take his own life. She was Mrs. Marion Sturrock, she said, and the man was James Dudley Sturrock.

Johnson took the man to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station. In a pocket was a razor, made by the English cutlery firm of Sturrock Sons.

Later in the morning Mrs. Sturrock appeared against her husband in the Yorkville Court. She said that she had been dining with friends of the family, and that her husband knew where she was. Yet when she returned he rushed from the house and heaped abuse upon her, she said.

Sturrock declared he had been shaving when his wife returned, and that he had unconsciously pocketed the razor when he ran down to welcome her. But Mrs. Sturrock said that he used a safety razor for shaving and the Court, after examining the weapon, said that it was not in fit shape for shaving.

Capt. Henry Lambert of 211 West Fifty-eighth Street, as a friend of the Sturrocks in England, pleaded for the man and, when Mrs. Sturrock offered to pay her husband's passage back to England, Lambert agreed to see that he took the next boat. There will be a further examination this morning, but in the meantime the charges of disorderly conduct and carrying a concealed weapon were left standing. The Sturrocks were married in March.

AID FUND BY TITANIC'S TOMB.

Women Passengers on the Berlin Contribute to Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A striking incident relating to the Titanic disaster which occurred on board the North German Lloyd steamer Berlin a few days ago has just been reported to Washington. On the Berlin's last trip across the Atlantic, and while she was passing near the spot where the Titanic went down, two women passengers, Mrs. Peter A. Jay and Miss Alice Pine, suggested that the women on board take up a collection for the monument that is to be erected in Washington to honor the men who died on the Titanic.

Every woman on board entered heartily into the plan, and a substantial contribution was immediately collected and forwarded to the Woman's Titanic Memorial in Washington as soon as the Berlin reached land.

The following women were among the contributors: Baroness des Granges, Miss Cowles, Miss C. L. Gable, Mrs. Langford Holmes, Miss Ruxton, Mrs. Folger, Miss Alice Pine, Mrs. Henry Harper, Mrs. Peter A. Jay, Miss Rebecca Caldwell, Miss Mary Lincoln Aldrich, Miss Agnes G. Troup, Miss Emily Harris, and Miss Maud Edwards.

It is likely that the Woman's Titanic Memorial Committee will send appeals for similar contributions from women booked for passage on ocean liners this Summer.

LINER'S WASH UPSET THEM.

Big Wave from the Lusitania Imperiled Women Bathers.

The Cunard liner Lusitania, inward bound, kicked up a big sea when she rounded Norton's Point yesterday afternoon, and six women bathers at Coney Island were dragged from the ropes to which they had been clinging. They were swept away and cried out for help.

Theodore Schultz of 1,322 Henry Street and Capt. James De Cardy and Ralph Hussen of 390 Bridge Street ran into the water and dragged the women ashore. They were Mrs. Bessie Wagner of 116 Avenue J, Miss Minnie Kennedy of 1,148 East Third Street, Miss Rose McGuinness and her mother, Mrs. Margaret McGuinness of 107 West Ninety-eighth Street, Manhattan; Miss Florence Eaton of 5 West Broadway, and Miss Florence Byrnes, who refused to give her address. Miss Kennedy was overcome, and had to be treated at the tent of the Volunteer Life Saving Crew.

PRISONER ACCUSES PRISONER

"Trusty" Robbed Him of $86 in Jail, He Says.

One prisoner in the Raymond Street jail, Brooklyn, robbed another of $86, according to the story Robert Yesman told Lieut. Lindsay in the Detective Bureau at Brooklyn Headquarters yesterday. Yesman was the victim. He said he gave his money for safekeeping to a man named Edward Corey, who represented himself as one of the keepers.

Corey was a "trusty" in jail. He learned that Yesman had a large sum of money, and, after ingratiating himself into the latter's confidence, he advised the unsuspecting Yesman that it was dangerous for him to keep any money on his person, and that he had better turn it over to him, says the victim. Yesman was released on bail yesterday, and when he inquired for Corey he found that the "trusty" had gone free a few days ago. The police are searching for Corey.

TAKES HIS WIFE'S NAME.

To Qualify for a $50,000 Legacy Dr. Prewitt Becomes Dr. Prewitt Gregg.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—To prevent his wife losing a legacy of $50,000 Dr. Robert P. Prewitt to-day assumed her maiden name, Gregg. The couple will henceforth be known as Dr. and Mrs. Robert Prewitt Gregg.

Daniel Hopkins Gregg, who died at Richmond, Va., in 1885, specified in his will that his daughter after her marriage must continue to bear the name of Gregg. Mrs. Gregg's former husband retained his own name, but permitted her to comply with the will.

Forbidden to Issue Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 12.—The Public Utility Commission declined to-day to give permission to the Inter-State Telephone and Telegraph Company of New Jersey to issue $1,625,000 worth of five per cent. thirty year, first and refunding mortgage gold bonds on the ground that there was no reasonable warrant for the expectation that the company from its earnings could pay the annual interest which the new issue would require.

$50,000 COCKTAIL IS MIXED IN THE STREET

Excise Officers Dump Thousands of Gallons of Seized Liquors Into City Gutters.

WINES, WHISKIES, AND RUM

Cordials and Maraschino Cherries, Too, Slip Into Sewer's Throat as Thirsty Crowd Looks On in Sorrow.

A $50,000 cocktail was mixed in the streets yesterday afternoon by the State Excise Commission. The materials were the fruit of raids on twenty-five unlicensed liquor stores. The mixture included nearly every drink on the table of the human family, and there were thousands of gallons of it; enough for a million "healths ten fathoms deep," more than enough to change the results of an election in twenty precincts.

This big concoction was in two sections. Fifty-five barrels and forty cases were stacked in the gutter yesterday afternoon in front of the Chelsea Storage Warehouse at 426 West Twenty-sixth Street, where most of it had been stored by the excise officers since February. When the word went around that all this had to be destroyed in accordance with law, hundreds of people gathered to witness the spectacle. The destruction was scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock, but it was delayed till 3 o'clock, when State Excise Commissioner William W. Farley arrived in an automobile with Deputy Commissioner Thomas F. McAvoy, Chief Counsel Charles Firestone, and Assistant Counsel George F. Donnollen.

On the principle that a superior should not force a subordinate to do anything he would not do himself, Commissioner Farley braved public execration by knocking in the head of the first barrel himself. Under a galling fire of kodaks he mounted one of the largest barrels and swung the sledgehammer.

At the first blow slender threads of scarlet began to trickle from the barrel, and as he smote again a red torrent gushed out, spattering the crowd and starting a foaming river of wine down the gutter toward Ninth Avenue.

That was the signal for half a dozen stout excisemen armed with sledgehammers to begin. In the next minute the ends were knocked out of a dozen barrels, and a purple tide was rushing ankle deep for 100 feet till it disappeared into the sewer at Ninth Avenue.

A score of barefoot children waded into and splashed about in the stream. One old man ran out with a pail which had once held pipe tobacco, filled it, ran back into his house to empty it, and repeated the performance many times. The crowd, which was kept at a distance by the police, spoke bitter reproaches.

"It's a crime against civilization," said one man sadly. "They made poor Carrie Nation spend her life in jail for doing much less."

Then brandy casks were smashed, and the pungent fumes, added to the bouquet of the mingled vintages, made a combination that had a marked effect on weaker heads in the crowd of onlookers.

Unauthorized persons, who had edged too near the cases on the sidewalk, were cleared away, and then the bottle-smashing began. A patch of emerald appeared on the stream as flasks of crême de menthe were splintered. Then followed an assortment of cordials, digestives, appetizers, and bitters with a ninety-proof punch. Stone jars of Jamaica rum, Santa Cruz rum, and port wine were shattered on the pavement.

There were several thousand bottles to be smashed and employes of the warehouse helped the excise officers. The sun danced on champagne bubbles as the warehouse men dashed thick quart bottles to the street with no more thought of expense than if it were New Year's Eve, and they were all Croesuses. About twenty cases of humble domestic beer came next, followed by absinthe, chartreuse, curacao, and other more or less familiar spirits. Bright spots bobbed along the current after several flasks of maraschino cherries went along with the rest.

Finally, to expedite matters, the remaining bottles were dumped into the empty barrels and ruined by a man who tamped them with a crowbar.

FUNK CASE WITNESS HELD.

Alleen Heppner Placed Under $5,000 Bonds by Chicago Judge.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Miss Aileen Heppner, the young woman named by Mrs. Josephine Henning as the person who influenced her in the alleged conspiracy to injure Clarence S. Funk, General Manager of the International Harvester Company, by means of a suit for damages for alleged alienation of Mrs. Henning's affections, was held by the Grand Jury today on a charge of perjury. The bond of Miss Heppner was fixed by Judge Newcomer at $5,000.

In her testimony in the damage suit Miss Heppner said that on Dec. 20, 1909, she had seen Mr. Funk and Mrs. Henning enter a room while she was dining with Mrs. Sophia Hoerner and her daughter in the Grand Pacific Hotel. Mrs. Hoerner and her daughter denied that they were in Chicago on that day or dining with Miss Heppner.

The court, in holding the young woman for the Grand Jury, ruled against the argument of the defense that the statement of Miss Heppner as to dining with the Hoerners was immaterial.

Several witnesses, who were believed to have important corroborative evidence bearing on the confession of Mrs. Henning that she was well supplied with money in payment for permitting her name to be used in the damage suit, were said to have evaded officers from the State's Attorney's office. Absence of their testimony, it was declared, might delay the return of indictments.

Miss Eulalia Kearney, a masseuse, who declares that Mrs. Henning revealed much of the alleged plot against Mr. Funk to her, said to-day that she was ready to appear before the Grand Jury whenever wanted.

JOHNSON ARRESTED—AGAIN.

Accused of Punching Small Negro Chauffeur Who Testified Against Him

CHICAGO, July 12.—Jack Johnson, champion pugilist, who, with his wife, was recently indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of smuggling a diamond necklace into this country, was arrested to-day, charged with striking and intimidating Charles Brown, a negro chauffeur, one of the Government's principal witnesses in the case.

Brown was formerly employed by Johnson as a chauffeur. He is five feet in height, and slightly built. When Brown entered the pugilist's café yesterday Johnson asked him what he told the Grand Jury about the diamond necklace, and when the witness declined to tell him, the pugilist is alleged to have struck Brown in the face.

Johnson was arrigned before United States Commissioner Charles A. Buell, and the hearing was continued until tomorrow morning, after he had furnished a bond for $5,000. Johnson denied having assaulted Brown, and explained that when the chauffeur came into his place he ordered him out. When Brown refused to leave, Johnson declares, one of his friends pushed him out.

Hearing on 34th St. Moving Platform.

The plan for a moving platform under Thirty-fourth Street is to be considered at a hearing before the Public Service Commission on Friday morning, Aug. 2. The route was approved by the commission for some form of rapid transit last week, but on the objection of J. Pierpont Morgan and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who own property along it, the approval was withdrawn till it could be known what the Board of Estimate proposed to do about a change of grade.

A NEW "SNAITH" STORY
THE PRINCIPAL GIRL
By J. C. SNAITH
Author of "Araminta," "Broke of Covenden," etc.
12mo. $1.25 net.
"'The Principal Girl' is charming light-comedy throughout, and introduces the reader to as engaging a hero and as sprightly a heroine as have graced the pages of a novel for many a day. The piquancy of the narrative is enhanced by the author's whimsical humor and delicate irony. The culmination of the young husband's political career, engineered by his capable wife, is a triumph of the story-teller's art."

"A Powerful and Important Story"
THE BLIND ROAD
By HUGH GORDON

This is an intense story of married life. It develops in a logical fashion and shows the various effects produced upon a man and woman under certain conditions of modern life. The descriptions of the life of to-day are so accurate and vivid that the story reads like a revelation of actual experience.

A new book by Mrs. Mackay, whose HOUSES OF GLASS and HALF LOAVES, among the most distinguished of American literary successes, are now winning the approval of British critics also. The London World says of Mrs. Mackay's work that "for strength of thought and charm of style it stands apart from most of the novels of the day."

THE COBWEB CLOAK is a gay, fanciful, merry story of a young girl whose American parents are separated, but who herself marries a French count and carries happiness everywhere with her.

Two-base hit—Hartzell. Three-base hit Hartzell. Stolen bases—Maloney, Warhop. First base on errors—New York, 1. Left on bases—New York, 8; St. Louis, 8. Double play—Pratt and Stovall. Struck out—By Warhop, 3; by Hamilton, 2. Bases on balls—Off Warhop, 2; off Hamilton, 4. Time of game—One hour and thirty-one minutes. Umpires—Messrs. Connelly and Hart.

The Yankees resumed their winning streak on the hilltop yesterday, after being divorced from victory for eight straight games. The St. Louis Browns, who can play almost as badly as the Yankees when they try, served as a means of giving the New Yorks the novelty and astonishing surprise of winning a game. The score was 4 to 1.

Lightning played spectacular pranks around the hilltop and thunder drowned out Umpire Connelly's subdued tenor voice during the fray and it was often on the verge of raining, but when the elements were wised to the fact that the Yankees were winning a game they didn't have the heart to break in and spoil the auspicious occasion.

Now that the Yankees have started on the road to glory, their only ambition is to beat out Washington's season record of seventeen straight victories. And if St. Louis sojourns here indefinitely they will be able to do it. Wait till you see. The Yanks made one record yesterday by playing the same team the second time in succession. Only one new player joined the team yesterday, George Davis, the Williams College pitcher, but more players are expected any time.

To Jack Warhop goes the great distinction of pitching the Yanks to victory. His underhand pegs were uncurled with mystifying elusiveness, and in only one inning, the third, were the Browns able to bunch hits. They slashed out four bangs in a row in this inning, and then only got one run. At that rate, if they had been fortunate enough to whale out sixteen hits they would have tied the Yankees. But they didn't hit Warhop much after that one inning.

Hamilton, a young southpaw, twirled for the Browns, and the Yankees got him in the third inning and riddled him with five hits, which netted the Yankees four runs. So you see, both teams played all the game in that one third inning, the Yankees making much better use of their slams than the Browns. Roy Hartzell got a triple and a two-bagger, but these wallops did not figure in the score-board result. Ed Sweeney found his eye again and got three singles.

With one down in the third, Krichell singled to centre field. Hamilton splashed one to left, but Krichell was held at second. Shotten shot one to right and Maloney made a rifle ball peg and Krichell was nipped at the home pier. Jantsen poled a hit to centre, scoring Hamilton, and tried to take second when the ball was thrown in. Warhop intercepted the throw-in, and Jantsen was nailed at second.

In New York's portion of that same inning, Sweeney started the attack with a single to centre and Warhop hit the ball likewise. Daniels died at first. Maloney hit to Hamilton, who threw Sweeney out coming home, Warhop going to third. Maloney and Warhop worked a double steal, Warhop scoring, Krichell making a high toss to second. Sterrett singled to centre, scoring Maloney, and went to second on the throw-in. Zinn's smash to right sent Sterrett home flying, the collegian making the plate safely after a pretty slide. Zinn went on to second on the toss home, and scored when Simmons pummeled the ball to left. He tried to reach second, but was thrown out by Aiton. Jimmy Austin, who used to be with the Yankees, made a couple of life-sized errors, one on an infield fly which he had no license to go after.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw the grapple, but the folks were so surprised at the Yankees' sudden reversal to winning form that they were speechless, and hence no enthusiasm was noticeable.

The only noise was the thunder, and every time the Yankees made a hit the lightning flashed in electric approval. The teams will play a double-header to-day.

Boston Takes Two Games.

BOSTON, July 12.—Boston won both games of a double-header with Detroit to-day. The second game, a pitcher's battle between Wood and Willet, went eleven innings, the Red Sox scoring the only run when Speaker, whose single went through Delehanty for three bases, scored on Lewis's single. Boston won the first game, 4 to 1, spoiling a fine exhibition by Lake, by bunching hits in the sixth inning. Ray Collins pitched masterly ball. The scores:

CHIMES HAL WINS NORTHRUP PURSE

Two Events in Grand Rapids Closing Meet Result in Straight Heats.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 12.—Only a bad break in the third heat prevented Chimes Hal from taking the Northrup Purse, $2,000, for 2:17 pacers, in straight heats to-day. The event was the feature of the final day of the Grand Circuit meet here. Wy-Drad gave the Murphy horse a neck-and-neck finish in the second heat. In the third heat Chimes Hal took the lead and held it to the first turn, when he broke so badly that Murphy had to drive hard to escape the distance flag. In the fourth heat Chimes Hal went around the track like clockwork and won handily, though pushed in the stretch by Princess Patch and Denver Jay.

Queen Worthy won the 2:16 class trotting in straight heats, the race furnishing some of the most exciting sport of the day. Echomore pushed the winner around the track neck and neck in two heats. In the second heat Echomore was just part of a nose behind at the finish, and in the third the two came under the wire so close together that only the judges could separate them.

Mary G. had things pretty much her own way in the 2:22 class trotting, winning in straight heats. Helen H. Connor was right after her all the time, and made her cut the time of the last heat down to 2:12¾.

Country Jay went a mile to beat 2:12 trotting under the saddle and made it in 2:11¼. Reamey Macey was the rider. The summaries:

HILTON TO DEFEND TITLE.

Golf Champion and Two Other Englishmen Coming Over.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 12.—Henry Leach, a golfing writer here, states that not only is H. H. Hilton going to defend his title in the American golf championship at Wheaton, Ill., but that two other first-class men, "good enough to win," are going over, but he is not yet at liberty to publish their names.

SHERMAN DEFEATS PURVES.

Vice President's Son Captures Advertising Men's Golf Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 12.—For the third consecutive season T. M. Sherman, the Vice President's son, from Yahnandasis, captured the championship of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests tourney. His opponent, R. M. Purves of the Woodland Golf Club, put up a good battle, but was not in a class with Sherman, who has played Bretton Woods in 75 or better every round since the qualification, when he required a 76. His rounds to-day were 72 and 73. He led by 4 up at the end of the morning half of the 36-hole final, and had a hard time gaining any further advantage in the second round. Sherman reached the turn in the afternoon in 35 to 36 for his opponent. The match ended on the fourteenth green in the afternoon in favor of the title holder.

The women's championship for the second time was won by Mrs. W. S. Bird of Dunwoodie. The summary shows the results of the day's play in all the championship, consolation, and down and out divisions. Summary:

First Division—Finals—36 Holes.—T. M. Sherman, Yahnandasis, defeated R. M. Purves, Woodland, 6 and 4.
Second Division—Finals—18 Holes.—J. M. Brame, Montgomery, defeated F. H. Smith, Baltusrol, 2 up.
Third Division—Finals.—R. R. Mamlok, Fox Hills, defeated G. E. Hall, Commonwealth, 2 and 1.
Fourth Division—Finals.—C. R. Sutphen, Oakmont, defeated H. G. Milholland, Oakmont, 1 up.
Fifth Division—Finals.—E. F. Clymer, Knollwood, defeated W. F. Simpson, Baltusrol, 5 and 4.

SEMI-FINALS AT NEWBURG.

Wood and Tiffany to Play for Hudson River Golf Title.

As the result of the second and semi-final rounds of match play in the seventh annual championship tournament of the Hudson River Golf Association yesterday over the links of the Powelton Club at Newburg, H. B. Wood of Columbia, the present title holder, will meet Gilman P. Tiffany of the home organization, in the 36-hole final to-day.

Wood advanced at the expense of F. H. Longacre of Twaalfskill, whom he defeated 5 up and 4 to play, and C. V. Benton of Saegkill, 1 up, while Tiffany, five times the title holder, eliminated J. Gillett of Columbia, 2 up and 1 to play, and E. R. Wilson, the youthful medalist of Rockland, the margin being 7 and 6. There was very little doubt about the outcome of the Tiffany-Wilson match, for the Powelton man took an early lead and always had matters to his advantage.

Wood and Benton, however, made it a battle royal. Benton was two up at the turn, but Wood squared matters in the fourteenth. Benton drove out of bounds on the fifteenth and Wood promptly put his second shot into the bunker, after that laying his man half a stymie. The hole was halved in 5, while the sixteenth and seventeenth also resulted similarly. Benton, however, after driving in the brook going to the home hole, and being short on his second, had to take five, whereas his opponent negotiated the 383 yards in a par four and won it and the match by 1 up.

To-day will be devoted to the finals in all divisions, and to the finishing of the beaten eight flights.

The summary follows:

Championship.—Second Round—H. B. Wood, Columbia, beat F. H. Longacre, Twaalfskill, 5 up and 4 to play; C. V. Benton, Saegkill, beat W. R. Gillett, Columbia, 6 up and 5 to play; Gilman P. Tiffany, Powelton, beat J. Gillett, Columbia, 2 up and 1 to play; E. B. Wilson, Rockland, beat F. K. Coykendall, Twaalfskill, 3 up and 2 to play.

Semi-Final Round—Wood beat Benton, 1 up; G. P. Tiffany beat Wilson, 7 up and 6 to play.

TRAVIS IN THE FINALS.

Garden City Golfer Will Meet Gardner for Taconic Cup.

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 12.—Walter J. Travis, Garden City, and C. H. Gardner, Agawam Hunt Club, will be the contestants in the final round of the annual July golf tournament for the Taconic Cup on the Ekwanok Country Club links to-morrow. Travis had two easy matches to-day, but Gardner was obliged to defeat F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, former Vermont State champion, to win his way into the finals. To-morrow's match will be thirty-six holes. The summary:

Second Round.—B. C. Longley, Wannamoisset, beat F. W. Kemble, Philadelphia C. C., 4 and 2; W. J. Travis, Garden City, beat George H. Crocker, Country Club, 5 and 3; C. H. Gardner, Agawam Hunt, beat J. L. Taylor, Garden City, 4 and 2; F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, beat J. D. Hunter, North Adams C. C., 5 and 3.

Semi-Final Round.—Travis beat Longley, 5 and 4; Gardner beat Martin, 2 up.

Professionals at Wykagyl.

Professional golfers, most of whom hold or have held at some time or another, championship titles, practiced on the Wykagyl Country Club links yesterday for the invitation tournament which will be the attraction there to-day. Among those present were Fred McLeod of St. Louis; James Thomson of Philadelphia, Jack Hobens of Englewood, Gil Nicholls of Wilmington, Isaac Mackie of Fox Hills, Jack Mackie of Dunwoodie, and Nick De Mane, an unattached player.

BRITISH MOTOR BOAT TRIALS.

Maple Leaf IV. Covers Course in the Fastest Time.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 12.—Only three motor boats appeared to-day for the elimination trials to select the British representatives for the race to be held in the United States on Aug. 31 for the international trophy. Mackay Edgar's Maple Leaf IV. covered a course of thirty-three nautical miles in 49 minutes. The Marquis of Anglesey's Mona covered the same course in 1 hour 1 minute and 46 seconds, and Norman C. Neill's Milmar in 1 hour 4 minutes and 33 seconds. Three boats are to be sent to America.

Motor Races To-night at Brighton.

Ferdie Mercier, the Brooklyn motor cyclist who was cutting such a swath among the pilots at the Brighton Motordrome before he met with an accident on Independence Day, has fully recovered, and will compete to-night in a five-mile match race against Johnny Albright of Denver. The Brooklyn lad is confident that he will make the Westerner ride to his limit, and a new record for the distance is anticipated in one of the three heats. This will be but one of the features of the series which will include races, handicap and scratch, between the pick of the professionals and the many amateurs who have taken up the game.

Blow to Chicago Hand Books.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The Committee on Judiciary at a meeting to-day recommended to the City Council the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the sale of any publication containing racing forms or other information relative to horse races where bets are placed. Two weeks ago Mayor Harrison sent a communication to the City Council advising the passage of such an ordinance with a view of stamping out hand books in Chicago.

INDEPENDENCE POLO CUPS TO BRYN MAWR

Philadelphians Defeat Great Neck on Cedarhurst Grounds by 11 Goals to 7½.

Bryn Mawr's second team visited Cedarhurst yesterday and in the final game for the Independence Cups defeated the polo quartet of Great Neck by a score of 11 to 7½. The winners were in receipt of one goal handicap and the result of the match proved that in all likelihood they could have given the odds and still have been the winners. The heavy field slowed up the game to no inconsiderable degree, and although the ball was kept rolling pretty much throughout there was that lack of dash which characterized the preliminary games for the cups.

By the time of the finish of the first period, wherein each team tallied two goals, the Philadelphians were never afterward in jeopardy, and continued to put themselves further in the lead with the end of each period.

Great Neck tallied the opening counts, but these were quickly offset by Schwartz and Stewart, each of whom counted on pretty side shots which had plenty of power and the proper sort of direction. In the second chapter Great Neck incurred a penalty which tok half a goal from its score. There was no counting during this period.

In the third Schwartz and Rathbone each tallied for his side. The first named put through the only goal in the fourth, so that at the end of half time the board showed Bryn Mawr 4, Great Neck 2½. Both teams showed the benefit of the rest-up, but the heat soon began to have a militating effect on fast play. Both teams persevered, but Bryn Mawr went further into the lead with two tallies by Stewart and Schwartz as against one for Great Neck by Rathbone.

A similar state of affairs reigned in the sixth period when, after Morgan had made a fine carry half the length of the field for a count, with those of the opposition well ridden off, Schwartz and Stewart more than made up for this play, both scoring toward the end of the period. Paul and Morgan each counted with straight shots in the seventh, while in the final period, after Stewart had annexed what proved to be Bryn Mawr's last goal, Rathbone stirred the Great Neck supporters by making two in quick succession. Toward the end, though, Bryn Mawr took a brace and playing a good defense game prevented further scoring. The line-up and summary:

GREAT NECK.	H'cap.	BRYN MAWR 2D.	H'cap.
E. D. Morgan	2	W. P. Stewart	2
J. C. Rathbone	2	A. J. A. Devereux	1
T. Le Boutillier	2	A. C. Schwartz	2
R. L. Bacon	1	H. J. D. Paul	1
Total	7	Total	6

Summary: Bryn Mawr—Goals scored, 10; allowed by handicap, 1. Total—11. Great Neck—Goals scored, 8; lost by penalty, ½. Total—7½. Goals—By Schwartz, 5; Stewart, 4; Rathbone, 4; Morgan, 2; Le Boutillier, 1; Bacon, 1; Paul, 1. Referee—Maxwell Stevenson. Time of game—Eight seven-minute periods.

PLANS FOR AUTO SHOW.

Exhibition to be Held in Garden and Grand Central Palace.

At one of the best-attended meetings of the year the Automobile Board of Trade at its quarterly gathering in New York City yesterday listened to the report of the Show Committee, covering plans for the big exhibition of next January, which will be conducted in two buildings, the new Grand Central Palace and Madison Square Garden, with a single admission covering both buildings.

It was definitely decided to open the show on the evening of Jan. 11, 1913, with an exhibition of pleasure cars in both buildings, continuing until Jan. 18. The commercial vehicle division, which will be held in both buildings, will open on the evening of Monday, Jan. 20, closing Saturday evening, Jan. 25.

Suitable resolutions were passed on the death of Alfred N. Mayo of the Knox Automobile Company, one of the oldest members of the Automobile Board of Trade and a leader in the industry since its inception. It was also voted to begin compilation of data for the publication of the 1913 handbook.

Third Annual Y. M. C. A. Swim.

The third annual swim of the Greater New York Y. M. C. A. will be held this afternoon over the same Hudson River course as in the two previous swims. The start will be made from the Columbia Boathouse, on the New Jersey side, opposite 153d Street, and the finish will be at the Cobweb Yacht Club, 153d Street and the Hudson River. About thirty entries have been received, the list including J. P. Mantel of the West Side Y. M. C. A., who won the 1911 swim in 32 minutes, and R. Clark of the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., who finished second a year ago. Gold and silver medals will be awarded to the three leaders and bronze medals to all who complete the course within five minutes of the winner's time.

Knockout at Olympic A. C.

Carey Thelan knocked out Frankie Mack last night at the Olympic Athletic Club of Harlem after a minute and a half of what was to have been a ten-round encounter. The end came midway of the first round, when, after feinting his man a couple of times, Thelan whipped in a right hook to the stomach which put Mack in dreamland. There were several preliminaries which proved to be most ordinary. Last night's session was the first the club has had in some time, and a fair-sized crowd put in an appearance for a show which was not up to the mark usually staged at this club.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Al McCoy of Brooklyn and Young Hickey of the east side will hook up in the feature bout of to-night's show at the Fairmont A. C. McCoy is conceding a few pounds to the New Yorker, but hopes to offset this advantage by superior cleverness. In the other ten-round bouts George Cheney of Baltimore will hook up with Young Ty Cobb of Philadelphia, and Dannie Ridge will oppose Young Goldie.

Billy Lietch, the west side policeman, who made an unfortunate start against Billy Papke at the National Sporting Club a few months ago, will figure in the feature bout of to-night's show at the St. Nicholas A. C. His opponent will be Jimmy Howard of this city. Two other ten-round bouts will also be staged.

Two ten-round bouts will feature to-night's show at the Royale A. C. of Brooklyn. The main event will bring together Harry Stone and Jimmy Paul, and in the semi-final Harry Thiel will hook up with Frankie Hufnagle.

Buck Crouse, the Pittsburgh middleweight, who is to clash with Young Kurtz of Newark in the main event at the Garden A. C., arrived in New York yesterday and immediately established training quarters in Westchester. Crouse notified Manager Billy Gibson that he would gladly box Gibbons, Dillon, Klaus, or McGoorty if any of this quartet can be persuaded to take him on. Kurtz was substituted for Jack Denning, who injured his hand in training and found it impossible to go on.

Carl Morris, who defeated Con Comiskey of Chicago in a few punches at Sapulpa Thursday night, is now on his way to this city with visions of regaining his lost prestige as a white heavyweight. Morris expects to force Luther McCarty, his recent conqueror, into a return match. The big fellow will resume training at the New Polo A. C. as soon as he arrives. He will be under the management of Billy Newman of Harlem, who looked after his interests during his last sojourn in the East.

Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, will soon take part in another bout in New York. Billy Gibson, manager of the Garden A. C., announced yesterday that he had signed Kilbane for a bout at his club with the winner of the bout between Young Shugrue of Jersey City and Jimmy Coffey of Harlem at the Garden next Monday night.

Abe Attell's six months' suspension from New York boxing clubs by the State Athletic Commission expires next Thursday, but Attell is not expected to return here for several months. He has been offered a bout with Harry Thomas, the English featherweight, at Los Angeles on Aug. 10, and will probably accept. Attell also expects to hook up in a return bout with Johnny Kilbane before returning to New York. Promoters on the Coast are trying to get the champion and ex-champion together in September or early October.

Young Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia, who made such an excellent showing against Young Brown at the Garden Monday night, has been signed up by Manager Gibson for three bouts at the same club. Willie Ritchie and Jack Britton will probably be two of the three men to be selected by Manager Gibson.

CLOTHIER MAY TAKE CUP.

Quaker and Niles Will Play for Achelis Tennis Trophy.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 12.—Nathaniel W. Niles coupled with William J. Clothier in the final round of the Achelis Challenge Cup singles to-day on the turf courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club here. In his semi-final match Niles, who was rated sixth on the National list for last season, defeated Karl H. Behr in two straight sets by the score of 6-1, 6-3.

Niles, who has won the cup once, will meet Clothier, who has two legs on the trophy, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A victory for Clothier will give him permanent possession of the valuable piece of plate.

Behr was more successful in finishing up the doubles than he had been in the singles. He took the court, after a short rest, with his partner, Frederick C. Inman, and the two made short work of the unfinished match in the semi-final round against Robert Le Roy and George Peabody Gardner, Jr. The third set, which was left at 5-all yesterday, was canceled and replayed by mutual consent from the beginning. Behr and Inman won at 6-3. The result makes the complete score 6-3, 6-8, 6-3 for Behr and Inman. Behr and Inman will meet Harold H. Hackett and Lyle E. Mahan in the final to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for the Barrows-Crawford cups, which will bring the tournament to a cluose.

FRENCH PLAYERS LOSE.

British Team Wins Doubles in Davis Cup Preliminary.

FOLKESTONE, England, July 12.—In the preliminary games for the Dwight F. Davis lawn tennis cup, C. P. Dixon and H. Roper Barrett, the British players, beat Andre H. Gobert and W. H. Laurentz, the French players, in the doubles by three sets to one. The score was 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Man to Play Inman.

LITCHFIELD, Conn., July 12.—As a result of his victory to-day over V. Ward of New York in the finals of the annual State tennis championship here, A. H. Man, Jr., of Richmond Hill, L. I., will meet F. C. Inman of Brooklyn, N. Y., the present champion, in the challenge round to-morrow afternoon for the title and the cup. In to-day's match Man played a steady game, puzzling his opponent by his serving and playing. Ward played brilliantly at times, but this was offset by Man's consistent work, and the latter took the match in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss May Sutton Wins Title.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 11.—Miss May Sutton won the bi-State championship in ladies' singles here to-day by defeating Miss Mary Browne, also of Los Angeles, in the finals, 6-2, 6-2. In the men's singles Gustave Touchard was forced to default to Dr. T. W. Stephens in the final against his partner, W. D. McElroy, the winner of which will play Richard Palmer of New York for highest honors.

S. S. A. L. ATHLETES COMPETE

Athletes from the Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian Branch of the Sunday Schools Athletic League romped away with first honors in the track events, closed to the Brooklyn Sunday School Athletic League, and held in connection with the Orangemen's Field Day at Ulmer Park yesterday. About thirty athletes, representing five Brooklyn churches, competed in the four sprints, and the Wyckoff Heights delegation had a rather easy time carrying off the honors. They accounted for all three places in the first event of the competition—the 50-yard dash for midgets, won first place in the second event and second place in each of the other two sprints. Their total point score was 20, four more than the total points scored by the other four church teams in the competition.

L. Meslin, a diminutive youngster of the Wyckoff Heights team, was the star performer, and he annexed one-half of his team's total point score by taking first place in two events—the 50-yard dash for midgets and the 60-yard dash for boys. In both events he was forced to his limit, and the finishes were very close.

The best race of the day was the 220-yard dash for intermediates, the four largest and fastest boys in the competition being left for the final heat. E. W. Markes of the Borough Park Baptist Church and R. M. Chan of the Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian got away together and traveled abreast over the entire distance. It looked like a dead heat, until the pair were within a few feet of the tape, when Markes took the lead and breasted the tape only a few inches ahead of Chan. The summaries:

50-Yard Dash, Midgets.—Won by L. Meslin, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian; H. Hicks, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian, second; S. Peterman, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian, third. Time—0:06 3-5.
60-Yard Dash, Boys.—Won by L. Meslin, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian; W. N. Cook, St. John's Methodist Episcopal, second; H. Dey, Christ Lutheran, third. Time—0:07 4-5.
110-Yard Dash, Juniors.—Won by S. Hedberg, St. John's Methodist Episcopal; H. Chan, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian, second; H. Dey, Christ Lutheran, third. Time—0:12.
220-Yard Dash, Intermediates.—Won by E. W. Markes, Borough Park Baptist; R. M. Chan, Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian, second; R. Fried, Central Congregational, third. Time—0:23 1-5.
Point Score.—Wyckoff Heights Presbyterian, 20; St. John's Methodist Episcopal, 8; Borough Park Baptist, 5; Christ Lutheran, 2; Central Congregational, 1.

Hudson River Regatta.

The annual regatta of the Hudson River Rowing Association will be held this afternoon over the Riverside course. The races will start at 2 o'clock and the finishes will be at the Hudson Boat Club, 127th Street and the Hudson River. The entry list is unusually large, and the regatta promises to be one of the best in the history of the association.

Hoskings Makes a Century.

Contrary to expectations, the New York Veterans won their match against the All-Philadelphia Colts at Manor Field, Staten Island, yesterday. Batting first, the Colts put on the fine total of 202, splendid work being done by F. A. Savage, Jr., and H. W. Middleton, with scores of over 40, while doubles were also added by F. H. Tripp, H. Maxwell, C. M. Crossman, F. T. Dixon, Jr., and C. B. Hawley. The feature of the game, however, was the fine stand for the ninth wicket on the Veterans team, which was made by A. Hoskings and F. C. Kaye. Hoskings, especially was in excellent form, and with 123 to his credit, was still at the wickets when time was called.

Canadian Cricketers Lead.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The Rosedale Cricket Club of Toronto was in the lead at the close of to-day's play in the match with the Philadelphia Cricket Club, scoring 162 runs in the first innings, while the home team was retired for a total of 132. The Canadians scored 17 runs for a total of two wickets in the second innings before stumps were drawn for the day. The match will be resumed to-morrow.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, JULY 13, 1912.

PROFITS THAT COST TOO MUCH.

Nobody grudges our coastwise marine any profits fairly earned, but the gains from the operation of the Panama Canal ought not to go disproportionately to owners of vessels operated under a monopoly. It is difficult to find arguments which shall persuade a man against his own interest, and the owners of the vessels who are asking that they be exempted from tolls, and that their competitors be forbidden to reduce their rates, may be left to their own convictions. All other Americans can be convinced readily enough that it is more to their interest that freight rates shall be reduced than that the profits of the coastwise marine shall be increased. The argument addressed to the general interest is stronger than any argument confined to the coastwise marine, or to the Panama Canal, for it is impossible to confine the argument to those interests. Congress may seek to do so, but there are others as free to act as Congress, and with dispositions already showing signs of irritation at the attitude Congress is assuming.

For example, when the waterways question was settled with the Laurier Government a clause was conceded to the United States providing that the United States should receive privileges over the Canadian canals equal to those the Canadians received over the American canals. The Canadian canals are far more expensive and important, and the American traffic over them exceeds the Canadian traffic. The Canadians already are regretting the concession, and are seeking an excuse for withdrawing it. In 1908 the United States tonnage using Canadian canals was 4,835,320, and in 1910 it was 21,777,297. Meanwhile Canadian tonnage remained almost stationary, having receded somewhat from a maximum of 9,172,192. Of all commodities passing through the Canadian canals the proportion of the United States ranges around 80 per cent. In vessel tonnage the ratio is 66 per cent. for the United States and 33 for Canada. And even some Canadian tonnage over the Canadian canals reaches foreign markets through the American ports over American railways. Our iron market would be seriously disturbed if ores could not come through the Soo route, and our railways would lose a great traffic if deprived of the marketing of the grain which the Canadian railways cannot carry, and which goes via American seaports, although the Montreal route is cheaper. This accommodation to our commerce is held by a frailer tenure than the gauzy argument by which our coastwise marine seeks to gain profits larger than could be earned in a natural market, and which can be withdrawn more easily.

Nor would the matter thus opened be confined to these dimensions. Australia has taken note of Canada's disposition, and is prepared to impose differentials against American commerce according to Australian advices to Canada. Our use of the Suez Canal is less important than of the Canadian canals, but such as it is it invites penalization. The danger, of course, is not to our vessels, but to commerce to and from the United States in the vessels of other nations. Discrimination is a game two can play at, and, given the disposition, a system of tolls can be devised to punish us. The American coastwise marine may care little for such considerations, but, large as those interests are, they are inferior to the interests on the other side. A worse entry into world commerce can hardly be imagined, and world commerce is a matter which will be constantly of greater importance to the United States. Our coastwise trade cannot be lost. Our foreign commerce must all be fought for, and the result is a foregone conclusion if we justify a cabal against us. The English note which is coming may be trusted to hint at nothing of the sort. But there cannot be a doubt that there have been just such international exchanges as those which preceded the representations which Lord Pauncefote made at Washington. There were those who resented that intervention by our very good friend, but if they had eyes to see they came to see that it was the act of a friend, and that we needed friendly counsel.

This issue is as inauspicious an opening of the Democratic campaign as of American entry into world commerce. Senators who were opposed to the idea of discrimination no longer feel free to be guided by their judgments, since the action of the Democratic Convention compels them to oppose their party if they do so. The Democrats are committed to the coastwise monopoly as certainly as the Republicans or the third-term party to their own chosen monopolists. They are not thinking of the ultimate consumer in the year when the ultimate consumer is the master of all parties. The party which commits itself to higher prices in order to enlarge the profits of any monopoly takes the hot end of an issue which runs further than can be seen. The coastwise marine has opened a matter which not improbably may lead to the limitation of its monopoly, or, if that is left undisturbed, to regulation of its rates, which need regulation as much as those of any other monopoly. Let sleeping dogs lie would have been prudent counsel for it.

These considerations are in the interest of the people who pay the freight, and are conceived in no spirit of hostility to a single and relatively small interest which misconceives its place in the popular affections, and has too long been indulged with the idea that its interests are the same as those of the people who suffer by its exactions under protection of law.

PROTESTING TOO MUCH.

Why does The Outlook contingent feel compelled to deny each fresh assertion that the Colonel is fond of cocktails? Mr. Roosevelt has been in the public gaze many years. If he had been a drinking man, the whole world would have known it long ago. He does not drink. We have the best testimony that he is quite as temperate as the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, who is, assuredly, not of the stripe of Toodle and Dick Swiveller. Why not let it go at that? Here is Dr. Abbott out with another private letter for public perusal branding as slanderous certain assertions, hitherto quite unregarded, that the Colonel kept up his courage in Chicago by the use of alcohol.

Dr. Abbott calls the Colonel one of "the most wholesome, sane, temperate, sweet-minded men" that he has ever come in contact with. We should not use those adjectives to describe the Colonel, but we are perfectly willing to believe that the yarns about his drinking habits are foolish lies. Continual and vehement denial of them, however, will only serve to give them currency. Many men who drink talk and act with the violence and lack of logic of Roosevelt in his most sane and sweet-minded moods. The reports of his use of alcoholic stimulants have no other basis. These stories gain currency because the Colonel's habitual deportment is that of a raving alcoholic.

Dr. Abbott and Mr. Roosevelt's other friends ought to treat the calumnies with silent contempt. We have been told enough about his fondness for milk and iced tea. There is no public disposition to attribute any of the small vices to the Colonel. He can work himself into a greater fury on his temperance drinks than an ordinary man could acquire on frequent potations of absinthe and brandy. That is an accepted fact. Various other charges against the Colonel require answering. The Outlook contingent will have use for all its supply of rhetoric during the campaign. Why waste ammunition and at the same time give circulation to slanders which might otherwise be disregarded?

CAVOUR ON PROTECTION.

Count Cavour was, on the whole, the greatest constructive statesman of the nineteenth century. The work of Bismarck was less difficult and was performed with less sagacity and in a less noble spirit, though it was on a larger scale and more intimately affected the organization of Europe. Cavour, with all his skill as a diplomatist, had a basis of clear and profound knowledge of the fundamental principles of government—of that advancing democratic government to which he contributed so richly and lastingly.

His comprehension of freedom was acute and inclusive. It made him hate and dread protection, which he described as "the most insidious form of privilege," which "renders honest government difficult and equal government impossible." And he had a sound understanding of the intimate connection between protection and socialism. He wrote:

> They start absolutely from the same principle; reduced to their lowest terms they assert that it is the right, and consequently the duty, of the Government to interfere in the distribution and employment of capital; that the Government has the mission, the power of substituting its will, which it deems more enlightened, for the free will of individuals. Were this accepted as an unquestioned truth I know not what we should reply to the laboring classes and to their champions when, appearing before the Government, they put forward the following argument: "You believe "it your right and duty to interfere in "the distribution of capital, in the regulation of capital; but why do you not "interfere to regulate the other element "of production—wages? Why do you "not organize labor?" And in fact I think that, if we admit the protectionist system, there follows logically the necessity of admitting, if not all, at least many, of the socialist doctrines.

We desire to call this temperate and reasonable statement directly to the attention of Mr. Taft. The President is, in some marked ways, a statesman of ideals like those of the great Italian. If he be not, as Cavour called himself, "the child of Freedom," since freedom was won in this country by his ancestors, he is the inheritor of the fruits of their noble struggle. He has a deep sense of the rights of citizens under established justice and order. Yet he clings to the delusion that the whole country can be benefited by "the most insidious form of privilege." He believes that the Government, which should be the responsible agent of all the people, "has "the mission, the power of substituting "its will, which it deems more enlight-"ened, for the free will of individuals." He does not see that such a process, inevitably, by the working of incurable human weaknesses, "makes honest "government difficult and equal gov-"ernment impossible."

The President has a wholesome dread of socialism. He sees, as every fair man must, the excellence of some of its professed aims, but he deeply distrusts its methods, precisely because they replace the free will of individuals by the will of the Government, which is the will of those in possession of the Government. Yet, as Cavour says, socialism and protection alike start from this principle. Mr. Taft has, at heart, an uneasy consciousness of this, and advocates all sorts of restraints upon the exercise of this usurped power. It is in vain. The restraints can be imposed only by those who need restraining. Every attempt to control the legislative favoritism which is the basis of protection moves in a vicious circle and gets nowhere. That is the reason, we beg to assure Mr. Taft, why many voters who sincerely respect his purposes and character will feel compelled to vote for Mr. Wilson. Those to whom the blighting system of protection is the main issue can hardly do otherwise.

A COMPREHENSIVE PLATFORM.

The platform of the Prohibition Party, adopted by the National Convention at Atlantic City, is a model of its kind. Besides its denunciation of the traffic in alcoholic drink, which is as strong as befits the subject, it has planks favoring female suffrage, uniform marriage and divorce laws, direct elections of Senators, a single term of six years for the President, settlement of all international disputes by arbitration, the initiative, referendum, and recall, a Federal income tax, a Federal inheritance tax, the abolition of child labor, the suppression of polygamy and all immorality, "and other features."

The "other features," of course, are the prohibition of vaccination and vivisection, and the acceptance by the Government of the Baconian authorship of Shakespeare's plays. These "features" are needed to round out the platform, and we must assume that they were overlooked by the reporters. Thus completed, no declaration of political and moral principles could be stronger or more inspiriting. The Prohibitionists have outdone the Socialists in the platform matter, and they have made the declarations of the two old parties seem piffling. Col. Roosevelt must look to his laurels.

THE MILITIA PAY BILL.

The payment guaranteed to the armed militia of the forty-eight States, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia, constituting the National Guard, by the compromise Militia Pay bill, just reported favorably by the Military Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, is not large, but it is enough to meet the expenses of all civilians who enlist in the military service of their States, and thus to encourage enlistments. The passage of the bill will insure an improvement of the National Guard throughout the country. The civilian soldiery will now grow in importance as an adjunct of the United States Army. The bill provides for the transfer of militia regiments to the regular army in time of war, when their members, of course, will receive the same pay as the regulars.

The National Guard now comprises about 10,000 enlisted officers and 112,000 men, a force to be reckoned with, indeed, when it is working in co-operation with the regular army, when its members have the advantages of training by experienced officers, and of taking part in manoeuvres in association with well-seasoned Federal troops. The modified Pepper bill, therefore, will serve to establish an important army reserve. The reduction of the term of enlistment in the regular army to two years would in time build up another reserve force of trained men, and help to place our military establishment on a sounder footing.

THE CANADIAN DREADNOUGHTS.

The intelligent correspondents of the London press in Canada have been telling Englishmen that Canada would supply several dreadnoughts for the imperial navy. This week upon the arrival of several Canadian Ministers in London to talk the matter over, Englishmen fawned upon the colonials, whom they used to patronize. It was a case of love's labor lost. Now comes from London Premier Borden's own declaration of naval policy in practically the words he has used before, and which have been reproduced in The Times. Canada, says its Premier, does not propose to be an adjunct of the Empire, and pay the bills for battleships for others to use at will. Canada does not shirk its responsibility for the Empire's defense, but it wants to be consulted about what the Empire's defense requires, and the manner in which the defense shall be conducted.

In the words of Premier Borden on Wednesday, addressing an official audience shortly before starting to dine and sleep at the invitation of the King, the question of Canada's contribution to the Imperial Navy "raises in "concrete form the question of the "future constitution and organization "of our Empire."

The meekness and modesty of this adjunct of the Empire are amazing. The colony is to set the foreign policy of the Empire, just as it already has proposed to arrange the finances of the United Kingdom. The Canadian Government and his Majesty's loyal Opposition are agreed in asking the hungry islanders to tax their food in order that Canadians may sell dear to their brothers and sisters. England has already rejected both propositions more than once, both through their officials and through the popular votes. Yet Canada does not hesitate to repeat the proposal. Truly these are the Canadian dreadnoughts.

For England to surrender these points would be hardly less humiliating than to surrender to an alien enemy. The colony which pays no tribute does not hesitate to demand tribute, and it must be denied or the Empire is endangered from within. If this is conceded to Canada it must be conceded to all the other colonies, and the foreign policy of England becomes hopeless. Already between a dozen and a score of imperial commercial treaties have been modified to agree with the legislation of Canada, which clashed with the favored-nation principle. Now Canada is asking that England shall adopt protection, and soon Australia will be asking that England shall abandon its Asiatic ally, whose immigration is so offensive. The United States is a Nation because it is able to present a united front to the world on all exterior questions, despite some friction. It remains to be seen whether the Empire is really such, and the multiplication of causes of interior dissension hardly strengthens the links which bind the discordant elements. Canadian loyalty is as difficult for observers to understand as it was for Gladstone to understand how the Federal principle could be worked so as to enable Ireland to be both inside and outside the union. British history is making fast these days, and Canada is helping hard.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Loan Sharks Pleading for Immunity.

Only the most ingenuous of optimists can expect legislation, no matter what its dentition, or prosecuting attorneys, however zealous, completely to abolish the lending of money at high rates of interest to borrowers whose needs, real or imagined, are stronger than the security they can give is good. The law of supply and demand, which is a "law of nature," precludes the possibility of any such achievement, and therefore is it more than probable that the present exultation over the rout of the "loan sharks" contains an element of exaggeration—more than probable that these miserable creatures will be compelled to change their methods and to moderate their extortions rather than to go out of business.

This is not to deny that that much has been accomplished by the energetic campaign against them which the passage of the Brooks law has permitted. It is not a little—it is, indeed, a great deal—that the hitherto defiant thieves who pose as lenders are frightened at last. Confronted by the certainty of incessant fines and no small likelihood of imprisonment, they are offering to compromise with their debtors on a 6 per cent. basis and to charge no more than that in the future. In return they insolently demand immunity from punishment for past offenses. It is to be hoped that they do not get it, at least on any such cheap terms as that. Justice requires restitution before even listening to a plea for mercy, and, although this could not be complete, more than enough victims could come forward with proof of exorbitant payments on recent petty loans to make big holes in the fortunes of the usurers.

There are two means of reducing the business of the loan sharks to its lowest practicable minimum. The best would be to make all wageworkers sensible and thrifty, but that will not be done to-morrow or next day. The other is the establishment of lending agencies honestly and decently conducted, thus creating a competition with which the sharks could not compete except in the case of their least profitable customers—those that do not care what obligations they assume if only they can get hold of a little ready money. It should be remembered, though it is often forgotten, that not all the borrowers by any means are worthy of sympathy, for not a few get into the toils as the result of vices, not of necessities or misfortunes. These are they who cannot be protected by any laws, however well enforced.

Shower Baths for Horses.

These are not days in which anybody needs to have even his heart raised to a higher temperature than that which the weather is impartially supplying to the whole city. It is not, therefore, by making promises of such cardiac warmth that attention can be called to a development of metropolitan life on Thirty-first Street, close to Broadway, but from observation of what is going on there one does depart, if not appreciably cooler, at least with a new appreciation of the fact that there are kindly people in the world who will take more than a little trouble to increase its sum total of happiness.

For at that corner somebody, without any apparent attempt to advertise either himself or his business, has caused to be rigged up what may be called two shower baths for horses. An attendant stands by to operate them for any team the driver of which chooses to take advantage of an opportunity to relieve the sufferings of creatures most severely tried by doing hard work under a tropic sun. Of such drivers there is a constant succession, each waiting patiently till the turn of his horses comes to be sprayed. The horses themselves, though they are not a very expressive folk, make plain enough their enjoyment of the bath by the reluctance with which they obey the order to go on when it comes.

On general principles, some apprehension as to the later effects of these sudden coolings of the tired and overheated animals would be warranted, but apparently neither they nor their drivers have any fears, and steeds of value as well as those upon which the crows should have an anticipatory eye pass under the torrential downpour. They get a drink, too, while it is playing upon them, and though that may add to the danger, it certainly increases the satisfaction. Moreover, between the peril of a chill and that of a sunstroke or heat prostration the choice should be easy and evidently is.

But pleasant as is this "continuous performance," its beneficiaries can be so few that it does not prevent all observers from wishing that it might be made unnecessary—from hoping that the day may soon come when the already reduced number of horses in the city may be brought to nothing. The horse is, indeed, of a nobility, but he is weak-minded and an incurable victim of ancestral fears, long since needless, and his close proximity and intimate association bring to urban life so many inconveniences, troubles, and perils that his banishment to the country—and thence, too, later, perhaps—in favor of the mechanical motor would be a welcome change.

Suicide and Suggestion.

As a study of suicide, the report of Frederick L. Hoffman to the Prudential Life Insurance Company is welcome because it is full of definite and trustworthy information, but in his comments on his statistics Mr. Hoffman might well have refrained from repeating the old charge that in many cases self-destruction is "suggested" by the accounts of like acts printed in the newspapers.

That is an accusation easy to make, and it has for only too many people a most plausible sound, but of its truth there is no evidence whatever. That the newspaper stories of suicide carry suggestion cannot be denied, but the thing suggested, every real investigator of the subject agrees, is not the deed, but merely the means or method. In other words, nobody kills himself because he has read about a suicide, but it may very well be that, not infrequently, one or another avenue of escape from conditions deemed intolerable is chosen through the imitative impulse. If not that road it would have been another.

And while the newspapers do not cause suicide by giving it publicity, the certainty that they will give it publicity undoubtedly prevents suicide in many, many instances. Suicide, like other crimes, is fostered by the hope and expectation of secrecy. The threat of disclosure, which is the menace of punishment, even in the case of suicide, is strongly inhibitive.

GENIUSES AND DISEASE.

Dr. Morris's Theory That Germs Produced Masterpieces Is Combated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article appeared in the Magazine Section of last Sunday's Times, "Literary Masterpieces Due to Microbes, Not Genius," by Dr. Morris, in which he asserts that the fame of our great authors is the work of bacteria, not their own. After reading it, many thoughts occurred to me in refutation of this antithetical theory of disease.

It is an established fact in medicine that every time you think a thought, or move a finger, it diminishes the strength of your brain or finger, and this must be restored from the energy of your blood. It has been proved beyond a doubt that the brain is an organ of the body, grows with it, develops with exercise, and needs nutrition, as an arm, for instance, and that the organs of the body develop and perform their respective functions most successfully when nourished by pure, healthy blood.

There is only one quality of blood in the body. This is circulated by the pumping action of the heart, to its utmost extremities, including the brain. Blood that is food for the muscles of your leg is food for your brain, and the converse is true.

Now, is it not logical to believe that pure, rich blood that will keep your leg sound and strong will do likewise for your brain, and not, as Dr. Morris claims, that impure blood, full of poisonous toxins, is the most wholesome diet for its perfect action, notwithstanding it is the most delicate of all the organs?

He names many famous authors who suffered from various diseases to substantiate his assertion. That is the fallacy on which his theory is based. With a few exceptions all these men began life as healthy persons—gifted, perhaps, with certain peculiarities in the construction of their strong brains. The principal effect of this was to engender in them a love for brisk agitation of the gray matter. Either to satisfy this passion, or, being ambitious, they lowered their vitality by excessive mental exertion, leaving their constitutions prone to the maladies which they developed, and their bodies, being the weaker, were the first to suffer. Yet, because their vigorous intellects continued to act in spite of physical decay, Dr. Morris assigns the disease as the cause of genius, instead of genius as the cause of their maladies, the most probable solution.

In enumerating the morbid literati he omitted Shakespeare, surely the greatest, consequently sickest, man in the germinal field of literary genius. He must have been a sick man, suffering from every known and unknown disease. One drop of his virulent blood had ample germs to spread a plague. Perhaps Shakespeare entertained Dr. Morris's theory of genius, and out of consideration for public health had that apt epitaph inscribed on his grave:

> Blese be ye man ty spares thes stones,
> Aud cursed be he ty moves my bones."

A commercial possibility is suggested by his theory. Our present literary or other genii could acquire vast fortunes without so much as writing a line—simply by selling, at their own price, small infusions of blood to the healthy, though aspiring, normals. They need not study; just get sick.

Hot Weather Feed for Horses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to compliment The Times and "E. S. T." for their interest shown toward horses during the hot weather. There are any number of perfectly balanced horse feeds containing alfalfa for sale on this market, and every horse owner who is using them appreciates the truth of "E. S. T.'s" letter. All the consumer need do is to look on the tax tag of any feed offered for sale, and assure himself of getting a product that is made of sound, wholesome grains and alfalfa. If he does this he will not be fooled into buying worthless feeding material, such as flax bran, rice hulls, weed-seed screenings, oat hulls, or peanut hulls.

Alfalfa is without doubt the most healthful food known for horses, and its use in the Summer is saving thousands of dollars to the feeders.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the interest of scientific accuracy, I should like a brief space to correct a statement in Wednesday's Times attributed to Weather Forecaster Scarr.

Mr. Scarr is quoted as saying that there was no place in the United States east of the Rocky Mountains that was materially cooler than New York during the first part of this week. I submit the maximum temperature readings at this place. Sunday 75 degrees; Monday, 80 degrees; Tuesday, 77 degrees; Wednesday, 74 degrees; at present writing, noon, Thursday, 74 degrees. These figures are taken from a recording instrument extensively used in meteorological work, and are representative of the entire south shore of Eastern Long Island at an average distance of 100 miles from Times Square.

COL. REEDY OF MISSOURI PREDICTS WILSON VICTORY

St. Louis Editor Who Knows What Is Going On Feels Democratic Success in His Bones.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12.—William Marion Reedy owns and edits The Mirror, "a journal of civilization," in these parts, and keeps his fingers on the public pulse on things political as well as social. The young men in his office call him "Billy" when he is not present. Leastwise one of them had the temerity to do so this morning, when an anxious inquirer was running a cold trail in search of the situation in the houn' dawg State, which was reported by Henry Watterson to have been committed to the temporary care of Col. Reedy.

Time was and not so long ago when Reedy was a Democrat, and he is still inclined to that faith. Something of a mugwump, it would be fair to say, if it were not for the fact that the term mugwump is not sufficiently militant in spirit on all occasions to suit this particular Missouri Colonel.

Reedy is a Progressive Democrat, and when asked what a Progressive Democrat is he frankly acknowledged that he did not know exactly, except that he is radical in his views on public questions, believing with all his heart in the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, the rights of the States, the inerrancy of the Democratic Party, Christian Science, bridge whist, pound parties, and all the other fads of the times.

Just now he feels it in his bones that the Democratic ticket will be elected in November; does not see how it would be possible to beat Woodrow Wilson; has lost something of his former admiration for Col. Roosevelt; is confident that the bull moose party will not be able to get together in Missouri, and regards Gov. Hadley as a man of fine ability, with a penchant for big politics and rather more anxious to hold the Republicans in this State together than to sacrifice them to the ambition of the wild man from Borneo, or words to that effect.

He tells a moving story about the dissensions that have shocked the political machines in Missouri, the remarkable career of Folk, who as Prosecuting Attorney for St. Louis sent ten or a dozen malefactors of great wealth, or who stood in with the real malefactors, to the penitentiary, and was elected Governor on the reputation he had made as a terror to evildoers, and the not less remarkable career, in a sense, of Hadley, who, as Attorney General under the administration of Folk, played jack with certain trusts and laid the foundation for the successful work afterward done by the Federal authorities under the Administration of Mr. Taft.

Folk was persona non grata to the Democratic machine and became at once unpopular with a certain set because he did not give St. Louis that freedom of living which is so alluring and profitable withal to those who favor the wide open town. As Reedy picturesquely described Folk's undone condition to-day, "no one who had more than $11 would be seen talking to him on the street," but Folk made a great Governor.

He was not afraid. He encouraged legislation of the radical or progressive sort, affecting big business; he closed the gambling saloons in this town and in other large communities of the State; he made the law so tight that in certain resorts of a questionable character where beer and other more violent stimulants were wont to be sold, it was found necessary "to sell chewing gum" to keep the devilish going, and naturally a great mass of people "soured on" Folk. Just the same, however, he was strong in the country districts, and was the first of the Missourians considered by his home people as good timber for the Democratic nomination for President.

It was found a little later that Champ Clark, or Champ Clark's friends for him, had Presidential longings, and when the convention met at St. Louis, or Jefferson City, or wherever it was, by ways that are not quite clear to an Eastern tenderfoot, Folk esteemed it the better part of good politics to let Champ have it, and what Champ did with it the official reports of the convention at Baltimore will show.

From what Reedy says, it is not certain that at the beginning Champ was seriously considered as a Presidential candidate, but with Folk out of the way the Clark movement continued to show increasing signs of life, and came very near being a very serious thing for the party and the country.

In Reedy's opinion there is a good deal of soreness in the Democratic ranks in this State, but it is not on account of any special objection to the work of the convention at Baltimore and the nomination of Wilson instead of Clark. The dissensions among the Democrats here are confined to local and State issues and will not affect the success of the party in the Presidential campaign.

The Republicans have troubles of their own. A great many of their number, influenced in considerable degree by the enthusiasm of the youngsters, who have regarded Mr. Roosevelt as the Buffalo Bill of the political show, were inclined to back the bull moose for the nomination, but have not discovered any sign of returning animation since the slaughter house convention at Chicago.

They have local questions to settle of far more importance than the election of a Progressive President, and while they may not and probably will not in great numbers vote for Taft and the regular Republican ticket, they will take a most lively interest in the election of local officers.

Hadley, who is the first Republican Governor Missouri has had in forty years, is anxious to keep the organization together for usefulness. This desire on his part will probably explain why it was that in the race at Chicago he would not take the hurdle when he came to it and has since been reported as saying things that have not seemed to coincide with the desperate determination of his recent faction to "fight the battle of the Lord."

St. Louis has a population of something like 700,000. It is a free and independent city under its charter and is supposed to have a certain degree of local self-government not assured to other large communities not similarly chartered. It has been found that with the metropolitan system of police and the kindly guardianship of the authorities of the State it is not quite so self-governing as its people would prefer, and particularly when it comes to their right of regulating their own affairs in the matter of drink or drinks.

Machine Democrats did not expect very much from Folk when he was Governor in the way of special privileges and they were not disappointed, but both Republicans and Democrats who voted for Hadley really imagined that when he got in he would somehow "wink the other eye," but he has not done so when anybody was looking, and it happens that this great city, which would express its feelings of good comradeship and high political thinking in liquid form, is awfully tight on a Sunday and is not as free on other days and nights of the week as the people who would pour and the people who would swallow think it should be.

When the Excise Commissioners cut down the places of supply there was resort to the club form of drinking joints, with the result that the man who paid $800 to the city for the privilege of running his place was hampered by the social club next door, which paid no license to anybody. Such an arrangement proved to be satisfactory to no one, and the dissensions caused in the trade found their speediest relief in politics.

There was some feeling here among the dealers and the consumers, also, on account of the letter written by Woodrow Wilson to a man in Texas when the prohibition fight was on in that State, but it is not expected that this or any other cause or other excuse will keep a vast majority of the people of Missouri from voting the Democratic ticket in November.

Whatever may be said about Hadley and the bull moose party, it is not believed here that he can do otherwise, if he wishes to save the Republican bacon in State and local affairs, than to support the regular Republican ticket. Missouri will vote against Taft anyhow, and in the opinion of those who study politics as a business it would be very foolish for Hadley to sacrifice "regularity" to the demands of a movement which has nothing in it but the vain ambition of an empty vessel.

TEACHER A "POOR LOSER."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There surely must be a large number of people in the City of New York to-day who feel humiliated by the action of Miss Grace C. Strachan, District Superintendent of Schools in the City of New York, in denouncing the teachers of the City of Chicago just because she was unsuccessful in her campaign for President of the National Education Association.

It is extremely unfortunate that Mayor Gaynor should have been involved by giving her a personal letter to the Mayor of Chicago. It would seem that Miss Strachan ought to have had better grace, and to have conducted herself with some regard for the city that she represented. However, it seems to be the practice these days that if you make a fight and lose, instead of accepting the result gracefully you begin to call the victors names.

It occurred to me that in view of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is looking for a candidate for Vice President, and Judge Lindsey of Colorado has announced in a stentorian voice that Mr. Roosevelt is for woman suffrage, Miss Grace Strachan might be a good candidate to name. They both come from the State of New York, and, while that is not considered politically expedient, there is nothing else to do because there is no one from any other State who acts just like they do.

I also note that Mr. Roosevelt has not yet been able to get a name for the party that he is going to lead. How would "Poor Losers" Party do?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In The New York Times of July 5 I note a query as to how to prevent contracting typhoid fever even though one should drink New Orleans water. I am afraid those who have warned the inquirer not to drink New Orleans water are not fully posted as to the new conditions here. New Orleans to-day has the purest, best, and cheapest water in the United States. It is water filtered from the Mississippi River, chemically treated, and pronounced by experts of the American Waterworks Association, as well as others, to be practically chemically pure. The supply is inexhaustible, and the service of the highest grade. The New Orleans Waterworks plants are owned by the people of New Orleans, i. e., they are a municipal enterprise, and furnish water so cheap, so clear, and so pure that we have risen to first rank in this regard. Your informant evidently harks back to the days of the old private, mud-water system and the days of rainwater cisterns, and does not know that for the last three years New Orleans has enjoyed as fine water as any other place in the world.

Specialization in Oral Surgery.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article appeared in your issue of Sunday, July 7, 1912, entitled "College of Oral Surgery," referring to a prospective building for the occupancy of the "College of Dental and Oral Surgery of New York," incorporated in 1905.

I am impelled to answer the following statement in this article, as it is not a fact:

> Of the sixty-four hospitals and infirmaries in Manhattan and the Bronx and the thirty-three similar institutions in Brooklyn and Queens, there is not a single one which offers opportunities for specialization in oral surgery, so that it is the belief of the Trustees and Directors of the new institution that the college will fill a long-felt want.

The New York College of Dentistry has included in its curriculum, since 1886, the teaching of oral surgery by lectures and class clinics, and in addition to this teaching, since 1906, a daily public oral surgery clinic has been held in the infirmary of the college, thus the college has for years afforded every opportunity for specialization in oral surgery.

Questions Olympic Scoring.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To quote your columns of to-day: "America gained a further four points when Kahanamoku won the final 100-meter swim." Can anybody tell me why when a Hawaiian gentleman, with a totally unpronounceable name, wins an Olympic event points are scored in the United States column, but when a white British subject residing in South Africa, Australia, or Canada accomplishes a similar feat the points won are not credited to Great Britain? If the United States contention is correct, and a Hawaiian can increase the American score, a Fijian or a Zulu or a Chinese from Hongkong winning an Olympic event would add points to England's score.

Armor Worn and Dented.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Was armor really ever worn? Any one visiting the great exhibits of arms and armor scattered through Europe will have no difficulty in finding instances of plate armor dented by bullets. Other marks of warfare are also plenty in number, but bullet dents are most noticeable.

SOME LINES.

How doth my hat
Droop limp above m'empurpled face!
The rose that once with airy grace
Did wave aloft—it weighs a ton.
This bow of crisp maline is done
For by the damp. Why did I think,
Of all earth's hues, to pick out pink
To sizzle in this seething sun?
So doth my hat.

How doth my gown
Assume a sad and wilted air
Unlike its tailored self! Despair-
Ingly my collar sinks away
Whence it should be. Long since the stay
And prop of starch is vanished;
My waist becomes a blooze instead—
The product of the Hottest Day—
So doth my gown.

So do my clothes—
Hat, gown, gloves, shoes—conspire
To one chief end—that I perspire.
I little thought, when these I donned,
The Summer Girl cannot respond
To ninety-six degrees. It is the rule—
A Perfect Lady's always cool—
Ah, 'twas not mentioned in the bond—
Yet—so do my clothes.

BLAME DROUGHT FOR HIGH FOOD PRICES

Garden Truck, Milk and Eggs All Affected by the Long Dry Period.

HIGHER RATES EXPECTED

Economists Now Advocate a World Conference to Determine What Steps to Take to Remedy Conditions.

Those in charge of large produce concerns in this city declared yesterday that the upward tendency of prices in food stuffs was due to the long dry spell, in the main, and in a much smaller extent to labor disturbances. If there had been enough rain recently, garden truck and meat and milk would have stayed at the old prices, they declared. But the drought, they said, had greatly injured the market gardens; had left the cattle thin, and the milk in consequence was so poor that it took twice the quantity to get enough butter fat to keep the milk up to standard.

The price of milk has gone up half a cent a quart, farmers are threatening to increase the price of vegetables from 20 to 30 per cent., and beef, it is feared, will go up a cent or two a pound. The big beef dealers, like Armour & Co. and the United Dressed Beef Company, refused yesterday to discuss the condition of the beef market. Representatives of these two companies intimated that the public had no right to ask about their business. The small butchers declared that soon they might be compelled to put up their prices.

An official of the New York Veal and Mutton Company said that veal had increased in price 50 cents a hundred pounds, which meant, he declared, an increase of 1 cent a pound to the consumer. But this increase, it was said, was customary at this time of the year.

Before the present increase in the price of foodstuffs there had been an increase in the preceding twelve months of 45 per cent. This increase affected eggs, bread, butter, tea, coffee, tomatoes, potatoes, onions, cabbages, flour, cheese, oatmeal, codfish, and many of the other articles of similar kind. If the increase in prices keeps pace with that of last year, food will cost 90 per cent. more next year than it did before 1911.

At the office of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, it was said that a disposition on the part of those controlling the market to keep on increasing prices was evident.

John A. Kingsbury, General Manager of the association, said that the increase in price levels throughout the world in the last eighteen months alone, had been so great that leading economists advocated the establishment of an international commission to study the causes of it, and to promote reforms to ameliorate the conditions. He declared that the advance in prices of some of the so-called necessities of life in a year had been so great as to prohibit their use by many families. Wholesale costs had increased in some cases 100 per cent., and produce merchants were paying more than twice as much for potatoes, cabbages, and carrots, he said, as they formerly did. Retail grocers pay 20 per cent. more for butter and 33 per cent. more for eggs.

The same rate of increase has been noted in other things. Canned goods have gone up, salmon and tomatoes show an increase of from 20 to 22½ per cent. The price of tea has not changed, but coffee has jumped from 5 to 6 cents a pound. There has been a slight increase in the cost of sugar. The price for butter and eggs showed a phenomenal increase last December and January. It was said then that they had reached their highest price, and that the price would have to drop, but the only change that came was due solely to the season of the year. The comparative increase was maintained.

It was said that only large importations of potatoes from Holland and Ireland prevented the price from going higher than it is now. In one year the price of potatoes increased from $2 for 183 pounds, to $4.13; 100 pounds of cabbage from 80 cents to $2, and 100 pounds of onions from $2.50 to $4. It was pointed out yesterday that the articles that the poor mostly depend upon are the ones that advance in price the first, and they are the last to be reduced. The increases in these articles in the last year were: Butter, 4 per cent.; coffee, 2; sugar, 2; eggs, 10; canned tomatoes, 3; potatoes, 10; canned corn, 2; codfish, 2; onions, 2; cabbages, 3; cheese, 1, and flour, 2. In other words, articles that could have been bought for $1.35 a year ago now cost $1.78. In discussing this increase yesterday, Mr. Kingsbury said:

"The burden of this association has been practically 25 per cent. greater this year than it was a year ago. The increase in the price of milk has a marked effect on the cost of living. Beginning Jan. 1, 1912, the Sheffield Farms Company increased the price of milk to this association from 7 cents to 8 cents a quart. Borden's milk increased from 8 to 9 cents in November of the preceding year."

The association spends more than $10,000 a year for milk. Mr. Kingsbury said that the statement of Dr. Seligman that in the last decade there had been an increase of 60 per cent. in price levels throughout the world was not so startling as the figures which indicated the amount of increase within the interval of a single year.

All the railroads declared yesterday that they were having no trouble now with the strike of freight handlers. Pennsylvania officials said that their trains were running on schedule time, and that all their freight for this city was arriving here promptly.

RAIN CUTS LIVING COST.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Good-bye to the high cost of living. The price of food has begun to volplane, and every one may begin eating again.

Nature is solving the high cost of living problem. Abundant rainfall throughout the country has assured bumper crops, and the effects are already being felt in the Chicago market. Vegetables of all kinds are selling 50 per cent. lower than the prices a year ago, and a further decline is expected. Here is the present record of prices:

	July 1, 1912.	July 1, 1911.
Potatoes, per barrel	$2.75	$5.25
Cabbages, per crate	1.00	2.50
Tomatoes, per crate	.50	1.10
Onions, 70-pound sacks	.80	1.50

The rain has accomplished what 90,000,000 consumers, backed by Congress, failed to do. The high cost of living has been cut in half, and, according to a dealer, only the first slice has been made. Before the Summer is ended $1 will do the work of $3 a year ago.

The yield of vegetables is nearly twice that of ordinary years. Fruits are astonishingly plentiful. The peach crop has broken all records. Wheat and corn promises to overtop the highest yields of history.

Save for meats, the Summer of 1912 will be one of the most bounteous years ever known in this country. Meats have reached the highest mark since the civil war, and the prices will remain high until Fall. There is a shortage of livestock, according to packers, and it will take several months before the abundant grain crops may be turned into steaks and roasts. But if consumers depend upon vegetables for their livelihood, they may cut their table expenses in two.

LUSITANIA NEARLY RAN DOWN SCHOONER

PROF. MOORE A PASSENGER

Tells of New International Rules for Wireless Regulation Agreed On at London Convention.

The Cunard liner Lusitania arrived yesterday afternoon from Liverpool several hours late, because of the fog she encountered this side of the Grand Banks and the adverse current of the Gulf Stream. Until noon on Wednesday the liner averaged 24.75 knots, and made the passage of 3,094 miles from Daunt's Rock to the Ambrose Channel Lightship in five days nine hours and fourteen minutes at an average speed of 23.94 knots.

When she came up to her pier at 2:30 o'clock there was a strong flood tide running, and it required eight tugs and the persuasive eloquence of Capt. Roberts, the Marine Superintendent of the line, to dock her. The Lusitania brought over 229 first, 391 second, and 626 third-class passengers, and 2,600 sacks of mail.

At 4 A. M., yesterday, off the Nantucket Lightship, the Lusitania had a narrow escape from hitting a fishing schooner in the fog, but as the liner was slowed down the lookout men in the crow's nest and on the forcastle deck in the eyes of the ship, sighted her in time to avoid a collision.

Among the passengers was Prof. Willis L. Moore, Chief of the United States Weather Bureau, who had attended the International Radio-Telegraphic Conference in London, in which he delivered an address. His chief purpose, he said, was to illustrate to European scientists how the principles of meteorology were made use of in the United States and to arrange a convention between twenty-seven countries to be represented by 150 delegates, to agree on certain rules for the operation of wireless telegraphy.

Prof. Moore said that the most important measures agreed upon at the conference were the restriction of amateurs to short wave lengths, the stopping of all messages for the last ten minutes each hour to listen for "S. O. S." signals, the carrying of two operators on every ship, and an auxiliary power great enough to operate the wireless apparatus in case the main engines and boilers were put out of commission by accident. The arrangement for weather reports from all ships, he said, would be of great service to vessels in all oceans as soon as others than the Atlantic liners had adopted the new system.

Bishop Charles P. Anderson of Chicago, who is Chairman of the Episcopal Committee on Faith and Order, returned from conferences with the Archbishop of Canterbury and leading clergy in Great Britain regarding a meeting of all denominations of Protestant faiths to be held in New York next year. He said that his mission had been successful, and this was one of the most important movements ever undertaken by the Protestant Churches. The meeting in New York, he said, would be attended by delegates from every country.

W. T. Sesnon, Chairnan, and Theodore Hardee, executive officer of the commission sent to Europe by President Taft for the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915, arrived on the Lusitania from their trip through Europe. Mr. Sesnon said that they had received the greatest encouragement from foreign potentates. The King of Spain was especially friendly. Every European power had agreed to send warships to San Francisco, Mr. Sesnon said, and they would all go through the canal on their way out to the Pacific.

Only a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, and there was no reception. The bride wore a traveling suit and was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. D. Buel, who acted as matron of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean are now on an extended wedding trip, and upon their return they will live at 40 West Ninth Street.

Postpone 'The Passing Show of 1912.'

The reopening of the Winter Garden with "The Passing Show of 1912" has been postponed from next Monday night until Wednesday night, July 17. The reason of the delay, it was said, is on account of one of the principal dancers, Miss Greville Moore from the Alhambra Theatre, London, missing the American liner New York, which arrives to-morrow morning. This was not known until yesterday, as it was believed that she was on the New York with the four other principals who are to take part in the "Ballet of 1830." Miss Moore will arrive here on Tuesday by the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

By special train the company which is to present the Gilbert & Sullivan operas on tour will leave New York on next Monday at 2 P. M., arriving in San Francisco on Friday at 9 P. M. The company will open at the Cort Theatre in that city on July 21, and will present in succession "The Mikado," "Pinafore," "Patience," and "The Pirates of Penzance."

MISS CARROLL IN COLLISION.

Yachtsman's Daughter Narrowly Escapes Injury in Her Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—With the automobile in which she was sitting tilted so high on two wheels that it seemed about to go over, and with the forehoofs of a horse coming down within a few inches of her head, Miss Dorothea Carroll, daughter of Royal Phillips Carroll, the yachtsman, had a very narrow escape this morning. She had just entered her automobile and was backing it out of Jones Court, when along came an express wagon.

Miss Carroll's machine came into Bellevue Avenue so quickly that the driver of the express wagon, Paul Limmer, had not time to hold up his horse. A sharp collision resulted. Limmer pulled his horse in, but the street was slippery and the horse bumped the automobile hard and threw it over so far that it nearly turned turtle. Then Miss Carroll let go the wheel of the machine and grasped the horse by the bridle. She was then almost dragged out of the automobile, which was running wild.

Elisha Dyer, Jr., and Deputy Sheriff King hurried to Miss Carroll's aid. Miss Carroll's chauffeur got to the wheel and turned off the power. Miss Carroll was lifted from the machine and driven home. She was not injured. The express horse was badly cut.

COMPLAIN OF CAMERA MEN.

Newport Residents Seek Police Aid, but Law Upholds Snapshots.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—The Summer residents have been so annoyed here recently by the persistent presence of a battery of camera men, that several of the cottagers, among them Mrs. French Vanderbilt, have sought relief through complaints to the Police Department. Following the complaints, Chief Crowley decided to pay a visit himself to the Bellevue Avenue section this morning to see what assistance he might render.

Chief Crowley found the photographers arrayed for action while the cottagers passed before them wincing, with their hands shielding their faces. Chief Crowley advised the men that it would be better for them to conduct their operations singly rather than en masse, and they followed his instructions for a little while, only to gather in the same street after he had departed.

According to a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island it is not unlawful ot take a snapshot even though the subject may object. On the other hand it is held that any one molesting a man with a camera is guilty of assault and is therefore liable for damages.

In spite of all sorts of obstacles thrown in her path, Mrs. Maclean succeeded in getting to Sicily. FINANCIAL MARKETS

General List Affected by Drop in St. Paul—Expect Banks to Show Surplus.

In a dull market prices sagged yesterday largely under the adverse influence of a sharp decline in St. Paul, which carried that stock to par, the lowest price reached since 1907. The market had a number of matters to consider, but the weakness in this transcontinental issue, coupled as it was with reports of a possible further reduction in the road's dividend, had probably more effect upon sentiment than any other one factor. The St. Paul dividend was not the only one which came in for discussion, but the other possible changes in dividends which were talked of were increases and not decreases. There had for some time been discussion of the possibility of an increase in the dividend on Southern Railway preferred, and this crystallized into reports that the next dividend would be 3 per cent., compared with the 2 per cent. paid the first half of the year. It is apparently still an entirely open question whether the dividend will be increased or not, but if it is, it seems probable that the next dividend will be not 3 per cent., but 2½ per cent. The naming of the higher rate was the interpretation which was put upon the report that the stock would be placed on a 5 per cent. basis on the assumption that the next payment would be at a rate which would equal 5 per cent. for the current year. The Directors are not expected to act on the matter before another month, at least, and perhaps not until September. The advance which continued under way in the American Can stocks until it was checked by the general afternoon decline was being explained by reports that at the close of this year the company's preferred stock would be placed on the full 7 per cent. basis, and that some payment might also be made on account of back dividends. So far as this was news at all, it was old news, for this prediction has been current on more or less authority ever since the American Can stocks assumed a place of prominence in the Stock Exchange dealings.

Under the circumstances the list may be said to have shown with few exceptions a fair degree of firmness, the losses in most issues being confined to small fractions. There was no disposition shown, however, to make much even of such developments as lent themselves to favorable interpretation, and it seemed clear that so far as the Stock Exchange was concerned, it was disposed to allow certain existing factors in the general situation to work themselves out a little more clearly in advance of taking a decided stand in respect to fresh stock market commitments. Among these matters is the readjustment of the reserve position at this centre. Preliminary figures suggested yesterday a further decrease of about $2,000,000 in the reserves of the banks. This estimate, however, was based on partial information and referred moreover to the average and not to the actual figures of the bank statement. It is altogether reasonable to assume that the average figures, which last week showed a deficit of only a little over $200,000 in the reserves of the banks, whereas the actual deficit exceeded $7,700,000, will to-day show the effect of the sharp drop in reserves which occurred toward the end of last week. Some, at least, of the banks which fell materially below the required 25 per cent. last Friday have this week been in receipt of cash from the interior, and loans have also in all probability been considerably reduced, so that despite yesterday's indications of a further decrease in the average figures, it seemed probably that the actual figures to-day would show that last week's reserve deficiency had been made good, and some surplus created.

An advance of practically one cent a bushel in both wheat and corn was the grain markets' response to further unsatisfactory crop reports, though these hardly expressed the general belief of the day regarding the crop position. The weekly summary of The Modern Miller indicated larger per acre yields of Winter wheat in Texas and Oklahoma than had been expected on the basis of previous estimates. While the weather has not been entirely favorable for harvesting, it seemed possible that final returns on Winter wheat would show a somewhat better average yield per acre than earlier estimates had indicated. The five principal grain crops promise, as matters now stand, an increase in yield of over 500,000,000 bushels, compared with last year, bringing the indicated yields of these crops but very little under the large yield of 1910. This is not an expectation on which to base misgivings regarding the crops, whatever may be the temporary fluctuations in grain market prices.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2¾@3⅜ per cent., with the last loan at 2⅞ per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 3¼ per cent.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Would Close Exchange Saturdays.

Brokers who move into the country during the Summer, and who would like to have their week-ends extend from Friday night to Monday morning, are beginning to sound their friends on the possibility of effecting a change in the hours of business on the Exchange. Discussing the new departure on the Consolidated, where the trading now begins at 9:30, a group of Stock Exchange members agreed yesterday that they would like to see their board closed all day Saturday during July and August and open half an hour earlier on other business days of those months. They pointed out that there are no deliveries of stocks and no money market on Saturday, so that no difficulty would be encountered on that score. Moreover, the extra half hour of business on the preceding five days of the week would not only offset the time lost by the Saturday closing, but would add a half hour to the week's total trading hours. To attend a routine session of the board, lasting only from 10 A. M. to noon, many of the members lose practically the whole day, which would otherwise be given over to recreation.

A Custom Followed Abroad.

The London Stock Exchange frequently recognizes the futility of keeping the members in town on dull Saturdays, and announces a closing for repairs. This does not seem to have worked to the disadvantage of the English brokers. As it is now, a large number of the members of the New York Exchange never come to town on the last day of the week in the hot weather season unless they expect a day of special activity. It was this practice that made it possible for a prominent Stock Exchange house to take the market by surprise one Saturday morning, and manipulate prices in a way that led to an unpleasant scandal following the failure of the house in question.

A Poor Business Day.

As a rule there is not enough trading in the short Saturday session in July and August to repay those brokers who put in an appearance. Special conditions sometimes arise which would make it advisable to suspend a Saturday closing rule, but it is generally possible to anticipate these in plenty of time to rescind the closing order. In July of last year there were five Saturdays. The largest number of shares delt in on any one of these days was 158,000 and the smallest 54,000. The total for the five days was but 436,927, or less than one day's business in a good business period. The average number of shares an hour was less than 44,000. In August the cumulative effect of a number of unusual conditions helped stimulate the market. Owing to the uncertainties of the railroad labor situation, a renewal of Federal activity against the trusts, and a bad crop report there was a heavy volume of trading on two of the four Saturdays in that month, and the total for the four short sessions was 1,720,385 shares. A proposal to close the Exchange at that time would have been generally opposed. The ordinary August trading, however, is much quieter. In 1910 the total for four Saturdays was but 544,260 shares, an average of about 60,000 per hour. In the two hours of last Saturday the total transactions were 125,355.

No Action by Southern.

There was a widespread impression that the Directors of the Southern Railway would declare a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. on the company's preferred stock yesterday. Two per cent. was declared at the last dividend meeting, and the holders are confident of receiving the full 5 per cent. to which the stock is entitled this year. The dividend payment is not due until October, but difficulties of getting a quorum together in August or September were made the basis for the report that the expected increase would be declared at yesterday's meeting. No action was taken, and it is thought that the payment will not be voted until September, when, if present plans are not upset, 3 per cent. will be voted.

Good Bank Statement To-day.

The bad showing made by the banks in last Saturday's statement is not likely to be repeated to-day. One prominent institution which was largely under its required reserve last week has had this week credit balances at the Clearing House in excess of $32,000,000. Most of this money poured in as the result of the increase in the rate on call money.

An Irregular Market.

No less than six prominent railroad issues made new low records for the year on the Stock Exchange yesterday. They were St. Paul, both common and preferred; Denver & Rio Grande common, Missouri, Kansas & Texas common, Chicago & Northwestern, which made its lowest price since the panic; Great Western, and Missouri Pacific. On the other hand, Texas Company, United Drygoods preferred, and General Chemical marked up new high figures for the year.

A Bargain in Bonds.

A single $1,000 6 per cent. bond of the United States Reduction and Refining Company sold yesterday on the Stock Exchange at 30. The previous sale was made in April at 50. The yield of a 6 per cent. issue at 30 is relatively high even in these days of advancing prices.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

On the Metal Exchange yesterday copper was dull, and prices were largely nominal. Spelter and lead remained unchanged, but tin was a shade easier.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

Stand. Copper—	Friday. Bid.	Friday. Asked.	Thursday. Bid.	Thursday. Asked.
Spot	16.45	17.00	16.45	17.00
July	16.45	17.00	16.45	17.00
August	16.45	17.00	16.45	17.00
September	16.45	17.00	16.45	16.87½
Spelter	7.20	7.40	7.20	7.40

The final figures for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin on the Metal Exchange in London yesterday, compared with Thursday's closing figures, follow:

	Friday. £ s. d.	Thursday. £ s. d.
Copper, spot	74 2 6	73 5 0
Copper, futures	74 17 6	74 2 6
Pig tin, spot	201 10 0	203 15 0
Pig tin, futures	197 15 0	198 15 0

The market ended easy. Spanish pig lead was unchanged at £18 7s 6d. Spelter was also unchanged at £26, while Cleveland warrants were off 3d, at 56s 4½d.

Trading Dull and Price Movements Narrow but Irregular on the Curb.

Curb trading was active in spots yesterday, but the market, on the whole, was narrow and irregular. Manhattan Transit, which had one of its periodic flurries on Thursday, continued active yesterday, but went down instead of up and closed after transactions of 1,000 shares, with a net loss of 5-16. The opening was at 2¾, even with Thursday's close, and the price moved between 2⅜ and 2 13-16, the last being 2 7-16. British-American Tobacco was less active and sold off to 31¾, after moving up to 32¼ from the opening at 31¾. Porto-Rican American Tobacco was the only one of the tobacco issues to make any considerable movement. It sold off from 267 to 260 on transactions of seventy shares. In the mining list Braden was the one active issue among the established coppers. It rose from 6¾ at the opening to 7 and closed at the high level after sales of 2,200. The only issue in the bond list to make any change from the opening level was the Chicago Elevated 5s, which sold off from 98¾ to 98 on transactions of $27,000.

The principal transactions yesterday, with opening, high, low and last prices, were:

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN.

Trading Narrow and Price Changes Small on Exchanges in Other Cities.

Trading was restricted and fluctuations mostly within a narrow range on the Exchanges in other cities yesterday, as reported in special dispatches to THE TIMES.

In Baltimore, Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power stocks were weak and materially lower as a result of pending hearings before the Public Utilities Commission looking to the reduction in the price of gas to consumers. The common stock showed a loss of 7 points from the last preceding sale earlier in the week and the preferred stock declined 4 points. The company's bonds were unaffected.

In Boston most of the copper stocks showed fractional losses again, though the volume of trading fell off to the lowest for weeks. Liquidation in coppers was over apparently, and drives at Amalgamated brought out few shares in sympathy. Superior copper was the most active stock in the Boston list, advancing in the early trading to 48¼, but losing a point for the day. Utah Consolidated was in demand on reports of good earnings during the first six months of the year. Trading in the other coppers was mostly in small lots and without feature.

In Chicago, aside from buying of People's Gas, American Can common and United Boxboard, which displayed strength and advanced to higher levels, stocks ruled steady, with a few issues showing declines from the previous closing. Street's Stable Car preferred shares dropped 2 points, and there was a small decline in Sears-Roebuck common. Chicago Railways, series 2, were also fractionally lower, while series 3 and 4 were a shade higher, on small transactions.

In Philadelphia there was further contraction of interest, and the market was almost lifeless during the greater part of the day. Many active issues failed to appear until well into the afternoon, and the recent activity in the local tractions seemed to have ended. The strengthening tone which was displayed in New York in the early hours, was without influence, the arbitrage group holding unchanged from last night's figures.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Market Has a Sagging Tendency—Paris Bourse Irregular—Berlin Steady.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, July 13.—The London Times in its City article says to-day:

"Yesterday being pay-day on the Stock Exchange loans were in good demand, but inquiries were not so keen as expected. No applications were made to the bank. The India Council renewed and lent a fair amount at 2¾ per cent., or ¼ per cent. more than was charged on Thursday. Still business was done by the bank in short bills. Discount rates remained very firm at the preceding day's level.

"The final arrangement of the account absorbed most of the attention of members during the early part of the day. New business was again on a very small scale. There were few adverse influences in the liquidation proceeding in several departments. The tone of the whole was dull.

"Consols were heavy in tone in spite of the Sinking Fund purchases. Some stale bull closing caused a relapse in home railway stocks. Renewed liquidation on Irish account caused Marconi shares to open flat, but when the selling ceased there was a good recovery, the price finally closing higher on the balance.

"Prices in the American market went above parity, and after being alternatively firm and dull, closed at about the opening level.

"Copper shares followed the course of the market in metal, opening weak and rallying toward the close, while De Beers diamond shares were in demand."

PARIS, July 12.—Prices were irregular on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 92 francs 27½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, July 12.—Prices were steady, but quiet, on the Boerse to-day.

BENEFITS OF EARLY TRADING.

Consolidated Brokers Point Them Out, with Opening at 9:30.

In order to put before the customers of Consolidated Stock Exchange houses the possible benefits of the 9:30 opening of the Exchange, which is to be put in effect next Thursday, brokers have sent out a circular which has this to say:

"This call will afford the earliest opportunity in this country to deal in stocks. This will be of great advantage at times, especially in the event of news of importance coming out over night.

"Attention is called to the fact that on the opening call only one stock can be traded in at a time, and that the trading will be participated in by from 200 to 300 members, affording the broadest stock market in the world numerically, instead of the usual stock crowd of from ten to twenty, which fact must lead those who are conversant with trading in large crowds, as, for instance, the Wheat Pit at Chicago, to conclude that this innovation will be a success."

CORPORATION TAX PAID.

Only About $75,000 of Dues in Financial District Uncollected.

Receipts under the Federal Corporation Tax law in the Second New York District, including those paid during the extension period of the first ten days of July, amount to $4,125,000. The Second District includes all of Manhattan Island below Fourteenth Street, taking in the big financial, railroad and industrial corporations centring about Wall Street.

The tax is payable on or before June 30 on the net income for the preceding calendar year. If it is not paid within ten days after tha, a penalty of 5 per cent. is imposed and an interest charge of 1 per cent. a month. Not more than $75,000 of the amount assessed in this district remains unpaid.

The receipts last year were $5,085,482, and the year before, when the tax first went into effect, about $3,375,000. The total for the country last year was $33,511,525, and for the first year $20,959,783.

Report on Visible Cotton Supply.

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton shows the total is 2,976,569 bales, against 3,187,329 last week; 2,087,294 last year, and 2,100,217 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 2,014,569, against 2,194,329 last week and 1,113,294 last year.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The decline in St. Paul and the downward movement in other prominent stocks, tended to unsettle the whole market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The decline in St. Paul was accelerated by reports of damage in the Northwestern Spring wheat territory, while Amalgamated Copper was adversely affected by further talk regarding reactionary conditions in the copper metal trade. Transactions totaling 37,550 shares were distributed among fifty-six different stocks.

NEW SOUTHERN STEEL PLAN.

Proposed to Reorganize Now with New Company and No Merger.

Stockholders of the much reorganized Southern Iron and Steel Company, which last Fall was to be merged with the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, the promoters of the deal having gone so far as to incorporate the consolidated company, have been apprised of a new plan of reorganization, which concerns the Southern company alone. The circular sent out by the majority of the committee, of which Alexander J. Hemphill is Chairman, makes this explanation:

> The committee found it impossible to secure the funds necessary to carry out the original plan upon the terms set forth, and the subsequent appointment of receivers of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company and the default in the payment of interest on certain of the bonds of the said company have so far altered conditions that in the judgment of the committee it is impossible at this time, and under existing financial conditions, to consummate a merger of the two companies in accordance with the terms of the original plan or of any present modification thereof practicable.

The committee explains that after a careful examination of the properties it has concluded that it would not be possible to reorganize the company at this time on terms that would provide sufficient working capital and to pay for necessary acquisitions and betterments. Ultimately, the circular says, the committee will, if practicable, obtain the money needed, or sell, exchange, or dispose of the properties acquired or the securities or obligations of the new company, "either for cash or for securities or stock or partly for cash and partly for securities or stock." In the opinion of the committee, "a forced sale of the properties at the present time in the judgment of the committee would realize only an inadequate sum for the holders of the securities, and unless some amicable adjustment is made between them as to their respective rights the cost of litigation would largely deplete any fund realized, and the time of distribution of any such fund would be postponed for a considerable period of time.

"In the discretion of the committee, securities or stock of the new company (other than those allotted by the modified plan to the holders of the securities) may be offered for sale to the holders of stock of the Southern company. No other rights are given to the holders of certificates of deposit representing preferred and common stock of the Southern company under the modified plan."

The distribution of beneficial certificates representing common stock in the new company, if that part of the proposal is put through, would be 100 per cent. to the holders of the $600,000 of notes, which are secured by $1,000,000 of bonds; 50 per cent. to the holders of $6,827,000 of bonds, and 20 per cent. to the holders of $1,200,000 of debentures.

Holders of certificates of deposit under the original plan who do not withdraw before Aug. 15, having made payment of their proportionate share of expenses, will be considered bound by the modified plan. The committee is to have the power to raise funds for the provisions of the new plan by the pledging of the stock or securities of the new company.

ST. PAUL FALLS TO PAR.

Earnings Low and Rumor of Dividend Cut—Rate May Be Maintained.

Rumors of a reduction in dividend on Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul common stock to 3 per cent., following reports of serious damage to the wheat crop in the St. Paul's territory, caused a sudden break in the shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Sales were made at 100. The issue closed at 100⅜, a loss of 1⅞ for the day. St. Paul has not sold at par before since the panic of 1907. In November of that year it broke to 93½, although the company was then paying 7 per cent. Just a year previous to that the stock sold at 199⅝.

The company's earnings have not been satisfactory in the last two or three years, with the result that the long-established 7 per cent. rate was reduced last January to 5 per cent. On the showing made by the monthly earnings to date, the road earned less than 2 per cent. on its $116,000,000 of common stock in the year recently closed. The next half yearly payment is due Sept. 3, and probably will be declared by the board in the last week of this month. It was said by a St. Paul official yesterday that business had been showing a considerable improvement lately, and that the crop prospects, on which much of the company's prosperity depended, was the best in many years. For this reason there was a disposition yesterday to expect another dividend of 2½ per cent. for the current period, even though that amount had not been earned.

The May statement of the St. Paul was not as good as had been expected, and showed a decrease of $800,000 in operating income. The reports submitted to the Inter-State Commerce Commission indicate that the parent company cannot derive any income this year from the earnings of the Puget Sound extension.

BUDGET OF RIO GRANDE.

Orders for 36 New Locomotives and Hundreds of Cars.

Vice President Brown of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad has given out particulars of the 1912 budget. Gross expenditures will approximate $6,000,000, of which $2,500,000 will be spent for equipment and the balance on double track and improvement of terminal facilities.

During the past week orders for sixteen Mallet compound locomotives of the articulated type were given to the American Locomotive Works of Schenectady, and the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia received an order for fourteen Mikado type freight locomotives. An additional order for six passenger locomotives will be placed within a few days, and also a contract for 700 box cars, 350 coal cars, 100 stock cars, and 50 cabooses.

A contract for nine miles of second track between Castle Gate and Kyune, Utah, has been given, and with this stretch completed, the Rio Grande will have a continuous double track line from Helper to Tucker, Utah, of thirty-three miles. Ten thousand tons of eighty-five-pound steel rail will be used in relaying track at various points during the coming Summer.

Surveyors are at work permanently locating a new 2 per cent. line to take the place of the present 4 per cent. grade on the west side of Soldier Summit in Utah.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The National Nassau Bank has elected Henry C. Miller and Laurence H. Hendricks Vice Presidents. J. Christy Bell has resigned as Vice President so as to be relieved of official duties. Arthur W. Gilbert has been appointed cashier to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. B. Noble, who will assume the management of the safe deposit vaults.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of Brooklyn, Hubert G. Taylor, President of the Kings County Savings Bank; Christopher C. Mollenhauer of the firm of Kelsey, Suydam & Mollenhauer, and Charles F. Tuttle of Tuttle & Bailey Manufacturing Company were elected additional Directors.

Pomroy Brothers of 30 Pine Street have prepared for distribution a detailed list of industrial preferred stocks showing yields of from 4.92 to 7.78 per cent.

George H. Burr & Co. of 14 Wall Street are distributing among investors a comprehensive list of packing house bonds.

The semi-annual statement of the Citizens Central National Bank of New York shows deposits of $27,865,255, undivided profits of $392,633, and a surplus fund of $1,500,000.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Colored Cotton Cloth Classified According to Count of Threads.

Regarding a protest in regard to cotton cloth filed by Sherman & Sons Company, the Board of United States General Appraisers decided yesterday partially in favor of the importers. The merchandise consisted of colored cotton cloth, classified as counting between 200 and 300 threads per square inch, and duty was collected at the rate of 7 cents per square yard under Paragraph 308 of the Tariff act of 1897. It was maintained in the protest that the merchandise counts less than 200 threads to the square inch and is dutiable at 40 per cent. ad valorem. From the Appraiser's report and the Collector's letter it appeared a portion of the cotton cloth on the invoice counted between 150 and 200 threads to the square inch, was valued at less than 12½ cents per square yard, weighed between 4½ and 6 square yards to the pound and was properly dutiable at 4¾ cents per square yard under Paragraph 307. The board found that the only question was in regard to the count of threads per square inch and that an error in stating the wrong rate did not invalidate the protest.

J. D. Irwin & Co., were the protestants regarding an importation of erasers and manicure knives composed of fixed or rigid metal blades set into handles of wood or other material. Duty was assessed at the appropriate rates under the provisions of Paragraph 152 of the present Tariff act and it was claimed that because these knives had fixed blades they were not within the purview of that section of the tariff, which they contended covered only such knives as have folding or other than fixed blades. Following a previous decision the protests were overruled.

The board also decided that the classification of Collector Loeb in regard to a protest filed by Pitt & Scott, Ltd., was erroneous. The article in question was a press designed for art printing from engraved copper plates and it was assessed at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 199 as "a manufacture of metal not specially provided for." Judge Fischer could see no good reason to deny the importation classification as a printing press at 30 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 197 and the protest was accordingly sustained.

An importation of guest cards by Massee & Co., was assessed with duty at 35 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 415, but the importers held that they were dutiable at 9 or 9½ cents per pound as "lithographic prints." The board found that the cards were lithographic prints between 8 and 20 thousandths of an inch in thickness, under 34 square inches cutting size and die cut and embossed, and ruled that they were dutiable at 9½ cents per pound. Reliquidation will accordingly follow.

DRY GOODS MARKET DULL.

Mail Orders Made Up the Bulk of Yesterday's Business.

The usual week-end dullness was in evidence in the New York dry goods market yesterday, and in consequence the day's trading did not reach any great proportions. Mail orders were received in good number by the principal houses, and, from all accounts, contributed the greater part of the business recorded. Offerings of hosiery and underwear for Spring, 1913, came in for a fair share of the attention of buyers, but the actual business done on these lines showed no improvement over that of the previous day.

The situation in the fine cotton goods end of the market showed little change, the threatened strike in New Bedford having tended to slow up trading because of the evident reluctance of manufacturers to accept any further orders until the matter is definitely settled.

Drills and sheetings retained their firmness despite the limited call experienced during the day. Although quoted somewhat higher than earlier in the season, current prices on these fabrics are comparatively low in the face of the present strength of the cotton goods market. The recent advance in duck caused surprise in certain quarters, but it was said that the increase was declared only after the mills had been booked up for some time to come. Standard lines of denims also shared the rise.

There was little spot business placed in the secondary market during the day. Some nice export orders were reported by one of the principal washgoods factors in the trade, but local business was nominal. Seasonable lines of these fabrics are now being relegated to the background, and the shelves filled with Fall merchandise in preparation for the influx of retail buyers that is due shortly. A good call for ramie linens in pink and blue was in evidence, but white goods, silks, and other seasonable dress fabrics were little wanted.

GINGHAM MARKET IMPROVES.

These Goods Are Expected to Figure Largely in 1913 Dress Goods Sales.

Notwithstanding the doubtful position held by fine dress ginghams earlier in the present season, they will, according to G. A. Stafford of G. A. Stafford & Co. of 55 Worth Street, be a dominant factor in the Spring, 1913, dress goods market. The confidence of retailers in these fabrics is now apparently restored, and advance bookings for the coming season augur well for the future.

"As the new season approaches, indications point to a return of the large demand for zephyr ginghams that were a feature of the sales in the last few years," said Mr. Stafford yesterday. "Buyers who have returned from abroad confirm this opinion, and the selections now being made by purchasers noted for reading the future indicate that stripes and new checked patterns in pinks, delicate blues, and helios will be fashionable. It is generally conceded in the trade that the whole trouble with the sale of these goods in last season was caused by the market having been flooded with goods of inferior construction and poor colorings. This, together with the unfavorable climatic conditions that prevailed throughout the country for several weeks after Easter, greatly curtailed the demand of consumers.

"It is no longer necessary for American buyers to go abroad to obtain desirable lines of dress ginghams. There are several lines of 32-inch zephyrs now being produced by domestic mills that cannot be excelled anywhere. Manufacturers who have equipped themselves to use the expensive dyes necessary to produce fast colors, to spin the yarns as they are spun on the other side of the Atlantic, and who have the expert labor necessary to weave the cloth in the right way, will doubtless soon be sold ahead, as they were season after season a comparatively short time ago."

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

There has been an evident falling off of late in the consumption of American tinned and bottled goods in the Campbellton (New Brunswick) Consular district. The consumption of American boots and shoes, office and library furniture, men's furnishing goods, bench tools, and cereal foods, has also declined. This is due to increasing Canadian production and the effects of tariff duties and freights. American branch factories and concerns located in Canada participate largely in this trade, and have displaced the products of the parent factories. American salesmen have almost ceased their activities in this region.

There has been a notable change in the manner of constructing buildings in Hongkong and other South China ports in recent years, particularly in the use of reinforced concrete. The use of steel in construction there was exceptional until a comparatively recent period.

The Bavarian crop reports for the end of May, with the hay cutting about to begin, show on the whole a rather better than average crop. Warm weather and abundant rain during the month benefited all crops greatly, though neither clover nor lucerne fields have fully recovered from the drought of last Summer.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

There is a pronounced scarcity of long-topped hosiery for women in this market at the present time.

According to a prominent manufacturing wholesaler, an unusual demand for high shoes for men and boys has been in evidence this Summer.

Bead effects, enhanced by metals and by floral motives in chenille and bright-colored ribbon, are leading notes in Fall trimmings.

The call for blazers has been so heavy of late that stocks of the cloth from which they are made are about exhausted.

CROCKERY TRADE NORMAL.

But There Is Delay in Filling Orders for Imported Wares.

Trading in New York crockery and glassware market was up to normal levels this week, considering the season, although no great amount of business was done. Occasional mail orders and visits of buyers for small matchings constituted the bulk of the week's activities. Cut glass, while not as active as it has been, was in fair request.

The lamp trade is already begining to feel the Fall demand, according to the Crockery and Glass Journal. Cheap lamps are selling well, and decorated goods are moving in a fair way; metal lamps of the higher grades are also begining to move. Despite the fact that the glass factories in Pittsburgh and vicinity are closed, orders are coming in rapidly. Staple wares are in good demand, with blown and stem-ware lines also receiving considerable attention. There is a general quiet in the Western pottery district at the present moment.

Import orders placed in the Spring are arriving as fast as labor troubles in Europe permit. French goods are coming over in a fair way, but importers of English ware are severely handicapped. The recent advance in prices declared on English goods caused no little comment, but for the most part importers accepted the situation gracefully.

The domestic toy business opens this month, and while no rush is expected, it is generally believed that sales will equal those of last year.

PORTO RICANS MAKING LACE.

A Hundred Thousand Women Employed, but Industry Is Not Organized

Opening up what in time may become an immensely profitable field, a hundred thousand Porto Rican women are now engaged in the making of hand-made lace, according to the Lace and Embroidery Review. Hand-made lace valued at $18,000,000 was imported into this country from Switzerland in 1907, on which a duty of 60 and 70 per cent. was paid. Just what the future possibilities of the Porto Rican industry are, therefore, remains to be seen.

A short time ago lace making was almost unknown there. To-day few women in the island are not adept in the making of laces and embroideries that vie with the needlework done by the nuns in the French convents.

As yet very little of the Porto Rican product has reached the department store. The demand far exceeds the supply, and private individuals are buying the goods at remarkably low prices as rapidly as they are made. It now remains for some enterprising person to organize the workers and furnish new designs and the materials. So far it has been entirely a cottage industry, and similary in many ways to that of Ireland.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Commenting on general business conditions, Dun's Review says:

The volume of business reaches seasonable proportions. With abundant harvests, which now seem assured, there should be an early and heavy demand for merchandise. The Steel Corporation reports 5,807,000 tons of unfilled business, which insures continued activity, while new orders almost equal production. New England footwear manufacturers are resuming operations, following the usual closing down at this season, and many buyers are in the Boston market; prices asked are higher, and both leather and hides are in demand at the advanced quotations. Building is quite active, June permits aggregating $76,600,000, an increase of 12.4 per cent. over last year; for the six months the gain is over 20 per cent. There is a slight recession in copper, following the late advance, but world's stocks showed a sharp decrease during June. Time money is stronger, reflecting in part the demand by merchants, and semi-annual reports by the leading corporations show good gains compared with the corresponding period in 1911. All statistical records point to improvement. Railroad earnings for June are 3.9 per cent. larger than a year ago, while bank clearings for the ten days of July increased 8.2 per cent. over last year and 4 per cent. over 1910.

Bradstreet's says:

Most news as regards economic matters is encouraging. Favorable crop progress, improved sentiment as to the future, maintained activity in finished steel operations, some growth in buying for Fall, a concededly good half year's business in textile manufacturing, accelerated building operations, and better retail trade, due to widespread clearance sales, comprehend the leading favorable features revealed by this week's reports. Of course, jobbing and wholesale lines continue to reflect more or less dullness as regards prompt business, but as a general rule preparations are being made for a relatively active Fall trade.

FARMERS ARE PROSPEROUS.

Government Statistics Show They Are Receiving More for Products.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Farmers of this country were being paid more by 17.5 per cent. for their products on July 10 this year than they received last year at that time, according to Victor H. Olmsted, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Agriculture.

This increase in prices was the average on crops, which represent about three-fourths of the value of all crops of the Nation. The increases included: Corn, 11 cents; wheat and oats, 15; barley, 12; rye, 6½; buckwheat, 6; potatoes, 7; hay, $1.56; hogs, 99; beef cattle, 80; veal calves, 61; eggs, 2½; butter, 3; sheep, 28; lambs, 51; milch cows, $1.90; milk, $2½; beans, 43; sweet potatoes, 16; onions, 21; clover seed, $2.89; timothy seed, $1.44; wool, unwashed, 3; cabbage, 21; broom corn, $10 (ton;) bran, $3.48.

Products on which prices decreased included; Cotton, 3 cents; flaxseed, 7 cents; apples, 27 cents, and cottonseed, $4.14 a ton.

BROKERAGE FIRM INDICTED.

Louisiana Cotton Men Accused of Intent to Defraud Customers.

The indictments charge the withdrawal of collateral from the bank while the firm was known to the defendants to be insolvent, with intent to defraud its creditors.

Weekly Failure Report.

Bradstreet's reports 252 business failures in the United States during the week, against 170 for the previous week, and 196, 202, 206, and 258 for the corresponding week of 1911 to 1908. The middle States had 77, New England 36, Southern 58, Western 45, Northwestern 9, and far Western 27. Canada had 28, against 22 for the preceding week. About 93 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had capital of $5,000, or less, and 4 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

Statistics of Imports.

Imports of dry goods at the Port of New York for the week ended July 6 were valued at $2,490,130 and imports of other merchandise at $12,255,279. Imports of specie for the week ended yesterday were $101,541 silver and $624,070 gold. Exports were $927,163 silver and $2,480,925 gold.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Generally Higher—Cotton Up—Coffee Dull and Lower.

Wheat advanced on uneasiness over the Spring wheat crop. Old crop deliveries of corn and oats were strong and higher on technical conditions; new crop deliveries were influenced by favorable weather. Provisions were dull. Lower cottonseed oil values are again scored with moderate liquidation. Cotton hesitated early, but closed strong at record levels. Wet weather East and dry conditions in the Southwest were factors.

WHEAT.

The market advanced about a cent a bushel, and closed at the top. The market was strong early, influenced by reports of very light offerings of new Winter wheat and rumors regarding black rust in the Northwest. Later the advance was about lost, but in the last hour, on rumors of more black rust developments, prices went up with a rush, and shorts were good buyers. The reports regarding rust indicated as yet very little of a serious nature. The weather continues wet, and not unfavorable for the spread of rust, and the trade was apprehensive of serious injury. It is early for the rust to be a material factor. In 1904 the rust did not become serious until late in July and early in August, and the big advance in the market that year was in the first half of August. The conditions which produce rust seem to be those of wet and heat. It is a fungus disease, most severe in hot, wet seasons. The spores which develop in the form of red rust are not considered serious. A late set of spores, which appear in the form of the black rust, is the kind which causes the damage, and whether this phase of the development is early or late makes the difference between serious damage and unimportant injury. More rains were reported in the Northwest, and in some sections the temperatures were fairly high. In the Southwest the movement of wheat is very slow; in five days the receipts have decreased 5,000,000 bushels, compared with last year. It is expected, however, that the movement will increase materially within a short time. American exports for the week were 2,495,000 bushels, against 1,801,000 last year; Argentine exports, 1,552,000 bushels, against 1,544,000; Australian, 384,000 bushels, against 640,000; Indian, 2,632,000 bushels, against 1,664,000. Indicated world's exports were 10,095,000 bushels, against 13,024,000 last week. Spot wheat was firmer. No. 2 red quoted $1.16, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.19½; No. 1 hard Winter, $1.14¾; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.17.

OTHER GRAINS

CORN.—Old crop deliveries were strong; new crop heavy. July and September advanced ⅝ to ⅞c, owing to stronger cash markets. The interior centres quoted cash corn ½ to 1½c higher, while the movement of old corn is small, and the demand continues active. Interior shipments are nearly equal to the receipts. New crop deliveries were influenced by the favorable crop and weather news and predictions of a bumper outturn. Exports for the week were 150,000 bushels, against 614,000 last year. Argentine exports for the week were 5,985,000 bushels, against none last year; since May 1 the Argentine has exported 49,000,000 bushels of corn. The cash market was firm, with No. 2 quoted up to 83¼c, free on board.

OATS.—Cash oats and near-by deliveries were strong, Chicago July closing 2¼c up, due to technical conditions and an oversold position of the July on the new crop prospects. Fear that the movement of new oats may be delayed resulted in active covering. New crop months improved ⅜ to ½c, in sympathy with the advance in July. Cash oats were firm, with standards quoted 55½c in elevator; No. 2 white, 55½@56c; No. 3 white, 55@55½c.

PROVISIONS.

Small dealings were again reported in hog products, with prices fractionally easier. Cash product continues dull. Hog receipts were about 85,000 at all points.

COTTONSEED OIL.

A liberal volume of business transpired during yesterday's session, but without altering the sagging tendency of values. Inquiry on the decline was moderate, but there was no scarcity of offerings. The heaviness in lard for a time seemed to precipitate selling movements, and while the excitement in cotton attracted a great deal of attention, the demand inspired by the less favorable reports from the South was readily satisfied. Best advices are that the consuming demand is not as dull as several weeks ago, but not large enough in the aggregate to arouse enthusiasm.

COTTON.

At the termination of the day the market was resting at record prices, not only for the movement, but for the season, showing gains of about 1c a pound since the first of the month. It was essentially a day gratifying to the holders of contracts, and the light offerings noted as prices ascended strengthened the impression that in most quarters a further rise was being anticipated. During the morning there was irregularity and hesitation, with gains averaging about 5 to 9 points on the opening call, eliminated in the ensuing trade, but as the session progressed selling was readily absorbed and a strong undertone developed. Considerable gossip circulated to the effect that interests antagonistic to the list the last few days were again impressed with the weather news and had re-entered the market on the bull side.

It appears as though the expected change to favorable weather over the area east of the Mississippi is not about to materialize as soon as was hoped for. The map disclosed showers in practically all of the States in the Eastern and Central belt, excepting Alabama, with the precipitation rather heavy in sections of Georgia. The situation was aggravated by predictions of more showers over night in these districts, while there were no indications of rain for the Southwest. An increasing number of complaints relative to the dry weather prevailing in Texas was discerned, and while conservative authorities still aver that moisture is not imperative as yet, it was apprehended that unless there was relief over Sunday the reports would assume a more alarming tenor early next week.

From sections of Mississippi and parts of the Southeast, supplementing the advices of excessive precipitation, was a renewal of reports that insects were active. Reports were not all pessimistic, but those of a bullish character predominated, and with the present temper of the trade there seemed little inclination to give serious heed to the accounts of a more hopeful aspect. Habersham King summarized the developments over the belt this week as favorable to 90 per cent. and unfavorable to 10 per cent., the condition having been decidedly adverse in parts of Tennessee, while the weather was only unsatisfactory to 2 per cent. of Georgia. This report was more bearish than had been looked for, but its effect was very limited.

Other features which exerted influence during the day were the continuance of large spot sales at Liverpool, although the foreign market was not quite up to expectations at the start. The Manchester accounts are extremely good, and the American spot situation is perhaps the strongest of the season, with little indication of weakening. Assertions have been made in fact that unless there is a marked betterment in the crop outlook there is little prospect of the early movement of new cotton causing any pressure of moment. In some quarters the opinion prevails that present levels discount the situation, but it is obvious that the inclination to oppose the advance is not general by any means.

Spinners' takings this week were 190,000 bales, against 123,000 last year. The into-sight was 33,000 bales, against 12,000 last year, and since Sept. 1 totaled 15,425,000 bales, against 11,695,000 last year. A decrease in the visible of American cotton of 157,000 bales was suggested, against a decrease of 155,000 last week and a decrease of 111,000 last year, the total American visible aggregating 2,008,000 bales, against 1,118,000 last year.

TO CALL PRESIDENT VAIL

In Western Union's Suit Against W. N. White Over a Disputed Bill.

Theodore N. Vail, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, is to be called as a witness in the company's suit against William N. White if Mr. White's lawyer, Charles Caldwell, can serve him with a subpoena by Monday.

Mr. White is contesting a bill for $620 on the ground that the rates are excessive, and his attorney has examined several officials of the company in an effort to learn on what the rates are based. None of them was able to tell him, and he argued yesterday before the referee, J. Campbell Thompson, that Mr. Vail's testimony was needed.

Whatever may be the outcome of the suit, Mr. White says, he will take the matter to the Inter-State Commerce Commission in order that the company's rates may be investigated.

EDUCATION NOTES.

A short time ago Secretary Palmer of the Board of Education made a request of the Municipal Civil Service Commission for approval of the promotion of Michael J. Daly, an Inspector of Masonry and Carpentry, for two emergency periods of fifteen days each. Assistant Chief Examiner Murray has stated to the commission that it is a matter to be decided by it whether there is warrant in the rules to grant the request under the circumstances, which are cited.

The Committee on Elementary Schools, at its meeting on July 16, will consider, among other matters, the Board of Education budget for the coming term, so far as it relates to the elementary schools.

The Executive Committee, which has been authorized by the Board of Education to transact business for it until September, probably will meet on July 24. It is believed that it will empower Vice President John Greene, who is Acting President of the board in the absence of Mr. Winthrop, to appoint a special committee to confer with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment with regard to the public school system.

Supt. of School Supplies Patrick Jones, whose bureau is criticised in the report of Charles G. Armstrong, Consulting Engineer and Expert, made to the Special Committee on School Inquiry of the Board of Estimate, is, and has been for some time, seriously sick. In his absence the bureau is being conducted by Deputy Supt. Arthur L. Brasefield.

Miss Emma Krauss of 1,140 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, who acts as Secretary to the Committee on Elementary Schools, will spend her vacation in Maine, visiting Portland, the Maine Coast, and the White Mountains. She expects to leave the city on July 20.

The suggested amendments to the by-laws of the Board of Education, in regard to the discharge of school pupils by Principals, were opposed at the last meeting of the Board of Education by Commissioners Churchill and Barondess, and action on the amendments were postponed until the September meeting of the board. Commissioner Churchill said he had been informed that the amendments added to the power of the City Superintendent, and that, if this were so, he was opposed to them. The City Superintendent, he said, had quite enough power as it was. It would be well for the board to prevent increase of that power. Dr. Maxwell said that the amendment did not increase his power, but simply changed the by-laws so as to make the rule concerning discharges of pupils uniform.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on Aug. 3 to fill a vacancy in the position of nursery man at $840 a year in the Western Navajo School, Arizona. MAY NEVER CAPTURE BRONX GIRL'S SLAYER

SEEK A MISSING YOUTH

Neighbor of Julia Connors Had Been Jailed for Impairing a Child's Morals.

Of the many clues that have reached the police since twelve-year-old Julia Connors was found dying last Sunday morning in a vacant lot at 172d Street and Third Avenue, the Bronx, the detectives who have been at work on the case under Capt. Price said yesterday that they had eliminated all but a few, and that these were not promising. It is possible that the murderer will never be captured.

The police are anxious to learn more of the movements of Nathan Swartz, a young man who is now out on parole after serving eighteen months for impairing the morals of a minor, under Section 183 of the Penal Code. The Swartz family moved on Thursday afternoon from the flat on the second floor of 3,970 Third Avenue, which is next door to the house in which Julia Connors was slashed and stabbed by the slayer. The detectives are making no accusations against the young man, but they are anxious to find and question him.

The Swartz family consists of Samuel Swartz, his wife, who came here from Roumania some years ago; a married daughter, two other daughters, and two youths, of whom Nathan is said to be the youngest. They moved to the Third Avenue house about nine months ago, and, according to the neighbors, lived very quietly. The flat they occupied has windows upon the airshaft just below the rooms in which the little girl was attacked.

A member of the family went to the storage warehouse of W. A. Waite, Tremont and Park Avenues, on Thursday morning and told Mr. Waite that the family was going away, and that they wanted to have their things moved that afternoon. This person was told that such an order was unusual, but as there was a van idle that afternoon it could be done. There had been a death in the family not long ago, and Mrs. Swartz said they wanted to leave the flat.

At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon a van driven by Columbus Jones, a negro, was at the door, and the family moved their things from the flat to the Waite storage place. It was said at Waite's that the present address of the family was not known, and that their things were there.

In view of these facts the detectives began to investigate the moving of the family. It is said that Nathan left home on Friday or Saturday last. He had been convicted on July 14, 1910, of a misdemeanor in impairing the morals of a minor. He was sentenced to Hart's Island for an indeterminate period of not less than six months or more than three years. His record in the institution was good, and on Jan. 12 he was released and placed upon parole. He reported regularly twice a month to Parole Office Hogan at the Parole Board Office, 20 East Twentieth Street.

Swartz would soon have gained his complete liberty and on his last visit to Hogan on July 3 he was told to return within a few days and sign the papers necessary to release him from supervision. He did not return, and Hogan began an inquiry to learn what had happened to him.

At the time of the young man's conviction the family lived at 3,741 Third Avenue. The young man had been left in charge of a dentist's office in West 111th Street when, it was charged, he attacked a thirteen-year-old girl who called there. He is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 134 pounds, and has a sallow complexion and a pock-marked face.

One of the detectives at work on the case said yesterday that it had been established that there was no key to the flat where it is believed Julia Connors was slashed and stabbed and the door of the flat was left open. The lock is an ordinary one, easily fitted, and the police believe that it is possible that the man might have had a key which enabled him to lock the door while there with the child. There was also much talk of some one having slept in the vacant flat for at least two nights before the commission of the crime, but the police doubt this, as there were no evidences of any one having passed the night there. The only room which shows evidence of the crime is the bathroom.

Florence Molz, the twelve-year-old girl who kept the police busy for forty hours after the crime by her fanciful tales, was brought into the Children's Court yesterday. The girl had told the police that she had accompanied Julia Connors to the coal cellar in the basement of the house in Third Avenue, and she identified two men as having taken a hand in the crime. Confronted by her mother, she broke down before Coroner Shongut and confessed that she had invented the whole narrative and had not even seen Julia Connors on the day she disappeared. She was then given into the custody of the Children's Society until it could be learned if the child had proper guardians.

She told Justice Hoyt that she had "meant to be a good girl," but somehow kept repeating the stories she had heard from other children. Charles Molz, her uncle, a member of the Saratoga police force, asked that the child be given into his care. She was remanded into the care of the society until her uncle came for her.

A man who is said to have accosted a little girl was brought into the West Side Court yesterday. The prisoner said he was John Bergen, thirty-two years old, of Chicago. He was held on a charge of disorderly conduct for examination on Monday.

Bergen was arrested at a drug store at 542 Tenth Avenue on Thursday night. The complainant against him is Catherine Cavanaugh of 625 Tenth Avenue. The girl said she was returning from a dressmaker's when Bergen spoke to her. She continued on her way, and the man, she said, followed her for blocks. He wanted to buy her some candy. It was near the drug store that she caught sight of her brother and told him what had happened. The brother gave chase and the Chicago man fled into the drug store, where he was saved from a beating by Policeman Brown of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station.

When Magistrate Butts put the hearing over to allow the prisoner to get counsel and placed the bail at $500, the prisoner took out a roll of bills and gave the clerk $500 in cash. Policeman Brown, who made the arrest, said that Bergen had told him he was a priest, and he was led to believe from his prisoner's talk that he was about to sail for Europe. Father O'Keefe of the Church of St. Benedict the Moor, who was in court, said he did not believe the prisoner was a priest.

Speakers at the open air meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Party of the Thirtieth Assembly District, held last night at 149th Street and Bergen Avenue, said that the case of Julia Connors was another reason why women should have the vote. The speakers were Mrs. Olive Bergen and Miss Martha Klalschken. They said that it was not the fault of the police that such poor protection was afforded to residents of the Bronx, but rather to those in charge of the government who made such conditions possible.

PASTOR FALLS UNDER TRAIN.

Dr. McClements Hurt in Trying to Get on Moving Cars in Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 12.—The Rev. Dr. S. Ross McClements, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, went to James De Forest's gymnasium in West Allenhurst this afternoon for his usual Friday afternoon exercise. When he departed from the gymnasium he saw a train for Asbury Park standing in the station and ran to catch it.

Two cars had gone by when Dr. McClements reached out for the platform rail and attempted to swing himself aboard the third car of the train. His feet slipped and he fell to the ground. His body rolled under the wheels, and two cars passed over his legs and severed his right hand at the wrist. Timothy McQuimby, chauffeur for F. D. Stoutenberg, who stood at the south end of the station platform and saw Dr. McClements fall, called to the engineer to put on the brakes. The train was stopped in time to save Dr. McClements from further injury.

De Forest was one of the first to reach the injured pastor. He helped lift him to a northbound freight train, and accompanied him to the Long Branch Hospital. The minister regained consciousness while on the way, and requested Dr. H. W. Bennett of Allenhurst, who also accompanied him to the hospital, to destroy his library and sermons if he died. Hospital physicians said the pastor could not live.

Dr. McClements is 45 years old, and came to the Presbyterian Church here from Rutherford two years ago. He is an Irishman, and his parents live in the North of Ireland. He is a graduate of Dublin University and Princeton Seminary. His wife died some years ago.

EXHAUST DESTROYED VANIMAN'S AIRSHIP

JUST OVER ENGINE EXHAUST

Hydrogen Gas from Safety Valves Ignited from Continuous Exhaust from Propeller.

The explosion of the gas envelope of Melvin Vaniman's airship, The Akron, which wrecked it 2,000 feet in the air at Atlantic City July 2, and sent its crew of five plunging with its entangled mass into the ocean, was due, not to the action of the sun's rays, as at first supposed, but to a fault in construction which allowed the expanding gas to exhaust directly over the exhaust of the propeller engines, thus igniting it. This is the conclusion reached by Charles Hillman, one of the oldest and most experienced aeronauts, and he was familiar with the construction of The Akron.

Mr. Hillman is at the Hotel Calvert here. He said yesterday that he was in Atlantic City June 15, and visited Vaniman's hangar at Absecon Inlet and discussed with Mr. Vaniman the details of The Akron's construction. One of the first things that struck his notice, he said, was the arrangement of the six exhaust valves in the gas envelope, by means of which the gas, when it began to expand, was allowed to escape. This was Mr. Vaniman's invention to prevent the very accident that happened. These valves, according to Mr. Hillman, were placed three on either side of the envelope, in a horizontal line slightly on the lower side of the bag. Four of the valves, located fore and aft, made for an exhaust directly over the exhaust of the regular propellers, while the two in the middle opened just over the differential propeller.

Consequently, when any one of the valves was opened, as was done by means of a string, when the gasbag became highly inflated there would necessarily be a strong rush of gas. And further, the high degree of inflation which would naturally cause the dirigible to make a rapid ascent, would all the more quickly bring the continuous exhaust from the propeller engines into contact with the downward exhaust from the gas bag.

Mr. Hillman is confident that this is exactly what happened in the case of The Akron. "It was seen by the rapid ascent of The Akron," he said, "that she carried a full head of gas. Persons who had seen the flight told me when I arrived in Atlantic City, soon after the mishap, that they had seen Vaniman trying to retard his ascension by bringing the differential propeller into service. When the engine failed to work he resorted to his exhaust valves in an attempt to decrease the buoyancy of the airship, and when he opened his forward valve, allowing a great volume of gas to rush through the large opening, which must have been 24 inches in diameter, why the natural thing happened—the hydrogen gas was ignited by the exhaust from the engine.

His theory, Mr. Hillman thinks, is borne out by the fact that one of the exhaust valves which has been found was smoked, showing signs of the explosion, and further by the statements of spectators who remarked that the forward engine was smoking.

Mr. Hillman expressed his opinion to Melvin Vaniman in regard to the danger in the arrangement of the escape valves in the gas envelope, but he says that Mr. Vaniman was not in the least apprehensive.

Vaniman did not intend to try to cross the ocean in the Akron, as it was when the final ascension was made, according to Mr. Hillman, because there were two difficulties he had not been able to overcome. One was the problem of taking up water, and the other was the problem of conserving the gas when its expansion necessitated its exhaust. To overcome the latter difficulty, Mr. Hillman says that Vaniman told him he had thought of constructing a long steel tube directly under the gas envelope as a reserve chamber for the exhaust gas. Then he had further planned to reinforce the gas bag itself with an outer covering of steel wire.

Eighteen years ago Mr. Hillman started in business with the Nicholson Balloon Company in Providence, R. I. There he constructed the big balloon Monarch, 128 feet high, said to have been the largest balloon in the world. Two years ago he was associated with Glenn H. Curtis at Hammondsport, N. Y., having charge of Curtis's own machine while the aviator and inventor was flying. During the middle of last year Mr. Hillman designed a tri-bi-plane, said to have been the first machine of its type. He has made flights in many of the countries of Europe and in the United States, numbering in all 1,400.

SEEKING A REALTY FRAUD.

Grand Jury Investigating Deal Involving Long Island Property.

The District Attorney's office has referred to the Grand Jury charges involving a large realty company of this city. It was said that the transactions figuring in the charges amount to more than $1,000,000.

According to information obtained at the District Attorney's office yesterday, one of the largest firms of capitalists in Maine were the complainants against the realty company and the specific charge under consideration involved a transaction concerning land near Garden City, L. I. The Maine capitalists, it was said, began dealing with the realty company in 1907, intending to buy up all the Long Island property they could get hold of in the vicinity of Garden City, Floral Park, and Hempstead Plains.

The realty company, it was charged, agreed to buy the land for the Maine men and receive a suitable commission, but instead bought the property for itself and transferred it to the Maine capitalists at a figure far in advance of he price paid.

Counsel for both parties were in the corridors outside the Grand Jury room, as well as residents of the sections of Long Island in which the land involved is situated. The realty company was also represented by some of its officers, and two prominent capitalists of Maine, head of the corporation making the complaint, were also present.
